New State Council Inaugurated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—A denunciation of parliamentarism and pacifism and a laudation of the "victorious leaders of Germany's army and navy" were delivered today by Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering at the inauguration of the new Prussian state council at Berlin university.

The 71 counselors who took the oath in unison included leaders of the Nazi storm troops, the army, navy, church, art, commerce, industry, and also the former ruling houses—Prince August Wilhelm Hohenzollern and Prince Philipp of Hesse. The impressive ceremony was witnessed by the crown prince and crown princess of Italy, the papal nuncio, Msgr. Orsenigo; Ambassador William E. Dodd of the United States, and other members of the diplomatic corps.

No Voice in Government.

The powers of the old state council are abolished. The new council is merely a consultative body. It has no voice in the government of Prussia. The press comments that the organization of the new council foreshadows the future constitution of the German government.

Neither President Paul von Hindenburg nor Chancellor Hitler was present at today's ceremony, since the event concerned Prussia alone.

"The new council is entirely my work," Gen. Goering proudly proclaimed. "It will have no voting powers because that is a relic of parliamentarism. I alone bear responsibility—to my leader, Hitler; to the nation, and to God."

The Nazi revolution had destroyed parliamentarism and pacifism, Goering continued, adding that men of action now ruled Germany. As evidence of the perils of parliamentarism he recalled that today marked the seventy-first anniversary of the day "when for the first time in old Prussia parliamentarism most dangerously raised its head and rejected the military budget by a great majority. The kaiser summoned Bismarck and the fate of the peoples and the reich thus was decided for decades."

Recalls Fight for War Chest.

Gen. Goering further recalled that the reichstag twenty years ago refused to vote sufficient military expenditures.

"Thus was Germany deprived of the fruits of its years of long struggle with the entire world," he cried.

Discussing the membership of the new council, the premier declared it was Prussia's duty of gratitude to call in the victorious army and navy leaders. With this remark he thanked Field Marshal August von Mackensen, Gen. Karl von Litzmann, and Admiral Adolf von Trotha for consenting to cooperate.

Goering then thanked Chancellor Hitler for restoring to Prussia her old "symbol of honor and freedom." He pointed to the Prussian flag, which again bears the imperial eagle with a sword and thunderbolt in its claws. The flag now includes the Nazi swastika emblem.

Storm Troopers Line Route.

Ten thousand storm troopers lined the route from Wilhelmstrasse to the university as the counselors drove by amid cheers. Mounted storm troopers of Goering's bodyguard wore brown steel helmets. Hitler guards and police detachments participated in the procession. The capital was decorated with flags and church bells pealed during the ceremony.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath made plain Germany's attitude toward disarmament. Addressing foreign correspondents, Von Neurath blamed "the spirit of the Versailles treaty and the one-sided treatment of Germany" for the unrest in Europe.

"Foreign countries must realize that the German people are entitled to defend themselves with all their powers against this spirit," the foreign minister said.

Demands Arms Equality.

Von Neurath declared he regretted the failure abroad to appreciate the aim of Germany's foreign policy.

"Germany wants peace, not war—reconstructive peace at home and abroad," he continued.

He reiterated that Germany does not wish to arm and that the nation is only seeking the same weapons other countries possess.

"Weapons of defense should not be denied Germany," the foreign minister continued. "Is that arming Germany? Highly armed states arm further and instead of disarmament only talk of security. Germany demands security and equality."

AGREE ON COAL CODE ORDERED BY ROOSEVELT

May Be Ready for Signature Today.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Agreement on a code for the soft coal industry was announced tonight by President Roosevelt, 25 hours after he had demanded such action within 24 hours.

In a statement released to newspaper men at 11:15 p. m. by Gen. Hugh Johnson the President declared that all the conferees who have been working on the code had agreed to terms and that they would recommend it to the other representatives of the industry.

The Official Statement.

The statement follows:

"After all day conferences a bituminous coal code agreeable to the conference representatives has been approved for recommendation to the groups of individual operators and associations of producers to whom copies have just been delivered and are now under consideration for action at the Shoreham hotel. The conferees represent a very large majority of the national tonnage."

The various groups of coal operators, after receiving copies of the code, took it under consideration at once and Gen. Johnson said that by morning he expected sufficient signatures to the code would have been obtained for its submission to President Roosevelt in the forenoon.

Hope for Peace at Last.

It is upon this code that the hopes of President Roosevelt and of many interests in the industry are based that at last peace and a semblance of economic order will be restored in an industry long plagued by striker cutthroat competition, bloodshed, and misery.

Asked if he could see any possible hitch which might prevent the signing of the code by the President tomorrow, Gen. Johnson replied:

"I'll believe it when I see it. But I don't think there is a chance of a hitch."

The President's statement, hastily prepared in the NRA offices and approved over the telephone by Mr. Roosevelt, did not mention that the code had been approved also by himself and the NRA staff, but Gen. Johnson said that it had full approval.

Still Talk of Dissatisfaction.

Reports tonight were that several of the nonunion coal operators, who had been among the holdouts who prevented agreement on the code during the last six weeks, would not approve it at all.

Gen. Johnson made it plain that he would consider these an unimportant minority, and that under the premise laid down in the NRA, providing for the laying down of a voluntary code by a "substantial majority" of any industry, the code will be enforced upon the entire industry.

Whether this will result in a court fight, brought by the protesting operators, to test the constitutionality of the NRA, was not definitely known tonight.

Misses Deadline by Hour.

The agreement announced by Gen Johnson did not quite come within the 24 hour limit set by President Roosevelt in his insistence that a code must be agreed upon without further delays. The President's ultimatum was laid down at 10:10 o'clock last night, and with the announcement of the agreement tonight at 11:15, the deadline was overrun by an hour and five minutes.

Substantial changes are made in the code from the original code as proposed by Gen. Johnson on Sept. 7. Instead of a 36 hour average work week the present code provides for a 40 hour week of five 8 hour days.

The labor provisions prescribed by the NRA are contained intact in the code, and although modifications of the provisions, proposed on behalf of both operators and union representatives, were not included, the code does include an official interpretation of the labor section which was handed down on Aug. 24 by Gen. Johnson and NRA Counsel Donald R. Richberg.

Eliminate Weight Dispute.

The code gives the workers the right to elect their own check weighmen, thus eliminating disputes that the miners were not being given fair weight on the tonnage they produced.

Provisions were also included to require that "checkoffs," or deductions from the wages of workers, must be made only under regulations laid down

RUNNING INTERFERENCE FOR THE REST OF THE TEAM

City of 11,000 Inundated by Tidal Waves

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 16 [Saturday].—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Pamlico early today sent a wireless message that the highest tides on record had inundated New Bern, N. C. They were due to a tropical storm, sweeping north.

A wireless message from Capt. Deotta of the Pamlico read:

"Morehead City cut off from the rest of the world except by coast guard radio station. Lashed by 60 to 70 mile wind. No casualties or severe damage yet reported. Highways and streets blocked by debris. New Bern water front six feet under water. Wind of hurricane force. Full extent of damage unknown. Coast guard dock, storehouse and garages washed away."

Norfolk coast guard headquarters reported that an 80 mile wind was blowing at Hatteras, where the barometer reading was 29.00.

Storm Strikes East Coast.

New York, Sept. 16 (Saturday).—[Special.]—A hurricane struck Lookout, N. C., on the middle Atlantic coast, at 9:30 o'clock last night, sending a heavy gale up toward the north Atlantic seaboard. The seaboard during the day was lashed by increasingly heavy rain, driven by an easterly wind that once touched 34 miles an hour.

The full force of the tropical storm was expected to be felt in the Norfolk area after 6 o'clock this morning.

Two deaths were caused in Virginia and Carolina by earlier gales and property damage was heavy in New Jersey. Air travel from New York south was tied up.

32 Dead, 1,000 Homeless.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 15.—(AP)—F. S. Pier, manager of the Pan-American airport at Tampico, late today sent a radiogram to the New York offices of the company saying that 32 persons had been killed and about 1,000 left homeless by the tropical hurricane which struck the Mexican city today.

The message was relayed through the Pan-American office here.

Pier said a great amount of property damage was caused by the storm. He told of having to ride horseback two hours to get from the city to the airport.

Homes Are Unrooted.

Striking the mainland between Tuxpan and a point halfway between Tampico and Brownsville, the storm unroofed homes in Tampico and sent huge waves against the shore. A Mexican telegraph company office manager at Tampico notified his Galveston office that heavy rains, beginning yesterday, had flooded low sections of the city.

A miniature tornado which blew down several frame dwellings northwest of Brownsville, injuring seven Mexicans, was regarded here as an offshoot of the hurricane. About the same time, the wind velocity at Port Isabel, on the gulf coast northeast of Brownsville, reached 100 miles an hour for a four minute period.

75 Mile Gale Rages.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—(AP)—With all communications to the northeast coast of Mexico interrupted, the country waited anxiously tonight for news of the tropical storm which struck this morning with hurricane force.

With the exception of Tampico the coast is mostly uninhabited.

Dispatches from Monterrey tonight said the hurricane had not struck there, but had swerved westward after striking the coast, causing considerable damage to buildings and crops between Tampico and the city of Cardenas; also between Tampico and Ciudad Victoria.

TALE OF LEAPING HORSE SEEMS A BIT FISHY, SAYS JUDGE

When Samuel Lewis, 22 years old, 1311 South Avers avenue, a laundry truck driver, appeared yesterday before Municipal Judge Eugene L. Holland to answer a charge of failing to obtain a chauffeur's license, Harry Lichtman, grocer at 1701 West Roosevelt road, stepped up beside him and asked:

"What about my horse?"

"What horse?" asked Judge Holland.

"My horse that I had to have shot yesterday because Lewis ran into him and broke his leg," said Lichtman.

"O, no," declared Lewis. "We met and the horse jumped up on the hood and kicked until he broke his own leg."

"Say," asked Judge Holland of Lichtman, "was your horse a steeplechaser?"

"No," said Lichtman. "My horse was 20 years old."

"Your story sounds fishy," said the judge to Lewis. "The charge is changed to reckless driving and you are fined $50 and costs."

Hangs for Two Hours Over Precipice by One Foot

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—William Silverthorn, an American tourist, had a narrow escape from death in the Alps last Saturday when he hung for two hours over a precipice by one foot which had caught in some roots. Silverthorn slipped on a slope and slid to the brink of a 600 foot precipice. His cries for help were heard in the valley below and an expedition rescued him.

N. Y. Stock Exchange May Go to Newark

Newark, N. J., Sept. 15.—(AP)—The Newark Ledger in a copyrighted story says incorporation papers for the National Stock exchange were filed today in the office of the secretary of state at Trenton.

Members of Stock Exchange.

The corporation has 2,500 shares of no par value and was incorporated through the New Jersey Registration and Trust company, East Orange, with the following officers: Col. William Freiday, South Orange, president; J. Robinson Duff, 88 Park avenue, New York, vice president, and George Brown, Golden Bridge, N. Y., treasurer, both stock exchange members, and Vincent H. La Frence, Hackensack, secretary.

The Ledger quotes Col. Freiday as saying the object of the new exchange is to establish itself in Newark to carry on the business now conducted in New York in order to avoid New York City's new high taxes.

Aim to Avoid New Tax.

"This move was made after much deliberation and a series of conferences among members," Col. Freiday is quoted. "The new city tax of $4 per 100 shares moved in stock transactions is supposed to be effective for six months only, but the same tax imposed by the state recently was extended a year and the members are skeptical that this city levy will be lifted at the end of six months.

"We have in mind Newark as the scene for the exchange and consider the present center market as the site to be used."

ROCKEFELLER JR. PAYS PENALTY OF $200 ON TAXES

Tarrytown, N. Y., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr. paid a penalty of $200 today for failing to pay the first installment on his taxes in North Tarrytown on time. The taxes were due in July. For the first time since the Rockefellers came here 35 years ago, the taxes on portions of his holdings were not paid. The check was for $7,804.

A step which made it probable that the forecast rise of 1 cent a quart in Chicago's milk will go into effect in a few days was taken last night by representatives of the larger distributors and of the Pure Milk association in the Hotel La Salle.

They agreed, following three weeks of negotiation, on the details of a revised contract which will pass the increased retail revenue to the farm producers belonging to the Pure Milk association. Copies of the suggested agreement were forwarded at once to the farm administration at Washington, which is a party to the milk marketing pact. The new price of 11 cents a quart will go into effect as soon as Washington approves.

Causes Break in Strike Ranks.

The definite agreement made an immediate break in the ranks of the McHenry and Kane county farmers who have been conducting a strike since Tuesday against Chicago. At Hampshire in Kane county, where no milk has been handled for three days, Pure Milk association members voted, 95 to 13, to resume deliveries today. Hampshire was one of three places regarded as the strongholds of the strikers, the others being Cary and Crystal Lake in McHenry.

During the day there was considerable disorder. At Harvard deputy sheriffs and loyal association men battled in the afternoon with 500 strikers and forced them to permit several truckloads of milk to go through to the Bowman Dairy company's Harvard plant.

Two Pickets Knocked Down.

In the rioting two pickets were knocked down. Their names were kept secret and the anti-strike forces asserted they belonged to a group of fifty idle Chicagoans recruited by E. L. Bost, the strike leader, to help stop milk shipments.

Negotiators of the new price pact, Dr. Fred D. Waimsley for the distributors and Don N. Geyer for the Pure Milk association, made a statement concerning it as their meeting broke up.

They asserted that the farmer would get the entire benefit, and that an audit of the distribution companies books seemed to indicate that the producers would receive approximately $2.10 a hundred pounds for milk to be sold to the retail trade in bottles and approximately $1.45 a hundred for milk sold to be used in cream form.

A Gain for Dairymen.

Admitting the Pure Milk association farmers to the cream market is an important advance of their interests, it was said. At present they receive $1.75 a hundred for the milk sold as whole fluid and only about 85 or 90 cents for the remainder of their production, classed as surplus.

The agreement provides that for every hundred pounds of fluid milk he sells each farmer may add 35 pounds of milk for cream purposes. For the entire amount assigned to these purposes the farmer will get a raise of about 20 per cent in his revenue.

It was learned unofficially, the negotiators declining to discuss the matter that the continuance of the new price levels would depend on the ability of the government to enforce the milk code adopted for the area. So far it is unenforced, although the pact has been in existence for weeks. Under its terms no milk is allowed to be sold at less than 10 cents a quart now, whether delivered to homes or called for in stores. But more than a hun-

O'DONNELL AND ADDUCCI FREED IN "VAG" CASES

Not Guilty Verdict for Mrs. Scheck.

Mother Acquitted

Mrs. Rose Scheck wins acquittal as accomplice in the police murder for which her son John is under sentence of death. This was the only upset during the day in the criminal court judges' war on crime. Six more criminals were sentenced to prison, bringing the total to 284 since the campaign was launched. Details on page 2.

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, south side beer hoodlum and ex-convict, was acquitted yesterday by a jury before Judge Frank M. Padden of a charge of being a vagabond under the terms of the new vagrancy law. The jurors required only 37 minutes to free him.

A few hours later another alleged hoodlum, James [The Deuce] Adducci, reputed right hand man of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, was found not guilty of a similar charge by a jury before Judge Thomas A. Green in the Felony court. This jury was even faster than that which tried O'Donnell, requiring only 23 minutes to turn Adducci loose.

Both defendants bubbled with joy on hearing the verdicts, and shook hands with the jurors who freed them. O'Donnell announced he would go home and "get a nice mess of fish cooked by the old lady." Adducci declared he was glad of the opportunity to "vindicate himself with Chicago."

Six Others Convicted.

O'Donnell and Adducci are the only defendants to win acquittals in the new vagrancy drive. Six other hoodlums, convicted as vagabonds on their reputations, have been sentenced to the Bridewell.

O'Donnell's demeanor yesterday was in sharp contrast to that of Wednesday when he appeared as a witness in behalf of his pal and bodyguard, Sanford [Gimp] Rosenbaum, in whose case the jury disagreed. No wisecracks marked his brief appearance on the witness stand and he answered questions in a subdued manner.

The state case was built on testimony of policemen who said that O'Donnell had served seven months in the penitentiary for receiving stolen goods and had been arrested while carrying a revolver. The defense countered with six witnesses who pronounced O'Donnell's character above reproach.

Waive Cross-Examination.

The state surprised the defense by waiving cross-examination and O'Donnell voiced his disappointment over the fact that the move ruined his plan to match wits with the prosecutor. He reproached Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash: "I don't deserve a break like that from you guys. You should have let me have a few words to say."

The comedy parts yesterday were taken by Mrs. Alice Shanahan, a retired policewoman, and John H. Cunningham, deputy clerk of the County court, who appeared as witnesses in O'Donnell's behalf.

Mrs. Shanahan, a woman of ample poundage, mounted the witness stand, seated herself comfortably, and turned to the judge.

"Could I make a few remarks?" she asked.

"No," the judge answered, "you cannot."

"I want it understood that I have no ax to grind," the witness announced.

"And I want you to know," the judge countered, "that all you have to do is answer the questions."

"Man of Good Character."

Mrs. Shanahan said that she had known O'Donnell "since he was born" and considered him a man of good character. She was followed to the stand by Cunningham. The laughter that greeted his opening answers caused the judge to clear the courtroom of those who could not find seats.

"Where do you live?" Cunningham was asked.

"I moved the other day," the witness answered. "I don't know my address unless I look."

After fumbling in his pocket for several seconds the witness brightened and announced that he lived at 2643 West 22d street.

"Where did you live before that?" the attorney asked.

"I've forgotten that," the witness replied and began a second search in his pockets.

"Here it is," he said, producing a piece of paper. "It was 2642 West 22d street."

The last chance for O'Donnell to interject his personality into the trial went glimmering when the judge overruled his request to make his own closing argument. A copy of the proposed speech was handed to the press. It proved to be some 200 words of high sounding rhetoric, said to have been prepared by and added to by lawyers in the Criminal Court building.

"At its end," O'Donnell explained, "I would have had Lizzie, the old lady, and the kids stand up and applaud and that would have wowed 'em."

The O'Donnell family made a dramatic entrance shortly after the opening of the trial. O'Donnell's mother, Mrs. Annie O'Donnell; his wife, his three children, Patrick, 17 years old; Dorothy, 15 years old, and Rita May, 11 years old, swept down the aisle in single file and found seats at the front of the courtroom.

Sends His Family Home.

As the jury filed in to hear the closing arguments in the afternoon O'Donnell passed out kisses to his mother, wife, and two daughters and bade them go home.

Besides Mrs. Shanahan and Cunningham, Dr. Henry Christiansen, the O'Donnell family physician; John P. Otto, owner of a meat market at 8004 South Ashland avenue; Hugh Daly, a former assistant United States district attorney and a neighbor of O'Donnell, and Harry H. Pence, sales manager of the Case-Moody Pie company, appeared as witnesses for the defense. All said that O'Donnell was a man of good character.

Bows to His Counsel.

O'Donnell, called by his attorney, Jay J. McCarthy, took the witness stand, bowing low to his counsel, the jury and the judge.

"What is your business?" Attorney McCarthy asked.

"I'm in the beverage business," O'Donnell answered.

Q.—What is the name of the firm? A.—Sterling Products company.

Q.—What business is the company engaged in? A.—In the manufacture of ginger ale, root beer, and soft drinks.

Q.—On a large scale? A.—Yes.

Q.—Are you a partner in the business? A.—Yes.

Q.—What other business were you in? A.—Real estate.

Q.—When? A.—Back about four years ago.

In with a Syndicate.

Q.—Where was the real estate? A.—One parcel was at the northwest corner of 79th street and Kedzie avenue. I was in with a syndicate in a subdivision proposition. I also had a parcel on the southeast corner. I owned that myself.

"Did you sell any of the real estate?" the prosecutor asked. O'Donnell answered that one parcel had been sold for $600,000, in spite of an objection by the state.

Q.—Do you know whether or not you had the reputation of a habitual violator of the law on or about Aug. 31, 1933? A.—I do not.

Q.—Did you have the reputation of carrying a gun about that time? A.—No—or any other time.

Q.—Did you ever violate any of the laws of the United States? A.—Never.

Q.—When were you arrested? A.—Aug. 31.

Q.—Did you have a gun on you? A.—No.

Talking to City Inspector.

Q.—What were you doing at the time of your arrest? A.—I was walking down La Salle street. I had just left the Builders' building and was talking to a city inspector.

Q.—Do you know whether or not you have the reputation of being a gangster or hoodlum? Answer yes or no. A.—I don't get the question when you shove it around that way, but I never had that reputation.

Q.—Do you know whether you had the reputation of carrying concealed weapons? A.—No, I didn't.

Policeman Martin Connolly testified that he had arrested O'Donnell on Dec. 8, 1928, and that the hoodlum was carrying a revolver at that time.

Melzar P. Delano, chief deputy clerk of the Criminal court, read from the records of the court the fact that O'Donnell was found guilty of receiving $1,700 worth of stolen goods in 1917 and was sentenced to serve one to ten years in the penitentiary. The records showed that O'Donnell served seven months before his release.

DRUGGISTS OFFER 58,000 STORES FOR LEGAL RUM SALES

Retail drug stores would constitute 58,000 controlled outlets for spirituous liquors and therefore offer the most logical means of distributing whisky when prohibition is repealed, according to a statement yesterday by Wheeler Sammons, managing director of the Drug institute. Sammons addressed the Associated and Affiliated Chain Drug stores meeting at the Palmer house.

"The Drug institute," he said in an interview, "represents 60 per cent of the retail trade as well as 80 per cent of the drug wholesalers and 90 per cent of the manufacturers, with a total membership of 35,000. Drug stores are already under state control for sale of spirits and narcotics. Drug stores are in the best position to supply the demand for liquor and make the necessary reports to state licensing and taxing authorities because they are already doing it.

"Pharmacists are licensed and risk their reputations and built-up business if they violate the liquor laws. Drug stores will do everything possible to prevent the return of the open sale of liquor in saloons."

DOCTOR CAUSES WOMAN'S ARREST FOR FAKE CALLS

Miss Martha Anderson, 43 years old, a maid at 426 Briar place, was arrested by Sheffield avenue police last night and charged with disorderly conduct on complaint of Dr. Alva A. Knight, 3000 Sheridan road.

Dr. Knight, an assistant physician at the Presbyterian hospital, charges that Miss Anderson, a former patient, has annoyed him in recent weeks by telephoning fake calls to his office at 55 East Washington street and to his home. Some of those calls took him on futile trips to Evanston and Oak Park, he said. Yesterday, according to his story to police, he received 46 calls at his office. He said he recognized the caller as Miss Anderson and then obtained a warrant for her arrest. The physician said he knows of no reason for her alleged actions.

GRANTS A WRIT TO FREE WOMAN FROM HOSPITAL

A writ of habeas corpus to free Mrs. Beebe O'Conner, 24 years old, 12 East Walton place, from the Frances Willard hospital, where she is allegedly held because of inability to pay a bill, was granted to Attorney Max Rosenzweig by Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein yesterday. Hospital authorities were ordered to take Mrs. O'Conner to court this morning.

The petition alleged that Mrs. O'Conner entered the hospital on Sept. 6 for an appendicitis operation. She was told that the operation would cost $32, according to the petition, and has already paid $20. The petition alleged that the hospital demands another $28, which she is unable to pay, and has refused to allow her to leave, although she is willing to pay $12, pursuant to her agreement.

400 SURRENDER BEER LICENSES IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—More than 400 restaurants that paid $80,000 in total fees for the privilege of dispensing beer and wines under the new state beer law two months ago have surrendered their licenses to the New York City alcoholic beverage control board, chiefly because they have found a lack of business.

It was learned today that applications for beer licenses are still coming into the local office at the rate of 75 a day. Most of the 400 places closing were in the metropolitan area of the city.

No more applications for beer licenses will be accepted by the county boards throughout the state after midnight tonight under a general order sent out ten days ago by the New York state alcoholic beverage control board.

The purpose of temporarily halting the acceptance of additional applications for the sale of beer and wines was brought about because the total number issued at the present time is almost 41,000 licenses for the entire state.

JURY LIBERATES MRS. SCHECK IN POLICE KILLING

Mother of Courtroom Slayer Acquitted.

Mrs. Rose Scheck, 50 years old, accused of complicity in the murder of Policeman John Sevick, for which her son, John, is under sentence of death, was found not guilty last night by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's court. The case against her was built upon the supposition that she had supplied her son with the gun he used to kill the policeman.

The jury returned its verdict of acquittal one hour and fifty minutes after retiring to deliberate. This indicated that one or more of the jurors had held out for a while for conviction. However, none of the jurors would comment on their actions. The verdict was received with a smile by Mrs. Scheck and cries of happiness from three of her children, Joseph and Mary Scheck and Mrs. Rose Nelson, who were in court. As she stepped out of court a free woman she was embraced by relatives and friends.

Six Sentenced to Prison.

The acquittal was the only particular upset during the day in the Criminal court judges' war on crime. Earlier, six penitentiary sentences were meted out. One of them was a term of 99 years imposed on Joseph Fess, who had pleaded guilty to the murder of George Carl, a grocer.

The case against Mrs. Scheck was admittedly the weakest, and the prosecutor, Mal Coghlan, had not asked for a specific penalty for her.

Defense Attorney Ross Lee Laird in a two hour address to the jury said that the prosecution had failed to show by circumstantial evidence that Mrs. Scheck was guilty. He asked the jurors not to convict her on "suspicion or probability." He made a play for sympathy on the fact that Mrs. Scheck is the mother of seven children and that one of them, John, is under a death sentence.

"Don't Sidestep Duties."

"This is a displeasing task for me as I presume it is for you," Prosecutor Coghlan told the jurors. "I am asking that you do not sidestep your duty as jurors. If you are thinking of sympathy remember the picture of Mrs. Sevick, the widow of the policeman. Remember how she was bent by grief when she was called to the witness stand. If you want to bestow sympathy give her a thought.

"We have all performed our duty and now it is up to you. If the evidence does not warrant a conviction then do not return a guilty verdict. If it does do your duty fearlessly. As to penalty that is a task for you to decide."

Last to Be Sentenced.

The murder sentence on Fess, who is 27 years old, was imposed by Judge Walter P. Steffen. Fess is one of the last of the conspirators in the Carl murder on July 16, 1932, to be sentenced.

Vera Carl, the widow of the slain man, is under a fourteen year sentence; John Milesec, her sweetheart, and Ivan Grilec, her brother, are under life sentences as a result of jury trials. Edward Veselka, a go-between in the murder negotiations, is to be tried later.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty recommended the ninety-nine year sentence for Fess. He said that his actions justified the electric chair, but because Fess had helped the state to solve the crime he would waive the death penalty.

"However, he is the type of man who should never again be allowed outside of prison walls," said Prosecutor Dougherty. "I recommend the ninety-nine year sentence rather than life because that will assure his permanent incarceration." The judge accepted his recommendation.

"Ninety-nine years is a lot of years," said Fess to the judge when asked if he had anything to say.

Other Sentences in Crime War.

The other sentences imposed yesterday, which brought the crime war total to 284, were:

WILLIAM PORTER, 30 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Michael Feinberg for embezzlement of $4,700 from the Fountain Products corporation, of which he was treasurer.

STANLEY ZEBROWSKI, 18, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Donald McKinlay for robbery. He was one of four men who robbed Charles H. Plitt in his meat market at 8256 South Racine avenue on Oct. 9, 1932.

JOHN MUIR, 34, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge McKinlay for forging the name of Armand J. Carrozzo, 1100 North La Salle street, to a $150 check.

BEN FARBER, 20, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge James J. Fardy for burglary of the butcher shop of Harry Kavinsky, 3547 Roosevelt road on July 28. He was placed on probation for a previous burglary in September, 1932.

WILLIAM MASON, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge Fardy for stealing an automobile owned by Joseph L. Berry, 5123 Dorchester avenue. He was sentenced to Pontiac reformatory in 1919 for burglary.

Although they were indicted under the habitual criminal act, which would have given Farber a 20 year sentence and Mason life in prison, no effort was made to enforce this count of the indictment. They were tried by the judge on pleas of not guilty. The assistant prosecutor said he did not introduce evidence to cover the habitual counts, and said he was satisfied with the penalties imposed.

AARON SAPIRO LOSES EXTRADITION FIGHT; MUST RETURN HERE

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Aaron Sapiro, the New York attorney indicted with Al Capone and 23 others in Chicago in a racketeering conspiracy, lost his fight against extradition tonight when Justice Francis Martin of the Appellate division denied his application for a stay.

The hearing on the application was staged in the living room of Justice Martin's home in the Bronx, with detectives from New York and Chicago, representatives of the prosecutors of those cities, and a number of newspaper men crowding the room.

When Sapiro realized that his counsel had failed in obtaining further delay of extradition he signified his readiness to go west, but asked that he be permitted to return to his down town home to say good-by to his wife.

LANG GETS NINTH CONTINUANCE IN NITTI SHOOTING

Harry Lang, suspended police sergeant, won his ninth continuance yesterday on charges of assault to commit murder and perjury when he appeared before Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court and pleaded that he has no money to employ an attorney.

"Are you trying to play horse with the court?" demanded Judge Lynch. "I want to inform you that this is no joke."

He continued the case until Sept. 25, warning Lang that if he is not represented by counsel at that time the public defender will be assigned to take his case and the trial will go forward, anyway.

The charges against Lang grew out of the shooting of Frank Nitti, Capone gangster, a year ago in a downtown building. Lang shot Nitti, charging that Nitti had first wounded him in the arm. Later it was testified that Lang did all the shooting, putting a bullet into his own arm and that Nitti was unarmed.

CONSTITUTION DAY OBSERVANCE AT FAIR SUNDAY

Officials of A Century of Progress announced yesterday that a threefold celebration of Constitution day on Sunday will be held on the Exposition grounds, under the auspices of the Constitutional Educational association, the Sons of the American Revolution and the Fair itself.

The ceremonies will begin at 1:30 o'clock in the Court of Honor at the 12th street entrance, where the troops from Camp Whistler in the Exposition grounds will assemble, with a battery of artillery from Fort Sheridan. A reviewing stand will be built outside the Illinois Host House on the west side of the Avenue of Flags, and Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius and Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to President Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair, will review the military parade as it moves south toward the Hall of Science.

International day will be observed with a program in the Court of States at 2 o'clock, under the direction of Maj. Felix J. Streyckmans of the Fair staff.

CUBAN LEADERS SPURN PLEA TO BACK PRESIDENT

Demand Grau San Martin and Cabinet Quit.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 15.—President Ramon Grau San Martin launched an effort today to bring all revolutionary groups under one tent to put down the counter revolt against the present revolutionary provisional government, which took office Sunday.

Late tonight Grau San Martin met representatives of all factions which aided in ousting President Machado on Aug. 12 with a view to finding some "all Cuban" program to settle economic woes and to call a truce on political battling between rival revolutionaries.

15 Jailed as Plotters.

Among those at the conference were representatives of the ABC and the OCRR, both secret revolutionary societies; of Mario G. Menocal, former president and leader of the Conservative party; of Col. Carlos Mendieta, head of the Nationalist union, and of Miguel Mariano Gomez, former mayor of Havana and head of a party of his own known as the Marianistas.

In response to Grau San Martin's plea that the various groups join in supporting his régime, the revolutionaries submitted a counter proposal that he and his cabinet resign. The conference will be continued tomorrow.

Meanwhile the government began to press down on its enemies. Fifteen physicians and lawyers were arrested and taken to Cabanas fortress, charged with plotting against the government. They are held incommunicado. The authorities refused to make public their names. This is accounted an example of what in last night's manifesto of the new, basic law of the revolutionary government was termed "fiscalization of individual rights."

The National hotel, where 450 army and navy officers are bottled up by the army, is still the center of interest. The siege tightened today and the question of a showdown, how, when, and of what sort, still was in the air.

ABC to Hold Aloof.

The ABC withdrew as possible participants in any battle. Radical students, equipped with Springfield rifles from the army arsenal, are drilling at the university. The "Caribbean army," as the student outfit is called, supports the Grau San Martin administration, while the ABC, which favors the overthrow of Grau San Martin, is not well armed.

The ABC takes the view that if fighting starts it will be warfare between the Caribbean army of students and other students and youths in the ABC organization. The ABC issued a manifesto today telling its members that with the present setup this is no time to enter an armed fight that would prove to be a fratricidal war.

"This is not our hour. Our hour will come," said the ABC manifesto.

Telephones are disconnected at the National hotel, guests are not allowed to enter by soldiers on guard outside, and tonight the army talks of cutting off the water supply and electric lighting. The hotel has its own electrical plant, however, and five days' supply of water and 20 days' supply of food.

Today troops loyal to the Grau San Martin régime put down a garrison revolt at Consolacion del Sur, in Pinar del Rio province. Capt. Fernando Aran, with a cavalry squadron of 200 men, revolted last night after telling all the troops that the entire army was in revolt against Grau San Martin.

Twenty Rebels Captured.

Troops were sent out to put down the uprising. Capt. Aran and twenty others were captured by soldiers. The prisoners were brought to Havana, where they were lodged in Cabanas fortress.

Capt. Aran and his officers, the staff announced, will be tried by summary court martial on charges of high treason and desertion.

The office of secretary of war and navy was abolished at the cabinet meeting this morning as an economy measure and the money spent on the old department will be used in establishing a new labor department.

War and navy affairs are to be handled by the interior department under Antonio Guiteras.

One pressing problem of the government is to establish itself on a basis where government checks will not bounce back—they are rubber now.

A new plan for the national lottery was announced by Secretary of Treasury Manuel Despaign under which 70 per cent of the ticket sales will go for prizes, 10 per cent to venders and 20 per cent to the government.

Breeding Ground for Graft.

In former régimes the lottery has been the breeding nest of corruption in politics. Favored persons were put on the lists for tickets at ground floor prices and were able to turn them over to brokers at a profit of $10 a ticket. Thirty tickets at $10 each meant a gratuity of $300 a month and one favorite way of keeping politicians, senators, and congressmen in line was to distribute these "botellas," as the profit between the ground floor price and the price to the broker was called.

Strikes are being called on and off and on again throughout Cuba. The railroad brotherhood of Camaguey province is to meet President Grau San Martin tomorrow to discuss the unpendings strike of the Consolidated Railroads of Cuba, which has been set for Sept. 28 unless Horatio Rubens, president of the company, accedes to higher wages for some 20,000 employés. The railroad says pay raises cannot be met from the present revenues.

Sugar Mill Seized.

A sugar mill at Mabay, in Oriente province, was taken over by workers despite the efforts of Sergt. Buden to reach a compromise. Several mills at various points of the island have been taken over by workers in recent weeks.

Cities in various parts of the island report that everything is quiet on the streets, but every once in a while trouble pops. Oriente province, a special trouble center, is 80 per cent Negro and the most illiterate of all the provinces. Extreme radicals and communists are said to be in control of the government at Santiago.

Manuel Sanchez Benitez, de facto mayor of Santiago, resigned today after he narrowly escaped death by a mob. Benitez was accused of paying money from public funds to former city hall officials appointed during the Machado régime. After a beating with clubs, Benitez was taken to army barracks where he was forced to resign.

Machado Cries "Robbery."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 15.—"It is pure robbery. The strong box was in my wife's name," former President Machado of Cuba, who is in exile here, said today when told that Senora Machado's safe deposit vault in the Banca Commerciale de Cuba at Havana had been sealed up by the new Cuban authorities and its contents of bonds and jewelry confiscated. The vault was said to have contained valuables worth more than $1,000,000. Gen. Machado is gray and lined of face and not nearly as well looking as when he landed in Montreal two weeks ago. He is under constant guard, fearing assassination by Cubans who followed him here.

Going to Reno for Divorce

ADRIENNE AMES.

Property Settlement

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Adrienne Ames, movie star, today told friends she would be in Reno tomorrow to establish residence preparatory to a move to ask a divorce from Stephen Ames of New York. Miss Ames' representative said a property agreement had been entered into between Miss Ames and the Los Angeles representative for her husband.

What had been announced a few weeks ago as an amicable family separation between the actress, formerly Adrienne Truex of New York, and her husband, became a decisive break last week after Ames came on here unexpectedly following a visit to Honolulu and made a midnight surprise visit to the Beverly Hills home of his estranged wife.

BELIEF GROWS U. S. WILL LAND TROOPS IN CUBA

Threats of Violence May Force Action.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—A highly increased possibility that United States troops might be forced to land in Cuba was felt tonight by administration officials as diplomatic reports related threats of mob violence against an American factory and other thickening trouble clouds gathering over the island.

At the state department all questions as to how grave the situation was considered were left unanswered. The understanding was given that anything said officially might adversely affect conditions in which the United States has not yet taken a hand.

White House Silent.

At the White House, also, questions concerning the Cuban turmoil met with general silence, the word being that domestic problems were engaging President Roosevelt primarily.

In informed quarters elsewhere, however, the belief was expressed that the situation in the island, as far as the United States was concerned, had become more grave than at any time since Provisional President Grau San Martin took office.

23 Warships in Cuba.

There have been constant reiterations by administration leaders that this country would avoid intervention in Cuba provided American lives were not endangered.

Should troops be called upon to protect Americans in any one locality, the United States would not apply the term intervention unless the local or national government was taken over by the armed forces.

The navy has lengthened its string of ships around the island. In all it has 23 war vessels in Cuban waters, including a concentration of eight destroyers at the Guantanamo base.

NOTED GRID STAR OF 1903 CAUGHT IN CUBAN TROUBLE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Fred S. Norcross, listed in press dispatches as one of a party of American engineers in the trouble zone at Cristo, Cuba, where striking workers have surrounded a mine, was revealed today as "Norcy" Norcross, the 135 pound "midget" who played quarter back at University of Michigan in 1903, 1904, and 1905 when the Wolverines were making gridiron history.

Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost recalled him as "the gamest, toughest football player that ever played on a Michigan team," and, more significant under the circumstances, a player who always knew how to extricate himself from trouble.

As captain of the 1905 team, Yost recalled, Norcross took such a battering in the first half of the final game with Chicago that he had to be removed, under protest.

MOVIE OPERATOR BEATEN WITH GUN IN UNION OFFICE

Clyde Osterberg, 30 years old, 4716 Winthrop avenue, was beaten into unconsciousness yesterday in the office of the motion picture operators' union at 500 South Wabash avenue, scene of frequent killings and other acts of violence in the past.

Osterberg, revived by police, named as his assailant Emmett C. Quinn, steward of the union and right hand man of Thomas E. Maloy, czar of the organization. Quinn, he charged, beat him with a revolver after he had accused him of cheating him out of the major portion of his wages.

Quinn fled after the slugging, as did all the other employés in the office. Other tenants in the building called police. A search was started for Quinn after Osterberg had promised to sign a complaint against him today.

Charges Pay Is Withheld.

Osterberg told police that he has been working under Quinn as a motion picture operator in the Chrysler Motors exhibit at the World's Fair. He worked 11 hours a day and the company was charged $2.50 an hour for his services, he charged, but Quinn gave him only $35 a week.

Osterberg quit work a few days ago, Tuesday, he said, he got into a fight with Quinn over the money and gave Quinn a black eye. He had made several trips to the union office to see Maloy without finding him and had returned yesterday for that purpose.

Hurls Electric Fan at Quinn.

"Quinn was in the office when I went in," said Osterberg. "He started calling me obscene names and I picked up an electric fan and threw it at him. Then he drew his revolver. Everybody else in the office ran out and Quinn started beating me over the head with the butt. That's all I remember."

The office where Osterberg was beaten is the same in which Fred Oser, a rebel member of the union who had sought a court accounting of Maloy's administration of its affairs, was shot to death last March by Ralph O'Hara, Maloy's bodyguard. O'Hara was indicted for murder and acquitted.

Letters Demand $5,000 from Valparaiso Banker

Valparaiso, Ind., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Federal postal authorities have under investigation an attempt by an extortion letter writer to obtain $5,000 from Hannibal H. Loring, former Circuit court judge. The letters were written to Mr. Loring, who is president of the First State bank of Valparaiso. Each missive told the banker that he would be slain if he did not comply with demands. The money was to be deposited at a given place on the Kankakee river, south of Kouts.

FORD FIRM TO HIRE 5,000 WAR VETERANS, OFFICIALS ANNOUNCE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Officials of the Ford Motor company today revealed they had authorized the Wayne county council of the American Legion to employ 5,000 men—all war veterans—for work in the company's plants here.

The company, which has not signed the NRA automotive code, said the addition of the 5,000 veterans "had nothing whatever to do with the NRA, but with the expansion of production."

One official said that with the additional employment, the total number of Ford workers in the Detroit area will be approximately 50,000.

Rex Humphrey, commander of the Legion council, was given authority to employ the veterans, and said that 300 a day will be hired, beginning Monday, until the quota has been completed. The company expressed the hope that no outside labor would come to Detroit to seek positions, saying that only men from the Detroit area will be employed.

Humphrey said the applicants will have to present their army discharge papers, and otherwise prove that they have a "fine war record."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 15.—Canal Zone employés were unable to buy Ford parts at the Canal Zone government storehouse today. It was indicated that the ban will be in effect until Henry Ford signs the NRA.

2 Freshmen at Purdue Bring House with Them

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—When Wilbur Sibbitt and Dorris Ruark, Putnam county farmer boys, entered Purdue university today they brought their house with them. Because of scanty funds they bought a shack from a road contractor, mounted it on an automobile chassis, fitted it up for study and living quarters, and rode to the university to enroll as freshmen. They obtained the use of a vacant lot near the campus and set up their unique dwelling. When their food supply, brought from home, is exhausted they will ride back to obtain more from their parents. They expect to cut their college expense to $200 a year.

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A program of education in which the Fair will coöperate with the schools, colleges, and boards of education in Chicago and its vicinity was launched yesterday by officials of the Exposition. It is the present plan to work out a general system by which special tours will be conducted, with the Fair furnishing lecturers and special guides where needed.

Fair officials assert that a tour through the grounds and a visit to the various exhibits will have more educational value than any single day in the classroom. While the program is not in finished form, the basic principles have been formulated.

Practically every type of educational activity is represented in some form at the Fair. Students of any one general subject will be permitted to spend their time at specific exhibits.

Call on Chicago School Board.

Officials of the Fair yesterday visited the board of education of Chicago to outline the plan for consideration. Other groups to be approached include the parochial schools, the University of Chicago, Northwestern, De Paul, and Loyola universities and various private schools. In certain courses all of these institutions use the so-called "field trips" in which visits are paid to industrial and business plants.

The present plan, which has been approved by educators, points out that the latest developments in all fields, the latest ideas in science and philosophy and the greatest single collection of exhibits are displayed at the Fair. In no other single place would a student have the opportunity to see such a varied and at the same time intensive array of exhibits as are now on display at the Fair. After a general tour additional time could be devoted to the particular exhibits in which a specific group was interested.

Only 46 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair

$17,560,000 Spent at Concessions.

That the expenditure by visitors is continuing on the same scale as heretofore was indicated by the auditor's report of yesterday. The report as of yesterday morning shows that $17,560,125.26 has been spent in the various concessions. At the same time gate collections totaled $5,700,595.35, exclusive of pre-season sales of approximately $1,200,000. The daily average revenue to the Fair from the concessions, increasing each day as the Fair's percentage reaches the higher brackets, is $20,000. Thursday, when the lowest attendance of recent weeks was reached, the Fair's percentage was $12,000, exclusive of many of the larger concessions which make weekly reports only.

Officials were gratified yesterday at the turnout of visitors, which attained a total of 150,204 at 11:30 p. m.

WIDOW ENDS HER LIFE.

Mrs. Kate Hevesy, 54 years old, 2846 North Keating avenue, a widow, committed suicide in her home yesterday by inhaling gas, because of despondency over the death of her husband two months ago.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

An all day exhibition of art drawings from 19 Chicago high schools and from high schools in 19 foreign countries will be held today in a program at the Illinois Host house. A concert by the Lake View High school band and addresses by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan, and Miss Lucy S. Silk, supervisor of art, will be on the afternoon program, beginning at 2 o'clock.

The galleries containing the official A Century of Progress exhibition of painting and sculpture in the Art institute will remain open until 10 p. m. daily, beginning Oct. 1. Announcement of the change was made yesterday by Director Robert B. Harshe.

The science of healing, with nurses and physicians and kindred professions represented, will be depicted at the Fair today. The opening program will be in the court of the Hall of Science at 10 a. m. with an address by Dr. Bert W. Caldwell, executive secretary of the American Hospital association. At 7:30 p. m. in the same place, after a day's tour of the grounds, the visitors will assemble for a formal program. Paul H. Fesler, president of the Chicago Hospital association, will preside at the evening functions. Addresses will be made by leading professional men, and the program highlight will be reached with the singing of choral numbers by 1,000 nurses in uniform.

C. C. "Slim" Williams, 52 years old, Copper Center, Alaska, arrived at the Fair yesterday after a ten months' journey with a team of eight dogs and a sled on wheels. He left Copper Center Nov. 20, 1932. For the first 1,800 miles of the 4,600 mile journey Williams traveled on snow, but when the snow gave out he put wheels on the sled and continued.

Five thousand children who had not seen A Century of Progress previously were taken to the Exposition as a feature of South Side day, Capt. William Enright, chairman of an "adopt a child for World's Fair" drive, announced. A special train bearing 1,050 from South Chicago alone, sent at the expense of civic groups, arrived in the morning, he said. Morris B. Sachs sponsored visits for 650 children.

The Odd Fellows of Chicago and the Modern Woodmen of America in the district each had a program at the Fair yesterday. The Odd Fellows' program was in the Court of States at 3:30 p. m. The Woodmen, after a parade down the Avenue of Flags, were addressed by Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to the president of A Century of Progress, and A. R. Talbot of Lincoln, Neb., national president of the order.

WARNS WHOOPEE SPOTS AT FAIR TO STOP RUM SALES

A warning to stop selling liquor was given yesterday to operators of the Oriental village, Streets of Paris, and Hollywood, three of the largest concessions at the World's Fair, by Robert W. Coyne, in charge of the local prohibition unit of the federal department of investigation.

The operators met at his office in response to letters and were told that investigators, acting on a number of complaints, had visited the concessions and had openly made purchases. Mr. Coyne warned that if liquor sales continued his department would take prompt action to stop them. Last night the various drinking spots were reported to be on good behavior.

Investigation of liquor conditions at the Fair has been carried on for weeks by the Exposition authorities, South Park police, and the prohibition department. Several days ago Lieut. Ernest Schondorf of the Fair police arrested William F. Bryan carrying two five gallon cans of alcohol. Efforts of Exposition authorities to dry up the Fair by making purchases and appealing to the U. S. district attorney's office for warrants failed some time ago. The district attorney's office, it was said, declined to discriminate against the Fair on the grounds that liquor is sold generally elsewhere.

Woman, 83, Flies to Fair in Twelfth of 1893 Time

Mrs. J. M. Forney, 83 years old, of Richmond, Ind., took her first flight in an airplane yesterday from Indianapolis to Chicago on an American airways plane. She came to Chicago to see A Century of Progress. Forty years ago she made the same trip in eighteen hours by train to attend the Columbian Exposition. Her flight yesterday took one-twelfth as long, an hour and one-half.

TELEPHONE GIRL WINS SOUTH SIDE CROWN AT FAIR

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Miss Jean Fattore of 6340 Blackstone avenue won over 17 other south side girls and was crowned Miss South Side yesterday at A Century of Progress. The picking of the queen was the chief event of South Side day at the World's Fair, one of a series of community days being held at the Exposition.

Several thousand south siders and others applauded their favorites as the 18 candidates, who had been chosen by district in neighborhood theaters, paraded up and down the platform in the court of the Hall of States.

Gasps When Named Winner.

At the announcement of the judges' decision Miss Fattore, who is 21 years old and a telephone operator in the Woodlawn district, gave an audible gasp, but she managed to smile and say, "Thank you," when the crown was placed on her head.

Her maids of honor were named as follows:

MISS WINDSOR PARK—Esther Daley, 7823 Bennett avenue.
MISS BOULEVARD—Doris Jakoway, 3001 South Ashland avenue.

George W. Fleming, governor of the Illinois and eastern Iowa district of the Kiwanis clubs, one of the judges, said in a speech that the south side is full of pretty girls, those on the platform were especially pretty, so the judges had a tough job.

Prior to the queen event the South Side Home for Jewish Orphans' band played, and members of South Shore post, American Legion, wearing gold trousers and blue coats, presented the colors.

In addition to the queen and her court, two girls received honorable mention: Miss Roseland, Luella Petrie, 12005 La Salle street, and Miss Avalon, Dorothy Brueggemann, 7855 Dobson avenue.

P.-T. A. District Gives Program.

At the Illinois Host building, a reception was held for the queens, attended by President Rufus C. Dawes and other Fair dignitaries. Mrs. Roy Browne Loverin was in charge. Previous to the reception the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, District 1, including south side groups, headed by Mrs. Hubert H. Siddall, gave a program which included songs by the Fernwood Mothers' chorus.

An athletic program was held in the afternoon in the court of the Travel and Transport building, followed by the South Shore Y. M. C. A. Glee club and Auburn Park Lions club band. The Fernwood Boys' orchestra played in the court of the Hall of Science in the morning, followed at night by massed band concerts and choruses. Dancing and music features were given on the Floating theater in the afternoon and early evening.

TRUST CO. UNDER FIRE IN TAX DEBT OF $1,200,000

Push Inquiry Against Old Rosenberg Concern.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $863,028, making a total of $68,095,737 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Sept. 15	$ 25,852	$ 83,108
Uncollected	17,549,781	47,377,951
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 15	$ 102,694	$ 651,293
Uncollected	73,813,594	78,004,747

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $6,643.

An examination of records of tax receivership petitions filed before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki disclosed that the Metropolitan Trust company is named defendant, either as receiver or trustee for properties, in more than seventy cases. The aggregate of delinquent taxes owed by this real estate amounts to more than $1,200,000, officials in the office of County Treasurer McDonough said.

The survey of the court records was the first step in the investigation of accounts of the trust company which was ordered by Judge Jarecki last Tuesday. At that time it was charged in court that the trust company officials had purchased a large number of refrigerators for a building at 6900 South Michigan avenue, instead of using the funds to pay the 1928, 1929, 1930 taxes amounting to $5,759.

Similar Tactics Reported.

Investigators from the state's attorney's office yesterday said they had discovered other properties where similar tactics had been pursued by the trust company as receiver. One of these is a 40 apartment building at 900 East 55th street. On last March 17, the trust company obtained a court order from Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher to install $5,400 worth of electric refrigerators in the apartments, although the delinquent taxes at that time amounted to $15,897.

The investigators recalled that the Metropolitan Trust company is the successor to the Cook County Trust company and is receiver and trustee for most of the properties controlled by the older concern. The name of the Cook County Trust company was changed to the Metropolitan Trust company after it was sold in the spring of 1932 by Moe Rosenberg, ex-convict, former junk dealer, and Democratic political power, who is under federal indictment on income tax charges.

Charge Use of Influence.

Allegations that political influence was used to obtain large profits were frequently made against the Cook County Trust company. Most of the business of this company was said to have been in receiverships on appointments made by Circuit and Superior court chancellors.

Rosenberg announced on June 2, 1932, that he had sold the company to Barnet L. Rosset, head of a firm of certified public accountants bearing his name and chairman of the board of the Phillips State bank, then a going institution, and to C. A. Beutel, president of the bank. The purchase price was announced as $200,000 for the preferred stock of the company and an unnamed sum for 10,000 shares of common stock.

Nineteen days after the purchase of the trust company by Rosset the Phillips State bank closed its doors with deposits of $2,100,000. When the last report was made on the bank's condition by the state auditor on June 20, more than a year after closing, the bank still owed its creditors $2,051,371. Secured claims amounting to $555,000 had been paid, but no dividend had been made to depositors.

Meanwhile Rosset and Beutel continued to operate the trust concern, which become the Metropolitan Trust company soon after the bank failure. It has continued to operate its receivership and trust business. The company's officials remain unchanged.

Auditor Urges Action.

It became known yesterday that an auditor who made an examination of the Phillips State bank's books had recommended that criminal action be taken against several high officials of the institution. The recommendations were made to State's Attorney Swanson shortly before his term expired. They were renewed when State's Attorney Courtney took office, but thus far no assistant prosecutors from the state's attorney's office has been assigned to place the evidence before the grand jury.

The auditor charged that the statutes prohibiting loans by a bank to its own officials without approval by the board of directors was violated when the Cook County Trust company was purchased. In this transaction, according to the auditor's report, $182,955 was involved.

Another alleged violation cited by the auditor's report was the transfer of $425,216 from a commercial checking account to the trust department. This transfer was made on Monday morning, June 30, 1932, the auditor said. His report stated: "The above transactions and others still to be reported were performed after banking hours on Monday, June 20, 1932, and we believe that the only reason for opening the bank on Tuesday morning for one hour was in a measure an attempt to legalize these transactions."

YOUNG ATTORNEY SUES TO COMPEL MAYORALTY VOTE

Biggest Legal Action of His Career.

Attorney Leo D. Dolan yesterday celebrated the elapse of three months since his admittance to the bar by instituting the biggest suit in his career, mandamus proceedings to compel the holding of a mayoralty election. The suit, directed at the election board, was assigned to Circuit Judge G. F. Rush and was set for next Friday.

Attorney Doyle, who is 25 years old, was admitted to practice on June 15 of this year. In only two earlier matters had he attained prominence. He ran for the Republican nomination for state representative last year, received a total of 5,603 votes, and was seventh in the race.

Denounced by Judge.

In 1930 Doyle, who was then a dancing instructor, was denounced by Judge M. L. McKinley for his premarital "companionate marriage" contract, the terms of which were disclosed in court during an alienation of affections suit.

Doyle's client in the present action is a director of the Taxpayers' Civic Forum, for which Doyle himself is counsel. The client is Andrew O'Donnell, who recently presided at a vacant lot massmeeting where Mayor Kelly's resignation was demanded.

Sues for False Arrest.

About a month ago O'Donnell filed suit for false arrest following his detention in connection with the police and federal search for Public Enemy Murray Humphries. At that time O'Donnell admitted that Humphries had lived on an upper floor of the O'Donnell home at 2100 East 72d place before he became a fugitive from justice and that Humphries' mother continued to reside there. He denied that Humphries and "Three Finger" Jack White had used a target range in the basement of the building.

Proposals for work on the Calumet harbor breakwater will be opened at the district engineer's office in Chicago on Sept. 25. Work must be completed before Nov. 1, 1935.

U. S. OFFICIALS HERE TO SPEED WORKS PROGRAM

Discuss Easy Money Plans with Chicago Group.

Leaders of the federal emergency administration of public works came to Chicago from Washington yesterday in the course of a tour of the country in which they are seeking to coördinate and speed up state applications for the federal "easy money."

Leaders of the Washington group were Col. H. M. Waite, deputy administrator under Secretary of the Interior Ickes, and Henry T. Hunt, general counsel of the administration. They consulted with the state advisory board, of which Carter H. Harrison is chairman, and Joshua D'Esposito, consulting engineer, and Charles M. Moderwell, regional director for Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ohio. Some 40 others—army engineers and public officials—also attended the conference.

Seek to Speed Action.

"The purpose of our trip," said Col. Waite after the conference, "is to discuss uniform procedure with the state boards, that they may get their applications in proper shape for immediate action in Washington. We have had to send a number of applications back because they lacked requisite details.

"Of the 3 billion 300 million dollar fund voted by congress in connection with the national recovery act, almost half has been allotted, but most of this was for federal projects, such as highway and naval construction. Most of the remainder will be loaned to the states. The administration is anxious for speed, and would like to allot the whole fund by Jan. 1, to increase purchasing power and increase employment.

Study Chicago's Problems.

"The administration is particularly interested in Chicago, because it is the second largest center in the country, and because of its unemployment problem. The applications of the sanitary district and of the school board for building funds are now being studied at Washington.

"I want it emphasized that the public works administration is no Santa Claus. We are making these loans on collateral, and the government must exercise the same caution that any other lender would use. While 30 per cent of the grants are to 1 outright gifts, the remainder must be repaid, and we must see to it that the borrowers offer adequate guarantees that the government will get its money back."

MOTHER SEEKS CUSTODY OF GIRL NOW IN CONVENT

Mrs. Dorothy Blair of New York City yesterday sought the custody of her daughter, Patricia, 13 years old, before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. The girl was brought into court on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by the mother against the St. Mary's Home for Girls, a convent at 2822 West Jackson boulevard.

Mrs. Blair testified that she placed her daughter in the convent in 1929 after her husband's death. Since then, Mrs. Blair has remarried, separated from her second husband, and is now earning $25 a week. The mother testified that she was refused permission at the convent to see her daughter.

9 STATES SHARE 4 MILLION MORE OF EASY MONEY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Nonfederal construction projects today got another 4 million dollar slice of the federal easy money fund for public works.

Nine states participated in the day's allotments, with Wisconsin and Michigan receiving a portion of the total. In the former state the city of Green Bay received $722,907 for a sewage system and disposal plant and the city of Oshkosh obtained $968,000 for a similar project. Both allotments were on the "loan and grant" basis, 30 per cent being donated outright by the government and the remainder advanced as a loan.

Michigan's share of the day's comments went to Detroit, in the form of a $21,000 grant for sewer construction and a $300,000 grant for street improvement. Both the Detroit allotments were outright grants, representing 30 per cent of the cost of the project. The city, it was said, is to furnish the balance of the money for the two projects, amounting to some $50,000 for the sewer project and $70,000 for the street work.

The other commitments of the day were: $25,000 to Colome, S. D., for waterworks; $710,000 to Augusta, Ga., for a school; $25,000 to Marlborough, Mass., for a sewer; $904,364 to Springfield, O., for a sewer; $20,000 to Red River Bridge, Ark., for a bridge; $290,256 to Omaha, Neb., for a water and gas plant, and $110,000 to North Kingston, R. I., for a waterworks.

SHOTGUN BANDITS ROB TAVERN.

CHARGES MILK ACT THREATENS SMALL DAIRIES

Lawyer Attacks Provision for Uniform Price.

The drive to enforce government control over the Chicago milk market will operate to force "the little fellow" out of business and remove competitors of big dairy interests, it was charged yesterday by Edward Hess, attorney for the Meadowmoor Dairy company. This is one of 80 Chicago dairies which have been ordered by the government to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked for alleged violation of price provisions of the milk marketing act.

"The agreement shoved over in Washington looks like a combination of the bylaws of the Pure Milk association and their Chicago distributors," Attorney Hess said. "No one can comply with the terms of the license, and they can force any one out of business. If the license is enforced from 2,000 to 3,000 men will be without work in the Chicago and metropolitan areas."

Attacks Uniform Price.

Attorney Hess termed as "silly" the provision for uniform price on milk through the Chicago area, and the regulation that forces dealers to charge the same price for milk whether the consumer calls for it or has it delivered.

"A penny a quart means a great deal to the poor people of Chicago," the attorney said, "and there is no justification for demanding the same price for milk purchased at the store and milk that is delivered at cost to the company at the back doors of the millionaires."

Attorney Hess said that the milk situation could be regulated without establishing "an expensive bureau at Washington." He urged that the government set a minimum price to be paid to farmers nad a maximum price for which the dairies may sell the milk, with a privilege to the dairies to sell for less if they desire.

"Now they're talking about raising the price of milk a penny a quart and giving that extra penny to the farmer," the attorney said. "Why saddle extra expense on the consumer under the pretext of aiding the farmer? Why not give the farmer a penny a quart without raising the price? We can sell milk for 9 cents at any time and the other dairies could do likewise if they wished."

Others Protest Program.

Owners of small dairies in the metropolitan area who have been ordered to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked yesterday echoed the protest of Attorney Hess that the government program would force them out of business.

Milton Beck, owner of the Southwest Farm and Dairy company, 3941 South Harlem avenue, Stickney, said that the independent dealers are banding together to fight the government program to "the last ditch."

"One hundred dealers have organized," he said, "and we plan to take the matter to the United States Supreme court. We plan to present a petition to the government signed by 500,000 satisfied customers. Our milk is cheaper and dietitians have pronounced it better than that of the big companies."

Charles Schwingl, owner of the Fairview Dairy Products company, 12219 South Western avenue, Blue Island said that the milk agreement was "too complicated to attempt to understand."

"I am going to continue to sell milk as long as there is profit in it," he said, "regardless of whether it is in violation of the government program."

See Peril to Business.

John O'Meara, owner of the Western Farmers' Dairy Products company, 9519 South Western avenue, Evergreen Park, and Mrs. Rasmus Iversen, wife of the owner of the Evergreen Park Farm Products, 3322 West 95th street, Evergreen Park, both pronounced the government program a death blow to their business if enforced.

Albert Weiland, who operates dairies at 1108 Davis street and 2014 Central avenue, Evanston, said that he and other dairymen of his acquaintance planned to fight the milk program. He protested against the uniform price provision.

"If the price is the same," he said, "why should people buy our milk when they can have it delivered at their door?"

Norman R. Dietz, president of the Independent Milk Distributors' association, said that the 37 members of the association planned to continue operating as usual and hoped to get a revision of the milk agreement. Mrs. C. E. Stade of the Stade Milk store, Rand and River roads, Des Plaines, said she was "afraid the big fellows would have their say after all."

Savants Meet for First Time Since School Days

Three noted chemists, who studied together in Munich thirty-five years ago, met yesterday for the first time since their school days in the apartment of one of their number, Prof. Vladimir N. Ipatieff of the chemistry division of Northwestern university, at the Pearson hotel. Prof. Ipatieff's school friends were Dr. Moses Gomberg, professor at the University of Michigan and past president of the American Chemical society, and Prof. Richard Willstaetter, Nobel prize winner, and Willard Gibbs, medalist, of Munich. The three friends were brought together by the convention of the chemical society.

OUSTED GERMAN RADIO OFFICIAL COMMITS SUICIDE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Prof. Georg Knoepfke, former director of the Berlin Broadcasting company, who was recently arrested, shot himself to death in a sanatorium to which he was taken because of a nervous collapse.

Four other directors, including Alfred Braun, star radio reporter, who were arrested with Knoepfke, are prisoners in a concentration camp. It was announced today that the poet, Ernst Hardt, and Paul Korte, both directors of the West German Broadcasting company, were arrested a week ago on a charge of "corruption."

Dispatches from Erlangen today said that the town fathers have ordered the removal of the statue of the famous Jewish physician, Prof. Jakob Herz. The statue was erected in 1875, four years after his death.

Posters bearing the words, "German women do not smoke," are being displayed in Weissenfels, Merseburg and Seltz by orders of the town councils.

Invite Anglers

The Lincoln park board yesterday for the first time in eight years welcomed fishermen to the north lagoon. The board learned that the pond had become overcrowded with black bass, sunfish, perch and pickerel. Fishing will be permitted in the lagoon for a period of fifteen days. Fly and bait casting and rod fishing is permitted.

ATTENDANCE AT TRIBUNE MUSEUM PASSES 37,000

Attendance at the historical museum on the twentieth floor of Tribune Tower yesterday passed the 37,000 mark since it was opened June 2, in conjunction with A Century of Progress. The thirty-first country was represented the other day with a visit from T. D. Kapadia, an architect of Fort Baubay, India.

Interest in the many exhibits dealing with the history of newspapers and manufacturing processes little known to the general public is great. Several visitors voluntarily commented that they had found the museum "more interesting than anything at the Fair." One man said: "This place makes me think there really is a Santa Claus—I never got so much for nothing."

Much attention is paid by visitors to the series of historical headlines, which they often refer to as "Headlines of Other Days," the name of a W-G-N radio feature. Most visitors spend some time in studying the large built-up wood relief map showing the Outarde river water power developments in THE TRIBUNE timberlands in the province of Quebec.

SWANSON SAILS FROM PANAMA FOR HONOLULU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 15.—Secretary of Navy Claude Swanson sailed aboard the cruiser Indianapolis this morning for Honolulu, where he plans to stay nine days. From Hawaii he will go to Bremerton, Wash.; San Francisco and San Diego, Cal., to inspect the naval bases, and then will return to Washington overland.

Secretary Swanson seemed satisfied with his inspection of the canal's naval equipment. He said there have been no appropriations yet for the projected Pacific naval base on the west bank of the canal opposite Balboa.

The Indianapolis stopped off the Pearl islands, where Swanson boarded a launch from which he fished. He landed a sailfish weighing 87 pounds.

Fatally Shot When Pistol Is Fired Accidentally

Alexander Mroczkowski, 38 years old, was accidentally shot and fatally wounded last evening in the basement of his beer tavern at 1501 North Artesian avenue. Chester Benn, 26 years old, 1712 North Washtenaw avenue, pulled the trigger of a target pistol in the belief that the weapon was not loaded and a bullet struck Mroczkowski in the head. He died soon afterward at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

BRITISH AVIATRIX IS KILLED BY A RUNAWAY PLANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Lady Clayton-East-Clayton, 25 year old widow of Sir Robert Clayton-East-Clayton, young explorer, was killed at Brooklands flying field today when a light monoplane started as she was climbing into the cockpit. She was thrown to the ground while the uncontrolled machine was taxiing at 50 miles per hour and died of concussion.

The staff at the airport said there were no blocks under the wheels of the plane when she started to climb into the cockpit. She tried desperately to reach the controls, but the machine gathered speed too rapidly. After she had been flung to the ground the plane turned over.

Lady Clayton-East-Clayton was an experienced pilot. She was made a widow a year ago when Sir Robert died of fever contracted during an attempt to find the lost oasis of Zerrura in the Libyan desert. After her husband's death she took up the same search. With the permission of the Egyptian government she left London in February with her late husband's maps and a reserve pilot, but the expedition failed. She had held a first class pilot's license for some time.

Mrs. Roe is suffering from a fractured skull at Beyer hospital, Ypsilanti, as the consequence of blows struck by Olett with a heavy iron pipe, and is not expected to recover.

AGREE ON MILK PRICE INCREASE; UP TO U. S. NOW

Pact Causes Break in Strike Ranks.

dred independent cut rate dealers are still doing business and the government has not been able to close them.

Strikers Not Satisfied.

Among the strikers it has been maintained that even the arrival of the promised increase would make no difference in their stand. Neither the price nor the limited participation in the cream business is satisfactory, they have declared. The negotiators of the price raise have announced that their work will open the Chicago market to 500,000 pounds of milk daily, displacing the same amount from Wisconsin.

At any rate, the strikers were belligerent during the day. Gathered at Harvard, the home town of Leader Bost, they heard him make a morning speech in which he predicted that 1,000 Wisconsin farmers would come in last night to aid them. The 500 pickets then took up their stations on the roads and turned back a number of trucks.

Several cans of milk were dumped near the receiving plant and a truck load was tossed away in the middle of the Harvard business section a little later. Ivan Peters, owner of the last shipment, and John Albrecht, president of the Pure Milk locals in McHenry county, appealed to the Chicago headquarters of the association for help and it was promised.

Reinforcements Arrive.

The promise was kept. In midafternoon a large delegation of "regular" members of the association, drawn from Lake and Will counties, where the strike has not been even mildly effective, arrived in Harvard With their aid and that of the deputies and two companies of state highway policemen, more than 5,000 pounds of milk were pushed through.

None of the fighting was of a severe nature. Most of the pickets contented themselves with jeering the strike breakers. When they were in control earlier they usually avoided striking drivers trying to worm through the lines, merely turning them back or disabling their vehicles by cutting ignition wires.

Many Desert Strikers.

A survey of the strike area last night showed numerous defections from the insurgent ranks. Virgil, in Kane county, where supplies were held out on Thursday, preceded Hampshire back into the regular fold and a good proportion of the Woodstock shipments also were sent through. Arthur Hartman, dairy plant manager at Hampshire, urged that his shippers accept the new agreement. He is a director of the Pure Milk association, but was not active in halting the strike in its early stages.

The flow of milk at Woodstock started after the Borden Farm Products company, owner of the plant there, posted a notice that if milk was not on hand in quantity by 1 p. m. the receiving station would be permanently closed. Pickets, not so numerous as those at Harvard, were ignored by the shippers.

Report Firing of Shots.

Regular Pure Milk association leaders at Woodstock declared that shots had been fired early in the morning at the homes of two of their leaders, Gilbert Carroll and Richard Menzel. They added that this had caused a revulsion of feeling among the less fervid strikers, who, to show their disapproval, had delivered milk.

There was little attempt at violence around Dundee, where about 50 per cent of the usual amount of milk was received. At Ringwood, in McHenry county, a young farmer was arrested on a charge of dumping milk. He is John Moore of Ringwood.

J. M. CALLAHAN SEEKS SEAT HELD BY LA FOLLETTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—John M. Callahan, Wisconsin's original Al Smith Democrat and national committeeman from this state for 14 years, until the convention last year, today announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate next year.

The term of Senator Robert M. La Follette expires in the spring of 1935 and the Democratic candidate will oppose him for reelection next fall.

It is expected there will be numerous others, both Democrats and Republicans, who will test their strength at the primary election. Mr. Callahan is the first definitely to place his name before the voters.

Mr. Callahan has taken no part in state Democratic affairs since the convention in Chicago at which President Roosevelt won the nomination.

FARLEY AND DERN MEET ON A TOUR OF WORLD'S FAIR

Secretary of War Gorge H. Dern stopped in Chicago several hours yesterday to visit the World's Fair. He was on his way to Superior, Wis., where he will deliver an address tonight at the St. Lawrence seaways conference.

His was accompanied here from Washington by Maj. Harry Bishop of the United States medical corps, and John W Martyn, administrative assistant in the war department. The party was met by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps area. During his sightseeing trip at the Fair Secretary Dern met Postmaster General James Farley in the Hall of Science.

The postmaster general spent most of yesterday seeing the Fair with the three Farley children. He accepted an invitation to luncheon with Cardinal Mundelein today. He said he had no other appointments.

MEDICS PERFECT SCIENTIFIC TEST OF DRUNKENNESS

Shows 3.2% Beer Is Not Intoxicating.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Two or three drops of blood, taken from a pricked finger and subjected to laboratory analysis, give a scientific determination of drunkenness, far superior to the breath smelling and line walking tests of the policeman, according to a report made to the medicinal division of the American Chemical society at the Hotel Stevens yesterday.

This painless, scientific test was described in a paper by Drs. Theodore E. Friedemann, William G. Motel, and Heinrich Necheless of the University of Chicago. The report was on tests made on four persons, drinking beer on empty stomachs and seated in a warm room. The experiment was made with 3.2 beer, and indicates that this beer is nonintoxicating, although a scientist would not accept this as final without a much broader test.

One Bottle and Four.

There was a surprisingly small difference, Dr. Friedmann said, between the blood of those who had drunk one bottle and those who had drunk four. In no instance, he found, did the alcoholic content of the blood rise above 50 milligrams per 100 cubic centimeters. The concentration in intoxicated persons is about 100 milligrams per 100 cubic centimeters of blood.

This test can be made in less than an hour and is sensitive to the extent of determining 0.002 milligrams of ethyl alcohol. The method can also be applied to diabetic persons.

"Unquestionably," said Dr. Friedemann, "alcohol is a normal constituent of blood and tissues. Whether this alcohol, less than one milligram per 100 cubic centimeters, is derived from sugars as in yeast fermentation is a question.

"The drinking of alcoholic liquors causes the alcoholic content of the blood to rise rapidly. The physiological response depends largely upon the concentration of alcohol attained in the blood and tissues.

Place Blood in Test Tube.

In this test blood from a pricked finger is taken in a test tube containing anti-coagulents, then one-tenth to two-tenths of a cubic centimeter is blown into a test tube containing two cubic centimeters of water. Reagents are added, precipitating the blood proteins. The material is drawn into a flask and, by using an alkaline-mercury reagent, the amount of alcohol in the sample is easily determined.

"On the whole, light wines and beer are beneficial to the body," said Dr. Gustav Egloff, president of the Chicago Chemical society. "It is an easy and pleasant way of getting needed water into the system. Most humans are moderate and as a matter of fact, before the prohibition amendment was enacted, imbibing of alcoholic beverages was dwindling. When the amendment is repealed we will come back to nonpoisonous beverages, properly fermented under natural conditions, instead of having to rely on bootleggers and the criminals who surround them."

Drinking Before Meals.

The question of hard liquors and the number of drinks one can take, is an individual's own problem, Dr. Egloff maintains. The highest stimulation from alcohol comes from drinking before meals, on an empty stomach.

Dr. Paul Karrer of Zurich, Switzerland, said yesterday that within the last year the chemist has attained a mental picture of the molecular structure of the vitamin that prevents and cures scurvy, and also of growth promoting vitamins.

"In the case of the growth promoting vitamins," he declared, "the chemist has prepared by artificial means certain compounds that are very similar to an actual vitamin. It is safe to say that it will be only a matter of a few years before the structure of the vitamins will be elucidated in the chemist's laboratory.

Depend on Food Sources.

"Even though the chemist has been able to prepare small quantities of some of the vitamins in the laboratory, it is not likely that the synthetic products will in all cases replace natural processes. Consequently we will in the future mainly continue to depend on the natural food sources for our vitamin supply."

The society concluded its 86th meeting yesterday, the largest and most successful in its history. The spring meeting will be held in St. Petersburg, Fla., the next fall's meeting in Cleveland. Dr. Arthur B. Lamb, president of the society, was authorized to appoint a committee to investigate and endeavor to assist in drafting NRA codes which may apply to consulting, analytical and other chemists who are practicing for profit.

FINDS VIOSTEROL AIDS 95 PCT. OF HAY FEVER CASES

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Cod liver oil, the world concedes, is bad enough. But at the sessions of the American Congress of Physical Therapy at the Palmer house yesterday it developed that the medical world has something far superior up its sleeve. It's viosterol, or ergosterol, a similar substance, irridiated to 10,000 times its normal potency—and it's good news for hay fever victims. Dr. C. I. Reed of the department of physiology of the University or Illinois College of Medicine explained it in an afternoon sectional meeting in the Red Lacquer room.

The first extensive use of the new substance was made this spring, since when about 200 cases of hay fever or "rose colds" have been treated. In 95 per cent of the cases benefit resulted, it was found, and in all but 5 per cent of the total the degree of relief was 50 per cent or more. Experiments proved that the most efficacious method of treatment was to combine the viosterol with the usual injections of pollen.

Eliminate Suspected Cause.

One of the most important findings of the medicos in this process was the conclusion that calcium deficiency is not the cause of hay fever. The treatments were undertaken in the confidence that an opposite conclusion would be reached.

In a scientific sense the potentialities of viosterol are being proved to be tremendous. Members of the congress stated that a still more important point in Dr. Reid's discussion was the application of viosterol in raising the calcium content of the body in cases of goiter or asthma or similar afflictions caused by lack of that element.

This being the "goiter belt," the statement was considered of especial significance in this area.

Casts New Light on Erysipelas.

If you'd rather have sunburn than erysipelas, you won't be in much danger from the ancient disease that is the only skin affliction known that will cause death. Dr. Norman Titus, director of physical therapy of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia university, related how he and his associates had experimented with the use of ultraviolet light to combat the disease.

"It is really remarkable what results we have obtained," he said informally. "I determined, since it seemed the treatment was not powerful enough to do any good, to find out what a really strong application would do. So we raised the dosage to twenty times the degree that causes sunburn, and it looks as if we've found the answer—though we don't understand all we know about it.

"Erysipelas is painful and frequently dangerous, accompanied by raging fevers in some cases, and a rash with rough raised edges. Inducing a severe case of sunburn by ultraviolet brings down the fever in a fraction of the time that ordinary measures will, banishes delirium, and permits the patient to leave the hospital days earlier."

EINSTEIN INSISTS HE IS NO FRIEND OF COMMUNISM

CROMER, Norfolk, England, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein said today that he had been a "victim of misunderstanding" in revealing that he at no time has been disposed kindly towards communism. The statement was issued after he had read a pamphlet, "The Communist Solar System," published by the Labor party.

"I have been a victim of misunderstanding," he said, "as to the true objects of certain organizations which are in truth nothing less than a camouflaged propaganda in the service of Russian despotism. In ignorance of their true purpose I have taken no steps to prevent the use of my name by 'The Workers,' 'International Relief' and 'The Anti-War Movement,' or the abuse of it by similar organizations, but would now like to state that I never favored communism and do not favor it now."

Dr. Einstein said the danger of these organizations is that they may mislead the sincere friends of human progress and real freedom.

"In my opinion," he continued, "any power must be an enemy of mankind which enslaves the individual by terror and force, whether it arises under the fascist or the communist flag. All that is valuable in human society depends upon the opportunity for development accorded to the individual."

NRA LABOR PACT SET AT NAUGHT BY PRESIDENT

He Rules Against Making Any Interpretations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Many hours of debate, culminating in an agreement between the industrial and the labor advisers of NRA on the much disputed labor provisions of the national recovery act, have been set at naught by President Roosevelt, it was learned today.

Ever since the act was passed the labor provisions have been a source of disputes arising all over the country. Industrialists charged that the organized union forces, led in the open by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, have engaged in a campaign to use the section, called 7-A, as the fulcrum for a unionization of all industry.

Workers have been misled, it has been charged, into believing that the only way they can get the benefits intended by the supporters of NRA would be to join a union.

Demand Qualifying Clause.

The automobile manufacturers viewed this labor campaign so seriously that they refused to consent to a code until a provision was put in qualifying section 7-A and recognizing the right of employers to hire and fire workers on a basis of merit and efficiency.

When this clause was put in the automobile code it precipitated a deluge of requests from other industries to have similar language included in their codes. Then the labor advisory board, which had accepted the automobile code with many complaints and misgivings, announced its unalterable opposition to putting the clause in any future codes.

The members of the industrial advisory board, meanwhile, began to be deluged with demands from employers that they put up a battle for an interpretation of the code which would establish their rights definitely. The administration refused the plea of the industrialists, Gen. Johnson asserting that no further qualifying clauses would be put into any codes.

Break Is Threatened.

For a time an open break threatened, with the possibility of a resignation of the whole industrial advisory board being freely rumored about the NRA offices.

Finally a meeting between the labor and industrial boards was arranged. Prof. Leo Wolman, chairman of the labor board, who had told the industrialists that he recognized the seriousness of their position, drafted a statement under which the rights of both labor and employers were reviewed.

The industrialists found the statement to their liking, but the remaining members of the labor advisory board at first frowned on it. Mr. Green insisted he would not sign it; that he would consent to no interpretation of section 7-A. He was supported by John Frey, another member of the labor board.

Argue for Agreement.

Walter C. Teagle, chairman of the industrial advisory board, and Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, another member of the board, presented a spirited argument in support of the agreement. They pointed out that the labor leaders had for years protested a noncoöperation on the part of the industry and that now, with an opportunity for better coöperation, they were frustrating it by refusing to consent to a simple statement of facts.

Then George Berry of the labor board said he believed his duty and that of his labor colleagues was to sign the statement. It merely recognized the rights of both sides under the act, he said, and he felt the game should be played squarely with all people concerned knowing the facts.

There followed a long discussion and finally President Green capitulated. The members of both boards signed the statement and immediately it was hailed in the inner circles of NRA as a great "treaty of industrial peace," ending the bitter conflicts which have arisen over the interpretations of the labor section.

Takes Pact to Roosevelt.

Gen. Johnson, happy over the peaceful solution, took the truce pact over to the White House. But the President had recollections of many previous efforts at interpreting the labor provisions of NRA, all of which had not brought any lasting solution.

The position taken by the White House in withholding approval from the pact was that section 7-A was "very plain English" and that interpretations of the section will be made only when specific cases arise. Until such cases do arise the President does not deem it advisable, it was stated, to issue any "hypothetical" interpretations.

Woman to Sue for $500,000

Declaration Ready

Attorney Charlotte Slavitt said yesterday that she will file a declaration next week in the $500,000 suit of Mrs. Margaret Molyneaux, 1400 Lake Shore drive, against Sidney Phillipson, 666 Sheridan road, whose family formerly owned a large wholesale dry goods company. A praecipe in the suit, in which damages are sought for an alleged breach of promise, it is reported, was filed Thursday.

Beggar Refused 7 Cents, Smashes $200 Windows

A beggar walked into Henry Kolle's tavern at 2464 Lincoln avenue last night and asked for 7 cents. He was promptly ushered out without the 7 cents. About thirty seconds later the two front windows and a side window of the place were smashed by bricks. The damage was estimated at $200. The beggar got away.

4,800 MILLINERY WORKERS BACK TO JOBS TODAY

Both Sides Claim Gains in Strike Settlement.

With the millinery strike definitely settled, the hat industry was returning to normal yesterday. Virtually all of the 4,800 workers who went on strike on Aug. 29 were expected to be back at work today. Manufacturers planned to operate all day today and Sunday to make up for the time lost by the strike, which occurred during the busy season of that business.

Both sides in the controversy claimed victory. Miss Carolyn Wolfe, organizer of the International Union of Millinery Workers, asserted that the employés had won because the manufacturers agreed to recognize the union for the first time. Shirley Tark, executive director of the Midwest Millinery association, the manufacturers' group, insisted that the employers were favored because the closed shop was not forced on them and employers were not bound to hire members of the millinery union.

Judge's Order Balks Union.

Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court yesterday granted a temporary injunction restraining the Chicago Joint Board of Cloak, Dress, and Raincoat Workers unions from forcible organization of 150 workers at the A. Roth company, women's wear manufacturers at 3510 Belmont avenue. A factory employé, Mrs. Anna Lachance, said she had been pelted with tomatoes when she tried to go to work after the union called a strike Aug. 22.

Acceptances of NRA trade codes by 382 Chicago concerns were received yesterday by Assistant Postmaster C. P. Scheel. A total of 48,454 employers of approximately 911,000 workers in the city have now accepted codes.

Ways in which the federal government can and should act to assist states in meeting unemployment hazards were outlined yesterday by Paul Raushenbush, consultant on unemployment compensation for the Wisconsin industrial commission, in an address before fifty members of the Association of Officials in Industry of the United States and Canada at their convention at the Congress hotel.

He asserted that direct federal unemployment insurance is unconstitutional. However, the federal government already has begun the establishment of employment agencies, thus taking the expense of this activity away from states, he said. It now remains for the central government to encourage the passage of state unemployment insurance laws.

Approve Housing Program.

The state housing program to supply low cost living quarters was approved yesterday by Illinois labor leaders who attended the Illinois Federation of Labor convention at the Congress hotel.

A letter from Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who was unable to attend the convention, was read.

"We are at the turning of the road," said Mr. Woll. "There is hope that the heroic and gigantic as well as the novel and untried methods and measures being resorted to by the federal government will turn the tide."

TROOPERS QUIET MINE STRIKERS; ONE MAN IS SHOT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—All was quiet along the southwestern Pennsylvania coal mine war front today. Sixty state troopers sent into the district following yesterday's "holiday" riots in which fourteen strikers were shot and twenty-five others hurt by flying missiles patrolled the trouble zone, but they had little to do except walk their "beats."

The only disturbance reported up to a late hour was at the Morewood plant of the H. C. Frick Coke company in Westmoreland county which is outside the district affected by yesterday's outbreaks. A picketing miner, Carl Stohl, 30, was shot in the leg when he attempted to persuade a strike breaker from going to work, but reports received here said his wound was superficial.

Almost all the mines in Fayette county remained closed today in spite of the efforts of the mine officials to recruit strikebreakers to take the places of those who quit work on the "holiday." Company deputies paraded up and down in front of the mine openings and at a respectful distance strike pickets kept watch, but the presence of state troopers prevented anything resembling a clash.

Only a handful of pickets were on duty at the Gates mine, the center of yesterday's riots.

The troops were ordered into the mine district by Gov. Pinchot following a conference with President Roosevelt in Washington yesterday. Orders were originally drafted for sending two battalions of the National Guard to Uniontown, but the governor decided the smaller detachment would suffice.

AGREE ON COAL CODE ORDERED BY PRESIDENT

Conferees Make Terms —Signature Today?

by the NRA administrator. Coal operators had objected to this provision strenuously, holding that they were entitled to make deductions for debts of workers, for rentals, purchases in company stores, and the like.

The code also included another provision which had been objected to—that workers may not be required by their employers to live in company rented houses or to trade in company stores.

Commission to Report.

The code prescribes that a commission shall be set up for the study of wages and hours schedules and shall make a report by Dec. 31. On Jan. 5 1934, a conference will be held, attended by representatives of operators, workers, and the NRA, to consider revisions of the schedules. Unless revised after the Jan. 5 date the schedules shall remain in effect until April 1, 1934.

The provisions for the setting up of various boards to administer the code were changed considerably. A national bituminous coal industrial board is set up, but instead of each of the five geographical divisions of the industry having the same representation on the board, the members are to be appointed according to the tonnage mined in each district.

Wage Scales Changed.

A few increases in the wage rates were allowed, but in the main they were the same. The objections raised by Illinois operators because the first code provided for a $5 rate for inside miners for Illinois and only $3.84 per day in Kentucky, only across the Ohio river and with mines in the two states only an hour's journey apart, were not settled.

While the rate for Illinois miners was left at the same $5 rate, the rate for Kentucky was left blank, with the stipulation included in the code that this Kentucky rate, along with other rates in some other jurisdictions, would be agreed upon with the President before the effective date of the code.

The code becomes effective on the second Monday after it is signed by the President.

Witnesses Ridicule Idea Reds Started Fire.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Developments pointed more than ever today toward the conclusion that the body of lawyers who have assembled in a strictly extralegal "court" here to decide who set fire to the German reichstag on Feb. 27, will find the Nazis "guilty."

The "bench" styles itself as "The Legal Commission of Inquiry Into the Burning of the Reichstag." It is sponsored by still another organization known as the "World Committee for Relief of Victims of German Facism." The investigators have no standing in jurisprudence and the tribunal's jurisdiction is not recognized by any government.

Titles of Body Vary.

Although the English title uses the word "legal," it is a curious fact that neither the German nor French translations employ it. The Germans call the tribunal an "Investigating Committee to Clear Up the Reichstag Fire." The French title is, "Commission of Inquiry Into the Incendiary Fire of the Reichstag."

The only explanation available tonight as to why the description "legal" was tacked onto the English title is that all of the participants are lawyers. Another justification produced is that the investigation is legal because it has been permitted. The British government could easily have refused visas to most of the participants in the so-called "trial."

[On Thursday Germany's ambassador to London inquired of the British foreign office whether the proceedings were being held under official auspices. The British government replied that the investigation had no official sanction].

D. N. Pritt, British barrister who presides at the sittings, declared at the opening of today's session that it is not a court but a "commission of inquiry." The investigation, he declared, is in no way different from similar inquiries frequently held in Europe and the United States.

Statements Without Oath.

Since it is not a court, the statements of absentee witnesses, corresponding to depositions and verbal remarks, are accepted without oath. There has been no attempt so far at cross-examination except a few questions put this morning by Arthur Garfield Hays, American defender of civil liberties. The reason for this was explained when the French member, Moro Giafferi, took his seat for the first time. He speaks neither English, German, nor Dutch—the languages which have figured chiefly so far. It was explained, however, that he had already read a French transcript of the proceedings, so it does not matter whether he understands or not.

Another arrival today was Dr. Gustav Sach, Nazi attorney assigned to defend Ernst Torgler, communist member of the reichstag and one of five accused by the German government of setting the fire. He arrived in lock step with two young male secretaries. He does not understand English either, but he procured a copy of the proceedings. Dr. Sach indicated he hopes to find something of value in this proceeding to help defend his client when he stands trial in Leipzig Sept. 21. He said that he is still hopeful that Torgler would not be sentenced to death.

The two chief witnesses today were George Bernhard, formerly editor of the Vossische Zeitung, and Rudolf Breitscheid, member of the reichstag since 1920 and president of the Social Democratic party since 1928.

Peasants Driven Panicky.

Bernhard declared that German peasants were driven panicky by the fire. He said the governmentally controlled press and radio told them the conflagration was started by those communists who wanted to expropriate and burn their property. He avowed there never was a communist menace in Germany.

Breitscheid asserted he was Torgler's political enemy, but added that he believed the communist leader too wise to allow his followers to start a fire which could only benefit the Nazis.

Three Dutch "witnesses" were heard this afternoon. They were an insurance agent, a chairmaker, and a youth named Frederick Van Leeuwen, who identified himself as a literary artist. They were called upon to describe the character and politics of Marinus Van der Luebbe, alleged Dutch communist, who was seized in the reichstag building during the fire.

Politically Van der Luebbe was called a renegade communist who had turned fascist. Morally, Leeuwen charged Van der Luebbe was a homosexual person who frequently made trips to Germany where he lived in luxurious fashion.

JAPAN CRUSHES REDS WHO RULED PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Nation Is Aroused by Revelations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—Reveling in the belief that communism was wiped out following the outburst of patriotism over the conquest in Manchuria, Japan was rudely shocked today with the disclosure that Nagano prefecture, north of Tokio and one of the most beautiful spots of the country, was in the grip of the Reds last year.

The revelation was made after the lifting of the press ban this morning on the story of the government's widespread investigation.

Famous Summer Resorts.

Nestling in the Nippon "Alps," Nagano is famed chiefly for the beauty of its landscape. But it is also an important silk and rice area. Karuizawa and Nojiri are summer resorts in the very heart of the prefecture to which Americans and Europeans flock. American Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew and many members of his staff still are there.

The Reds spread their tentacles in the schools. The police found that teachers in 66 schools were actively engaged in communist propaganda. Six hundred were arrested, including 200 teachers, between February and June, 1932. Police suspicions were aroused by the disappearance of Emperor Hirohito's portraits from several schools. Investigation disclosed that the Nagai primary school was headquarters for the movement.

Educational Circles Shocked.

The revelation shocked educational circles, as it was unprecedented in the history of education in Japan. The communists took advantage of dire conditions in the farming areas which were extremely hard hit due to the drop in rice and silk prices. The spread of discontent with the capitalistic system was finally swaying the public to the Reds. The Japanese communist party and the young communist league were declared to have been the motivating forces with anti-imperialist associations taking minor roles.

ENVOY CHARGES CZECHOSLOVAKIA INSULTS THE POPE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PRAGUE, Sept. 15.—A sensation was caused here today by the publication in a nationalist newspaper of a letter addressed by Papal Nuncio Ciriaci to Father Hlinka, leader of the Slovakian Autonomy party, complaining of the manner in which he had been treated by the Czechoslovakian government and plainly expressing his dislike of Prague as a place of residence. Replying to a letter of greeting from Father Hlinka, the nuncio wrote:

"While the holy father is insulted in Prague, either directly or in the person of his representative, in a fashion which even transgresses the ordinary rules of international politeness, you Slovaks have always shown fitting respect for his high authority. Praise is due, therefore, Father Hlinka, for you and yours. I thank you and yours that you have brought to the papal nuncio, whom obedience to the holy father requires to live in Prague, comfort in his bitter cares. I shall always remember the Slovakian nation."

The letter appears to be the nuncio's reply to a series of recent newspaper attacks. It is understood the matter will be discussed at a cabinet council tomorrow.

GREECE PREPARES TO SHIP WINE TO U.S. FOR HOLIDAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 15.—Greek wine growers and distillers are preparing to unloose a torrent of Christmas liquor toward the United States in anticipation of the prohibition era ending before the first of the year. One company in Peloponnesus, known as the Achaia company, has 500,000 gallons of port wine, 300,000 bottles of brandy, 700,000 bottles of table wine and 150,000 gallons of sherry in stock and ready for shipment.

Ships will be ready at Patras on the gulf of Corinth to transport this liquor. Distillers here hope the lid will be off by Christmas. The tentative shipping date is fixed for Dec. 5. Peter Vanech, Greek-American of Stamford, Conn., who has secured the general agency in the United States for the Achaia Wine company, plans to leave for the United States Oct. 2 to establish distributing agencies in New York and other cities. Vanech said 51 Chicago and New York restaurants and hotels have placed orders with him.

It is expected that Greek competition in the new liquor market in America will center on a special port wine produced at Patras. The wine was sold in the United States before the war. Special varieties of old muscatel, malmsey, malvasia, Madeira, and several types of sherries also will be shipped. Some brandies are between 50 and 60 years old. The port will be marketed at about $2 a bottle retail.

Mollisons' Plane for New Ocean Hop Reaches Canada

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 15.—The Seafarer II., new airplane which Capt. James and Amy Mollison, British ocean flyers, plan to use on their attempted flight from Canada to Bagdad in an effort to establish a new long distance record, arrived at Quebec today. The plane will be assembled at Toronto. It is expected the Mollisons will take off from a beach just outside that city. The Mollisons met in Toronto this morning. Mrs. Mollison arrived from New York. Her husband reached Canada yesterday aboard the Empress of Britain. The couple hope to take off about Oct. 3, weather permitting.

Davenport Woman Admits Rock Island Robberies

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Miss Marie Pohlman, 25, of Davenport, Ia., confessed to Rock Island officials today that she stole jewelry valued at $12,192 from the residence of Abe Waxenberg, Moline and Rock Island department store owner, on Jan. 15. She said she pawned the jewels in Chicago. She also confessed she had stolen jewelry valued at $500 from the residence of Louis Kohn, retired merchant, in January of 1932, but returned it.

BUDGET SURPLUS IS DUE BY JUNE, WOODIN BELIEVES

Treasury Secretary Back After Illness.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Back at his desk for the first time in two and a half months, Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin said today he expected the government to close the fiscal year next June 30 with a surplus on its regular budget.

Woodin, who has just recovered sufficiently from a serious throat infection to return to the treasury, called attention to the fact that revenues collected thus far in the fiscal year amount to 474 million dollars and regular expenses to only 466 million, leaving a surplus of eight million dollars.

He omitted from his calculations expenditures classified by the treasury as "emergency." These expenses, made by the agencies set up under the Roosevelt recovery drive, are eating into the taxpayers' pocketbook at the rate of $3,400,000 a day, treasury figures show.

Emergency Spending Up.

Amounting to 257 million dollars thus far in the fiscal year, these emergency expenditures bring the total costs of the government up to 723 million dollars. 249 million dollars more than revenues received thus far, according to the treasury accounts. Before the fiscal year is up they will not only absorb the surplus on the regular budget but leave the government about 2 billion dollars in the red, it is predicted.

Secretary Woodin called especial attention to the fact that since the beginning of September the government's revenues from all sources had improved. Receipts during the first two weeks of the month aggregated 123 million dollars this year compared with 67 million dollars in the same two weeks last year, he said.

September income tax collections thus far are running four million dollars ahead of those made last year, treasury records show. Excise tax receipts have gained 30 million dollars over the total for the first two weeks of September, 1932. Customs receipts are higher by three million dollars. The processing tax on farm products has added 19 million dollars to receipts this year for which there is no similar item a year ago.

Revenues Exceed '32 Mark.

Revenues thus far in the fiscal year have amounted to 474 million dollars, compared with 256 millions last year. Expenditures have been reduced by 263 million dollars, despite the emergency spending. Up to Sept. 15, a year ago, the treasury and the Reconstruction Finance corporation, combined, spent 986 million dollars. This year, spending by all agencies, regular and emergency, aggregates 723 millions.

Emergency expenditures are increasing steadily, however. At the end of July they averaged $2,200,000 a day; by the end of August they had advanced to $3,200,000 a day, and in the last two weeks the average has increased to $3,490,000 a day.

Brain Trust Member Accuses Religious Press of Fake Advertising

R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and member of brain trust, attaches especial blame to church and educational journals, movie magazines, mail order catalogues, etc.

In an article published in the current issue of Editor and Publisher, R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, sets forth arguments for the passage of the revised food and drugs bill now before congress. He points out the good results that followed the enforcement of the pure food bill which was made a law in 1906 during Theodore Roosevelt's administration, but he urges that in the 27 intervening years there have been developments and changes that make that law now to a large extent obsolete.

"Under the new bill," Prof. Tugwell says, "responsibility is placed on the shoulders of advisers or persons placing the advertising. It requires publishers and broadcasters to supply the names and addresses of those placing advertisements, but it does not hold them liable further than this. Neither does this revised bill require, as so many have supposed, that the department of agriculture is to become a high powered censor, requiring that all advertising copy be submitted in advance."

Prof. Tugwell, speaking of fraudulent advertising on the lines of cure-alls, says:

"While national magazines, good metropolitan dailies, and radio networks carry many fraudulent and misleading advertisements, by far the most flagrant abuses are found in movie magazines, mail order catalogs, educational and religious journals, cheap fiction or 'pulp' magazines, small dailies, country weeklies, and on small independent stations, as well as in direct mail advertising."

The more frequent presence of misleading drug and food advertising is in educational and religious journals and cheap fiction magazines. Prof. Tugwell attributes this to competition during the depression and to the fact that the more limited advertising appropriations of ethical advertisers are sometimes exhausted before getting around to the minor mediums, such as the "pulp" magazines and religious and educational publications, and that consequently these organs resort to the more questionable type of publicity.

He mentions the fact that the 1906 law does not cover advertising except on the label, and cites the case of the Lydia Pinkham compound, which claims little on the label but much in its periodical and newspaper advertising.

TRIES HARA-KIRI TO PROTEST TRIAL OF JAP ASSASSINS

TOKIO, Sept. 16.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—As a protest against the state's demand of death sentences for the accused assassins of Premier Suyoshi Inukai, Ensign Kazuo Fukuda today attempted suicide aboard the airplane carrier Kaga by hara-kiri, the immemorial method of the Samurais. He was brought to a hospital at the Yokosuka naval base. Physicians said he would recover.

Last Sunday the procurator at the court martial of three naval lieutenants, charged with leading seven fellow officers in the killing of Premier Inukai in May, 1932, surprised the Japanese public by insisting on the extreme penalty.

Vernacular newspapers reported that an aged farmer in Chiba prefecture hanged himself in protest against the prospective deaths of the terrorists, while a young girl threw herself beneath a train and died in Saitama prefecture, leaving a letter which said she hoped all the accused persons "might be saved."

Douglas County Farmers Pay 98 Per Cent of Taxes

Allerton, Ill., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Douglas county farmers were given a pat on the back today by Dale Howard, tax collector, who was in jubilation over the fact that approximately 98 per cent of the taxes will be paid before the deadline Saturday night. Long strings of wagons carrying corn for tax money have been winding their way to elevators during the last week.

Japs Ready to Annex Town Chinese Lost at Great Wall

TIENTSIN, China, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Japanese preparations to annex Shanhaikwan, the Great Wall town where Sino-Japanese hostilities began early this year, and add it to Manchukuo were reported in usually reliable quarters today. Japanese troops took possession of the town in their invasion of North China.

DE VALERA RAIDS IRISH BLUE SHIRT OFFICE IN DUBLIN

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 15. — President Eamon de Valera seems determined to pursue and if possible extinguish the organization sponsored by Gen. Owen O'Duffy. This organization, first known as the Army Comrades' association, subsequently became the National Guard (blue shirts) and then was banned by De Valera, who invoked the public safety act for the purpose.

Gen. O'Duffy was on the point of being arrested when he was called to head a new combination of opposition parties named United Ireland party. This combination is composed of his own National Guard, former President William T. Cosgrave's Cumman na nGaedheal and Frank McDermott's Center party (farmers).

This merger raised the question of what the government would do with O'Duffy. As head of a combined opposition party he was a different person from the head of a body declared illegal by executive council order.

Police Raid Blue Shirt Office.

Gen. O'Duffy has now dropped the title of the National Guard and that organization is now the Young Ireland association, closely associated with the United Ireland party. O'Duffy thus plays Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Today the military tribunal, created recently by President de Valera, issued an order to close the National Guard office in Parnel square. Police took possession of the office and seized documents and literature, but allowed the staff to leave the premises with typewriters and other property.

Inasmuch as the National Guard has been dissolved, it no longer exists, and the Young Ireland association, which supplants it, has not yet been declared an illegal association. The position, therefore, remains obscure, but it seems unlikely that the government will declare all of O'Duffy's organizations illegal since by so doing it would completely suppress the entire opposition and set up a dictatorship.

Push Fight on English Beer.

The Irish Republican army continues its anti-British campaign. Several saloons selling English beer were raided last night. Today five men went on trial charged with raiding a saloon in Dunlaoghaire. The men refused to stand up in court or plead, so policemen held them up by their arms. The men refused to give their names and were identified by numbers.

They shouted to the guards to release their arms. The magistrate sentenced them to two months imprisonment for contempt. They shouted, "Up Republic," when they were removed from the dock.

Before leaving some of the prisoners indicated that they would go on a hunger strike in Mountjoy prison. They said some of their colleagues are already on hunger strikes there. Ten men were arrested in connection with the recent smashing of British beer bottles at "Dead Man's House," near Lucan. These are in Mountjoy.

CHARGES OF GAS WASTE NOT TRUE, U. S. EXPERT SAYS

Roosevelt's Observer at Hearing.

The Illinois commerce commission was informed yesterday by a government expert, called as an unbiased witness by the commission, that charges that the people of Chicago paid 11 million dollars in two years for wasted gas were untrue. Another government representative present at the hearing said his instructions to attend the hearing came from President Roosevelt.

The commission was on its third day of investigation of alleged waste of gas due to faulty adjustments of cooking ranges after the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company began to distribute a mixture of manufactured and natural gas instead of the manufactured gas previously sold by the company.

Company Official on Stand.

Robert B. Harper, vice president of the gas company, in charge of research and testing, was on the witness stand before the commission at the beginning of the hearing yesterday. His testimony was to the effect that 30 per cent efficiency in gas stoves is the average throughout the country for gas in water boiling tests, due to the fact that 70 per cent of the heat generated from the burning gas escapes around the sides of the vessel.

Attorney Irvin Rooks, representing the commerce commission, then announced that Elmer R. Weaver, a government expert, had been called from Washington to advise the commission. Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer said he had tried to get the person of the widest experience and highest standing for this purpose.

Mr. Weaver was then sworn. He said he is the chief of the gas chemistry division of the United States bureau of standards. He has been with this bureau 21½ years and has been department chief for nine years. He is a graduate of Stanford university.

Support's Company's Witness.

Mr. Weaver supported the testimony given by Mr. Harper regarding the average efficiency of gas ranges. He was asked his opinion as to the efficiency of the gas appliances in use in Chicago now, burning the mixed gas which has a heating value of 830 British Thermal Units, as compared to the efficiency of the burners when only manufactured gas of 530 British Thermal Units was furnished to the public.

"I think they are so nearly of the same efficiency that there is no substantial evidence as to whether they may have changed slightly in one direction or the other," he replied.

He added that his opinion was not changed by the reading of a consulting engineer's report on which the charge of waste was predicated. Then he was questioned by Attorney Rooks as follows:

"Now, Mr. Weaver, the charge has been made that since the gas appliances in use in Chicago have an average efficiency of 26.2, the gas company has thereby compelled domestic users of gas in Chicago to pay out more than $11,000,000 for gas which has been wasted because of improper adjustment of appliances.

"From your examination of the data collected by the engineering department of the commission, and taking into consideration your own experience, have you an opinion as to whether this charge is accurate or true in the case of Chicago?"

"No, I don't think it is true," Mr. Weaver answered. "I am quite certain that it is not."

"In your opinion, has there been any extravagant consumption of gas in Chicago which might be chargeable to improperly adjusted appliances?" Mr. Weaver was asked by Attorney Rooks.

"It is not apparent," the expert concluded.

The gas company then put on other witnesses, officials of the company, to tell of what had been done, and to answer the charges of waste. A test was arranged for some time in the near future to determine just what happens to the 70 per cent of heat that does not heat the water in a vessel over an open burner. The hearing is to be resumed a week from Monday.

Judson C. Dickerman, engineer-examiner for the federal trade commission at Washington, was present throughout the hearing. He said he was sent here on orders from the White House, to observe and report on the hearing. His mission is in the interest of improved utility service, he said.

DAYLIGHT TIME EXTENSION DIES; ENDS ON SEPT. 24

Plans to extend the daylight saving period in Chicago to the end of October were abandoned yesterday after World's Fair officials had withdrawn their request for the extension. As a result, Chicagoans will turn their clocks back an hour on Sept. 24, a week from tomorrow.

The city council committee on judiciary approved a resolution earlier in the week extending the date, which would have taken effect had it been voted by a majority of the aldermen and promulgatd by Mayor Kelly as an official proclamation.

However, protests against the extension were received from several sources. Railroads said that it would disrupt their plans, already under way, to restore their suburban schedules to a standard time basis. Brokerage houses and banks also opposed it on the ground that it would disarrange relations with New York, and it was pointed out to the mayor that the extension would inconvenience school children.

BOY BURGLAR SENTENCED.

Henry Harris, colored, 17 years old, 4929 South Wabash avenue, was found guilty of attempted burglary yesterday in Boy's court before Judge John Gutknecht and sentenced to serve a year in the house of correction.

CARDINAL CALLS ARCHDIOCESE TO HOLY YEAR RITES

Message to Be Read in Churches Tomorrow.

A message from Cardinal Mundelein, heralding the opening of a year of special devotions, will be read tomorrow morning at all masses in all Roman Catholic churches of the archdiocese of Chicago. The holy year will start officially next Thursday and will end with the formal celebration on Sept. 21, 1934, of the silver jubilee of the prelate's elevation to the episcopacy.

The twelve months intervening will be marked by at least one mission in each of the parishes of the archdiocese; by the recital after each mass, on Sundays and holidays, of a special prayer in honor of the event; by the insertion in the mass of other prayers by the priest, and by other extraordinary devotions. By the request of Cardinal Mundelein these devotions will take the place of the usual receptions, banquets, and costsly gifts and testimonials customary in jubilee festivities.

Bars Gifts of Money.

"Standing on the threshold of my jubilee year, I ask that none of these be given to me," the cardinal's message reads in part. "My people have just passed through a time of stress and worry; the black cloud of depression still hangs over the parishes, and the pinch of a shrunken income is felt by pastors and by their people as well.

"At such a time I would not think of letting them offer gifts of money to me, or even contribute to the diocesan works in which I am interested, the completion of which can wait for better times. And yet I would not have the occasion pass unnoticed."

Asks for Spiritual Gifts.

After outlining the spiritual gifts he requests of the congregation, Cardinal Mundelein concludes his message with the statement: "No greater jubilee gift has ever come to a bishop in centuries past than this. To know that a united prayer of thanksgiving ascends from the million hearts of his priests and people who have just passed through the purifying process of a mission, is like a foretaste of heaven."

ECKENER COMING TO PLAN CHICAGO TRIP OF ZEPPELIN

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the Graf Zeppelin, arrived today on the Hamburg convinced that the "back debacle" of the depression was over and announcing that he now would resume negotiations for financing a trans-oceanic passenger dirigible service.

If it hadn't been for the depression, the ruddy-faced navigator of the air said, passenger and mail dirigibles would already be regularly crossing. He was hopeful that in the not too distant future a regular fifty-hour eastward crossing and a seventy-hour westward crossing, at rates comparable with the steamship rates, could be established.

He will leave for Akron and Chicago tomorrow to arrange for the forthcoming flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen to Chicago by way of Rio de Janeiro and Miami. Weather permitting, he expects to arrive in Miami on Oct. 24. This voyage will be about 14,000 miles—to Chicago and return.

The Graf has proved the practicability of dirigible service in the South American route, Dr. Eckener declared, and the new ship now being finished at the Zeppelin works will be a considerable improvement on the Graf.

90% OF TEACHERS FOR ECONOMIES, McJUNKIN HOLDS

Believes 99% of Parents Also Favor Plan.

Ninety per cent of the teachers and 99 per cent of Chicago school children's parents are in favor of the retrenchment and reorganization program of the school board, Trustee William D. McJunkin declared yesterday. Mr. McJunkin, who was appointed to the board by a former Republican mayor, pointed out the benefits which will accrue to teachers and children alike from the new plan under which the city's schools reopen Monday.

"For the last two months ten of the eleven board members—Republicans and Democrats alike—appointees of three different mayors—have been subjected to a campaign of villification and terrorism that has been a disgrace to the city of Chicago," said Mr. McJunkin. "I feel perfectly safe in saying that 90 per cent of the teachers and 99 per cent of the parents of school children are wholeheartedly with the majority of the board and in favor of a retrenchment program.

Attacks from Small Groups.

"The attacks on the board have come from individuals or small organized groups who stood to suffer—if a loser under economical administration can be called a sufferer—through the economies effected by the board.

"Conspicuously absent from the opposition were the taxpayers, individually or through their organizations. Every property owner in Chicago realizes that from 25 to 30 per cent of their tax dollars—which they have paid or now owe to the county—is used for school purposes. In some recent years, indeed, the school system took a larger proportion of the tax dollar than the city of Chicago with all its responsibilities of police, fire protection, city lighting, etc.

"I feel sure that every taxpayer joins me and my fellow board members in our regret that it was necessary to eliminate a number of persons from the school system. I am also certain that the taxpayers will welcome the information that Chicago school children, as well as the teachers, will benefit from the beginning by the economies adopted.

Effect of Economies.

"The economies effected by the board have gone mainly to two points—reducing the cost of administration and insisting that all employes do a full day's work for which they are paid. Assistant directors of various departments and even the directors in some instances have been eliminated.

"With regard to the kindergartens the public should understand that there are kindergarten facilities for every child in Chicago over the age of 5 years.

"The changes made in the curriculum as regards the teaching of music in the public schools have been magnified out of all proportions. The assistant director and supervisor of orchestral music and twenty-three band and orchestra leaders have been eliminated. Beyond that the subject of music has not been touched.

"With regard to manual training, printing, and household arts as taught in the elementary schools the surveys made and published during recent weeks in Chicago newspapers demonstrate beyond any doubt that the rooms used for these special purposes were imperatively needed in more than half of the elementary schools for regular classroom instruction.

"The public school system does not mean free schools. A thing that is free costs nothing, but the public schools cost a great deal of money. If there is any doubt of it I can only point to the cost per pupil in Chicago during the last thirty years. The money spent for educational purposes over that period for each pupil was as follows: 1900, $38.02; 1910, $39.19; 1920, $75.78; 1930, $122.13, and 1932, $124.90."

LEGION'S CHILD WELFARE PARLEY WILL OPEN OCT. 1

The safeguarding of children through child-welfare legislation in the various states will be the topic of a conference sponsored by the American Legion, which will open at the Palmer house on Oct. 1, the day before the first session of the Legion's national convention.

During the last year, according to the national report of the Legion's welfare committee, the Legion performed constructive work in behalf of children in 43 legislatures, either by gaining legislation or by preventing destructive amendments. The conference, which is an annual affair, will pay tribute this year to memory of the late Herbert R. McKinney, a leader in the Legion's child welfare work and deputy welfare director for Michigan.

The conference also will discuss plans to eliminate child labor in every industry and to gain ratification of a child labor amendment to the constitution. Miss Emma C. Puschner, national director, will preside. Dr. Charles Schott, of Chicago, will deliver a message of welcome.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

As the railway emergency act will remain in effect but a year it seems a foregone conclusion that congress will consider many railway bills at its next session. Government ownership advocates are already in the field with their glowing predictions of successful operation by Uncle Sam.

We are willing to acknowledge that the group is at least consistent in so far as they invariably start with the assertion that as Canada is operating one of the largest systems on the American continent, this country can happily dispose of the vexatious transportation problem by government ownership. Further consistency may be found in the fact that none took the trouble to ascertain whether or not Canada is satisfied with its railway situation.

A little investigation would have destroyed this underlying premise and consequently the whole argument. Canada has not disposed of its railway problem by public ownership; it has merely made it so much worse that today "what to do with the Canadian National railways" is the biggest question before parliament. A year ago the question was turned over to a group of experts who prepared a plan that will result in the abandonment of much government owned mileage. There was at that time a strong demand that the government railway should be turned over to its privately owned and operated competitor, the Canadian Pacific, to make the best use of the white elephant and stop further inroads on the public treasury. Such a suggestion was politically impossible.

During the closing years of the great war the railways of the United States were operated by a government administration. In the short period of twenty-six months the loss of two billion dollars and service that has remained a nightmare to the shipper ever since were its only accomplishments. The properties were turned back to the original owners in 1920 in such poor physical condition that it required a 40 per cent increase in freight rates to give the carriers sufficient funds to rehabilitate them. Government ownership of transportation systems has been tried so many times with such disastrous results that we cannot understand why these writers are given space for their ideas.

NULLIFICATION BY EMERGENCY.

There is only one amendment to the constitution now pending and that is the twenty-first, which repeals the eighteenth.

The constitution has not been amended to permit the President, by decree, to confiscate the money of citizens. The fundamental law has not been amended to permit the President rather than congress to regulate the currency. Nor has there been an amendment to permit the secretary of agriculture by decree to tax the citizens at rates which he regards as necessary, nor is there any authorization for his forbidding a farmer to sell produce at prices which the farmer regards as satisfactory. And so on. There is no point in extending the list, though it can readily be extended by any one who has read the acts of the special session of congress and the decrees of the federal government issued since last March.

When the point is made that the constitution has been not only stretched, but violated, the reply has come that the nation is in the midst of so dire an emergency that no time can be wasted in bringing about an orderly amendment as provided in Article V. Opinions on this point will differ, but there can be little difference over the conclusion that if an emergency justifies disregard of the constitution in some particulars it justifies similar disregard all along the line. If one emergency can destroy the right of private property, then another emergency can destroy the right to a fair trial, the freedom of the press, of speech and of religion, the right to assemble and petition and all the other hard won civil liberties.

If the President because of an emergency may confiscate, why may he not in another emergency use the army to toss congress out of the capitol and dissolve the Supreme court? The doctrine of emergency, by its very nature, can have no limits. An emergency which today justifies the assumption of the taxing power by Mr. Wallace can tomorrow justify a declaration of war or the proscription of a religious sect by some other executive officer.

If the suggested extensions of the emergency doctrine appear to be absurd it should be remembered that they are no more absurd than the acts of the last congress would have seemed to any one, lawyer or layman, a few years ago. Perhaps it is worth recalling that the Weimar constitution also guaranteed civil liberties and that the German people have been deprived of them because of the alleged existence of an emergency.

If the people of this country want a change in the fundamentals of their law the way to bring it about and confine it to the things which they desire altered is clear and precise. Article V. points the way. It has been followed successfully 20 times. Not even the drys, indifferent as they were to constitutional principles, ventured to alter the constitution without formally amending it. They did not seek to prevent trade in intoxicants by pretending that the prevention of interstate commerce in a commodity is a regulation of it or that the prevention of drinking is, properly speaking, a question of "general welfare." The drys amended the constitution to make their prohibition possible and the same method should be followed by any one else who seeks to remold the American government and redefine the rights of an American citizen. Otherwise there is no constitution and there are no rights.

JUDGES FOR THE DEATH PENALTY.

The Michigan Judges' association has passed a resolution asking the legislature to fix the death penalty for "unprovoked murder." We do not care for the phrase and have not the text of the resolution before us, but we hope the Michigan legislature will put the death penalty in the criminal code of the state. Michigan has never had it during its history as a state, the maximum punishment having always been life imprisonment, but in 1931 an act establishing the death penalty was passed, though it was rejected upon a referendum. A referendum on so important a change in policy is justifiable and expedient, for it would be futile and worse to put the death penalty into the statutes unless it has the public conscience behind it. But although the act of 1931 was rejected by the voters of Michigan, their judgment may have changed since then. The prevalence of violence and the need for more drastic punishment for ruthless killing must be more apparent year by year, and the recommendation of so authoritative a body as the judiciary of the state must impress the public mind. The bar and press would do well to undertake a campaign of education to forestall the organized sentimentalism which will resist the change.

Meanwhile it is to be hoped the recommendation of the Michigan judiciary will have influence outside that commonwealth. Even in states which already have the death penalty in their criminal code, courts must give it effect. It is not a pleasant, indeed it is a very painful, duty to impose a sentence of death in almost any case. But it is a duty which the conditions of widespread, ruthless violences impose upon conscientious citizenship. It is not contended that it is a cure-all for murder, but it is the most important of restraints. It is argued that excessive penalties do not do away with criminality, but the death penalty for murder is not excessive. It is logical and it is the only penalty that is adequate for ruthless killing and its terrors are necessary to the restraint of the wanton killers whose numbers have so alarmingly increased in recent years. It is the only penalty which can be effective in impressing the imagination of this type and juries must recognize the fact that the death penalty is declared in the law not only as a punishment of the culprit but as a warning to others.

MORE LADIES' RIGHTS.

A lawsuit in Los Angeles reveals an advance in woman's rights, pleasing no doubt to the starker sort who would embrace a pain, even in the neck, if it were a privilege of full equality but annoying to the individual who finds herself enjoying the right. A movie actress who became the victim of a romantic male, described by his mother as a natural and too often irresistible prowler, is later the victim of a suit for $100,000 damages begun by the prowler's wife.

Irresistible gentlemen have, at times in their careers, encountered the thorn on the rose or the hornets' nest in the clover when they discovered that they had blundered into the marriage ties of others, and that injury to this holy estate carried assessable damages, to be collected in or out of court. Such gentlemen were fair game, the badger game. An attractive wife and an injured husband by letting solvent Cupids in the door could easily keep the wolves away.

It now appears that an attractive husband and an injured wife have the same opportunity if they work the fascinations of the one along with the injuries of the other. There are more ways than one in which a husband can be a good provider.

Solvent and susceptible single ladies are exposed to new experiences. The wife may be planted on the other side of the door of romance. The styles should consider the desirability of a check book pocket in modish gowns.

THE VERDE RIVER PROJECT.

[The Arizona Daily Star.]

Phoenix is all agog over the Verde river project. It is determined to secure a loan of some $15,000,000 from the public works administrator to furnish funds to build this new irrigation project. Commercial interests who see a temporary profit in the pay rolls from construction activities, land speculators who will reap a handsome profit, and relief workers who see it as an opportunity to put many men to work are unanimous in demanding the loan for this project. The final hearings on the project will be held in Washington on Sept. 16. Both Senators Hayden and Ashurst report that the chances for its approval are almost certain.

At a time when the Salt river project is having a most difficult time to meet its interest and bond obligations, when thousands of farmers in the Salt river project are not able to pay their taxes to the county or state, when a great surplus exists in the very commodities that the Verde project would grow, when Arizona cotton farmers are plowing up part of their cotton crop, when in the Coolidge project thousands of acres of land lie idle for lack of settlers it is hard by any rule of logic to see how Arizona or the nation will benefit by adding more high cost land to the state's and nation's production.

Suppose the Verde loan goes through and thousands of acres of new land are added to production, whence will come the settlers to make this land produce? If the land within this project must pay back the cost, how will the producers be able t pay it back on the present market for grapefruit, winter vegetables, and other such crops? How will the other farmers of Arizona benefit if the surplus of these specialized crops is increased by this new production? How will the commercial interests of Phoenix benefit in the long run if more bankrupt farmers are to be added to the great number already existing?

The clamor for this project is typical of the times. Each little community is out for its share of the public swag. For 10 cents of immediate profits business interests will mortgage everything they have. In the end everybody suffers. The ones who will benefit will be the contractors and the land speculators. The rich will be richer and the poor will be poorer. It is a small example of how the powers and resources of the government are used to create unearned wealth for a favored few.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

CLAIRE WINDSOR said after receiving the news the jury had soaked her seventy-five thousand berries in the suit for alienation of affection brought against her: "Well, I haven't seventy-five cents. Rather than go to work to make money for Mrs. Read I'll probably get married again." But reflect, Claire. It's tough to think about going to work earning money for Mrs. Read, but if you marry again will you escape work? Think of answering the telephone a dozen times a day and getting Junior off to school and firing the cook and the rows with papa over the millinery bill and dodging the bills from the grocery, the butcher, the tailor, and the candlestick maker. There are many married ladies, Claire, who will tell you that going to work, even if it is to make money to pay Mrs. Read, is a cinch to what you sneeringly refer to as "getting married again." Think it over, Claire, think it over!

HER HOUSE AND MINE.

She is not one to hold on to
What has outlived its worth;
She wastes no tears. To her there is
For every death, a birth.

Among her bright and living things
She sits with eyes that shine.
When I return from her neat house
I carry into mine

That freshness of the very new,
Untouched, unspent, unsaid—
I carry it into this room,
So cluttered with its dead—

The ghosts I could not quite discard
To shiver in the rain,
Because of hoping . . . foolishly . . .
That they might live again.

FERRY ADAMS.

THE GREAT DIFFICULTY in the situation in Cuba to the American public is the cross word puzzle makers. It's just like 'em to make a word that will be defined as "President of Cuba on the second of September," or "President of Cuba on the third of September," or "President of Cuba between two o'clock and three forty-five on the nineteenth of September." That's going to be harder than the "Kind of dog popular with the Incas" or "War club of the Peruvian Indians."

WHAT MAKES me sore now in working out cross word puzzles is the "Abbreviation of selurium phosphate" and the "Ancient city of Asia Minor where the Fan Dance was first performed." But wait until they break loose on the presidents of Cuba. Do you remember them all? Neither do I.

IF I ONLY HAD the ready money in my pocket nowadays what bargains I could get. A nice young man in a delivery wagon stopped me on the street yesterday and offered me a perfectly lovely silver fox fur for thirty bucks. And it was worth one hundred and seventy-five dollars and there was the bill to prove it. The company had made the mistake and the delivery boy, who was a nice young fellow trying to get on in the world, would let me have it for thirty bucks. And I didn't have the thirty bucks and the delivery boy drove on to let somebody else have the opportunity I missed. Ah, well, the sailor who found a box of Irish lace left on the boat is coming back today and he is going to let me have fifty yards of Irish lace for ten dollars. It seems it was smuggled in and it's worth seventy-five bucks. It is, too; the sailor says so.

TOMORROW'S FAITH.

"Tomorrow, friend, will be another day,"
A seer wise of old was wont to say
To him who came at eventide, in grief,
Because the day had borne no fruitful sheaf.

O Lord of Life, that each of us might learn
From vain todays and yesterdays to turn,
To face the future with a hope new-born
That what we hoped for cometh with the morn!

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

I HAVE NO SUGGESTION to the august board that is drawing plans for the liquor control law in Illinois except one. Prohibit absolutely any customer at a place where Manhattan cocktails are made and sold from demanding a cherry in his cocktail. It always starts trouble. I remember a man in our crowd at the old Waldorf bar in New York (and such a bar! Such a bar!) who said to the bartender who pushed a cocktail at him: "Say, listen, guy, I'm no boob. Where's the cherry?" And the bartender, after hunting around under the bar for five minutes, found the cherry bottle and, fishing one out with a fork, put it in the cocktail and then as he wiped his hands on his apron said softly: "And how are all the folks out at Kansas City?" And then the trouble started.

THE BOARD should, of course, require that a cherry should be put in the Manhattan cocktails and an olive in the Martinis, but a limit should be placed on the kind of cocktails a customer could order. A "Bluebird" or a "Sweet Rose of Sharon" might be permitted, but a customer who comes up to the bar and tells the barkeep he wants a "Clover Leaf with Absinthe" or a "Daffy Down Dilly" should be barred. Barkeeps are calm, cool headed men, but sometimes a customer starts them to lunging over the bar with the ice pick in one hand and the bung starter in the other.

COUPLET OF IMPOSSIBILITY.

I may have to hit my offspring with a mace or a mallet,
But I'm going to make him un-American and have him pronounce it valet.

A DIET FOR A DIABETIC.

DR. W. A. GROAT and Miss Rosbrook recommended the following diet for an average diabetic who is under the necessity of living economically, who is doing some work, who is not in a position to weigh foods, and who cannot calculate calories.

Food for one day, to be eaten on Sundays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays:

MORNING.

Two tablespoons of raw cereal.
One ordinar square of butter.
Two slices ½ inch thick bread.
Coffee.

NOON.

Same amount of bread as at breakfast.
One potato.
One-half pound of meat.
Three-fourths cup of vegetables.
Scant ½ cup tomatoes.
One pat butter.
Tea.

SUPPER.

Same amount of bread.
One-third potato.
Three-fourths cup of vegetables.
One-half cup of fruit.
One pat of butter.
One tablespoon lard.
Tea.

For Mondays and Fridays:

BREAKFAST.

Scant ½ can of evaporated milk.
Two tablespoons raw cereal.
One pat of butter.
Two slices bread ½ inch thick.
Coffee.

NOON.

Same amount of bread.
One potato.
One-fourth pound of fish.
One pat of butter.
Scant ½ cup of tomatoes.
One tablespoon lard.
Tea.

SUPPER.

Same amount of bread.
One pat of butter.
One-sixth pound of beans.
One-eighth pound pork.
One egg.
Tea.

For Wednesdays:

BREAKFAST.

Scant ½ can of evaporated milk.
Two slices bread.
Two tablespoons raw cereal.
One pat of butter.
One egg.
Coffee.

NOON.

Same amount of bread.
One potato.
One pat of butter.
Two eggs.
Two tablespoons lard.
One and two-thirds ounces fruit.
Tea.

SUPPER.

Same amount bread.
One pat of butter.
Scant ½ cup tomatoes.
Beans 1-6 pound and pork 1-8 pound.
Tea.

The total cost for these amounts of these foods is $1.10, or about 16c daily. This does not include the cost of cooking and serving. The average number of calories in the day's diet is about 2,100. A man of medium size can do a moderate amount of work without losing weight or strength on that number of calories. The proportion of starches to fats is almost two to one, and the amount of protein is more than one-third that of carbohydrate.

There is enough of each of the vitamins and of the minerals required for health. There is no sugar except the little found in milk and fruits. The bread is the principal source of starch, though the beans supply considerable.

The objective was to get as much energy as possible from the cheapest foods—breads, beans, and cereals—but not going far enough in that direction to increase materially the blood sugar. To make up most of the calories needed to piece out the supply from bread and beans with fats, but stopping short of causing acidosis and not running the cost up.

These are not ideal diets for diabetics, nor will they suit every diabetic. But they will suit most of them reasonably well and they are not expensive nor trouble making.

When it is possible for a given case to be studied individually and a special line of diet specially suiting that case can be worked out and carried out that is what should be done.

These diets represent a compromise with the realities.

WATER AND RASH.

Mrs. F. N. O. writes: My brother has high blood pressure, very bad. He doctored a long time; gets very little relief. Some one told him about drinking about two wine glasses of mineral water a day. After taking it about a week he broke out with a rash all over his body, even on the eyelids. The family is peeved at him for taking it, and want him to throw it out. The friend still insists it is doing him good and that accounts for the rash. Will you tell us the benefits derived, if any, from the taking of this water?

REPLY.

I think he will find there is some other cause for the rash. Drinking mineral water may not materially change his blood pressure, but it is not liable to cause a rash.

RELIEF FOR HIVES.

Mrs. C. C. writes: Some time ago I read about an alkaline salt for hives. Would you kindly find out where I can get it, as I tried everything and I am going crazy with hives? Wherever I asked for it they told me there are all kinds of alkaline salts.

REPLY.

Dissolve cooking soda in water and you have an alkaline solution. The druggists were right. They have many varieties. When you told them you wanted it for hives I cannot understand why they did not sell you ammonia water or soda water, to be used externally, of course. At best, using this alkaline solution gives you a little temporary relief. The proper policy for one with hives is to find out the cause and avoid it.

TESTING BLOOD.

Mrs. K. S. writes: Would a urinalysis disclose if there was anything wrong with the blood, or would a blood test be necessary?

REPLY.

Urine testing is a means of diagnosing diabetes, in which disease there is an excess of blood sugar. Another test helps to distinguish between pernicious anemia and secondary anemia. These are about the only fields in which urine testing helps in diagnosing blood conditions. If you want to know what is wrong with the blood, test it rather than something else.

TRUSTEESHIP.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Are a trustee's acts binding upon those who invest him with the power of real estate trustee? 2. Mr. and Mrs. A place a mortgage [trust deed] upon their property, naming Mr. Z. as trustee on trust deed and in [3] trust agreement. 4. With fraudulent intent Mr. Z transfers same property to a fourth person [third party having purchased above trust deed note]. At the maturity of said note Mr. and Mrs. A pay in full said obligation, and are then given release of trust deed, together with canceled note, by Mr. Z [as trustee]. 5. Upon such payment by Mr. and Mrs. A and acquirement of said papers, will their title then be free and clear? 6. If not, what steps should be taken to set aside any fraudulent transfers, and would such procedure be costly?

A. B. C.

1. Yes, as to his dealings with the subject matter of the trust and within the scope of the powers given him. No, as to outside transactions.
2. This would be regular.
3. It is not usual to have a trust agreement in addition to the trust deed. Hence we cannot advise without having the wording before us.
4. If Z had title only as trustee under a deed securing mortgage notes, then he could not convey any beneficial interest to any other person.
5. We cannot say without knowing the substance of the trust agreement and what it was that Z transferred.
6. We advise you to go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

NRA Question Box

Requests for information concerning the NRA will be printed in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly. Following are some typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers:

Question—Has a code been adopted for the retail hardware stores?

Answer—Retail hardware stores will come under the blanket code for the retail trade now being considered in Washington. We will give the hours and wages for this blanket code as soon as possible.

Question—The store I work for belongs to the NRA and just recently put us back on a 48 hour week, claiming that, according to the code, dress saleswomen might work 48 hours during the busy season. Ours is a retail store. Will you please publish the correct information about this?

Answer—Your owner is right under the following conditions: During peak periods, and right now is considered a peak for dress sales, employés may work 48 hours a week for not to exceed three weeks in each six months' period. With these exceptions, the 40 hour week for your business applies.

FROM A DOWNSTATE EDITOR.

Stockton, Ill., Sept. 12.—The big job, I hear, is to sell A Century of Progress to Chicagoans, meaning those who could go but don't, and refer to the Fair as "a great big carnival."

The city-wise person who has "been everywhere and seen everything" has a provincial smugness that is harder to crack than the shell of a turtle. And, like the turtle's shell, it keeps him from seeing things that might do him good and enlarge his horizon.

His travels probably have been limited to an annual trip to Michigan City, but his mind is closed, and the tremendous spectacle on the lake front will pass him by like the Bremen outdistancing a sardine. And serve him jolly well right, say I.

CHARLES SUGHROE.

OUTRAGEOUS IF TRUE.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—On Friday, Sept. 1, while walking north on Dearborn at Kinzie street, going to meet my wife, I was stopped by a solicitor. After rejecting her advances I proceeded to an alley. A voice hollered for me to come into the alley. Being alarmed, I started forward again when a man came running out and said, "Police officer," and held a star in his hand. I then went into the alley to be questioned by them. They used violent language and asked me many questions. They then called the solicitor and told her they had given her a break just a few minutes before, and if she had gone home as they told her to do nothing would have happened.

The officers took both of us to the station, holding me over night until court the next morning. The solicitor got out on bonds. In court I was discharged and the solicitor fined $1 and costs.

Now, why did an innocent person have to sit in jail over night when I did no harm and intended no harm, but was a victim of circumstances? If the police had attended to their duty they would have been arresting this woman solicitor at first and not waited for another person to come along and be victimized.

JOSEPH B. LANGKIN.

FROM A CADDY.

Roselle, Ill., Sept. 12.—With the golf season on the wane, have the members of the numerous clubs around Chicago thought about the caddies who served them this summer? I hope they have. These boys and married men, too, need work this winter. Can the golfers expect to have caddies next summer if they practically starve this winter?

Now, I believe the majority of club members have never given the situation a second thought. Many of these boys would make very good office boys, good messengers and some even have trades. Some would like to go to school and work part time. But the big drawback is no finances.

Now, golfers, it's up to you. Are you going to help your caddies or are you not?

W. C. C. CADDY NO. 184.

FROM A FORGOTTEN MAN.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Amidst the storm and hullabaloo of NRA we seem to have overlooked one more forgotten man. I am its prototype.

I am employed by an anti-patriot. His motto, self-adapted, is "No raises allowed." I am working for $12.50 a week, in a position that ought to be paying me double that under any circumstances. What I must do with this money, though relevant, must pass unsaid for lack of space, but it may be easily construed by any married man.

Though I must remain at this old salary, I find the cost of everything from food to furniture mounting like an inflated balloon. I haven't had a new suit of clothes for too long to mention. This week I thought I might be able to get one, but I find that what I paid $18.75 for a long, long time ago, now costs $4 more. My salary has not advanced that much.

Food is higher, rents are higher, clothing is higher. The NRA brought that. Now what am I supposed to do about it? My cost of living has increased 20 to 25 per cent, with no increase in wages.

VICTIM.

THE PRICE OF ELECTRICITY.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—In this morning's Voice of the People A. H. Wagoner in defending Samuel Insull says that Chicago through the foresight and intelligence of Mr. Insull has the best and cheapest electrical service in the world. If Mr. Wagoner would make a trip to Seattle or to Buffalo he would know what it is to have a city with cheap electric rates and wonderful service. Just to give him a sample of rates, can he compare anything we have here with this: $1.50 to $1.75 a month for running a radio most of the day, lights for a five room house with two floor and one table lamps, also the running of a large size electric refrigerator for the house?

A CHICAGOAN.

FROM A TELEGRAPH BOY.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—I am a messenger boy employed by a major telegraph company which employs approximately 500 boys in the city of Chicago. Most of these boys average in age from 18 to 20 years. Will some one please tell me if the $5 a week minimum the telegraph company states in their code for messengers is a suitable wage for a boy of this age? This company recently issued a statement that they have given an increase in salary to employés. They did not say how much the raise was or who was excluded. The fact is all employés, clerks, messengers, operators, etc., were reduced in salary 40 to 50 per cent a little over a year ago. When they issued the above statement they raised the clerks, operators, and executives 6 per cent of their salaries, but where does the messenger boy come in?

WAR AIDES TOLD HOW THEIR WORK REBUILDS MEN

Parker and Cluverius Pay Tributes at Banquet.

The army and the navy, in the persons of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, had generous tributes to offer last night to the World War Reconstruction Aids at the dinner concluding their convention at the Belden-Stratford hotel. But Col. Hugh Scott, head of Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, tinctured this praise of their work with an admonition to them to go out and secure the military preference they are denied, although some have fourteen years of service to their credit.

Both Col. Scott, rtpresenting the military hospitals, and Dr. Italo Volini, representing the civilian hospitals, stressed the invaluable contributions of the several score of women present, and their comrades in the two fields of physical therapy and occupational therapy, and the almost unlimited field of usefulness opening before them today as an adjunct to medicine.

Urges Wide Use of Their Skill.

Every phase of their skill and training, Dr. Colini declared, should be administered to restore patients to their places in life, physically and mentally stable and equipped to earn in some line of work.

"A disgruntled soldier, I have always said, is a greater handicap than a wounded one," Col. Scott declared. "I can apply that now to the rehabilitation work we are engaged in at the Hines hospital. Occupational therapy is a highly necessary thing, it seems to me—a good mental condition in a patient is as necessary as high standards of medicine.

"I was surprised to receive word in a communication from Washington lately that you occupational therapists have no military preference. I am inclined to think it is your own fault. You were asleep when the going was good, and, now that it isn't so good, those of you who have fourteen years of service couldn't today be hospitalized in government hospitals. You'll have to attend to that yourselves."

Asserts They Provide Morale.

"If success is a journey, you women who were world war aids have started thousands of despairing men of the army and navy to their ultimate destination," Admiral Cluverius assured the group of several score, gathered about a long, oval table in the hotel ballroom. "You provided that something plus that must go with any victory to make it perfect. I speak of morale, which no captain or commander of a ship can give his men."

Mrs. Marco Adrogna of Chicago presided as toastmistress at the dinner. Maj. A. V. Simoni, chaplain at Fort Sheridan, gave the invocation and short talks were made by Miss Esther Macomber, national president; Mrs. Eleanor Clark Slagle of New York, who pioneered in the occupational therapy field in this country; Col. Tryggve Siqueland, E. S. Beck, and Mrs. Henry E. Mason.

RUSSIA COLLECTS FORTY PER CENT OF GRAIN QUOTA

MOSCOW, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Michael Kalinin, president of soviet Russia, announced today that grain collections of the government on Sept. 1 aggregated 360,000,000 bushels, or 40 per cent of the amount set for the year.

This was the first indication that the second five year plan provides for the gathering of 900,000,000 bushels. At this time last year the collections were one-third of the amount so far gathered in 1933.

22 Injured When Bus Plunges Over Embankment

Camden, Tenn., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Twenty-two persons were injured when a Memphis to Nashville bus, proceeding through a fog, plunged down a high embankment on the approach to the Tennessee river bridge just east of here early today. Dr. J. M. Smythe, who treated the injured, said at least two and possibly five of the passengers suffered serious injuries.

Placed on Trial

[Acme Photo.]

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Isador Kresel went on trial today for misapplication of funds of the Bank of United States through its subsidiaries.

Kresel, long an eminent attorney before the bank closed in December, 1930, is defended by John W. Davis and Theodore Kiendl.

The charge against Kresel, general counsel and director of the bank, is the same as that for which Bernard K. Marcus, president, and Saul Singer, executive vice president, are now in Sing Sing. They were to have been tried together, but Kresel obtained a severance on the grounds of illness.

In court today the talesmen called for possible jury service were asked to state if they were acquainted with any one connected with the ambulance chasing investigation which Kresel conducted or with the inquiry into the magistrate's courts in which he was counsel for Samuel Seabury and which led to the Hofstadter investigation.

Marcus and Singer were convicted for having juggled assets between subsidiary companies, raising their value without reason, and lending the bank's money to a subsidiary to the full extent of the fictitious value. It was contended at their trial that Kresel developed the plan.

PLAN LOAN TO RUSSIA TO BUY U. S. PRODUCTS

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation is now completing plans to extend a further credit of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 to the soviet government to be used in the purchase of American commodities, including cotton, copper and aluminum, it was reported today.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was here today, and during the afternoon he held a conference with Peter A. Bogdanov and A. Rosenshein, chairman and president, respectively, of Amtorg Trading corporation, the American company owned by the soviet government, to discuss the terms of the large credit.

It was learned that the R. F. C. stands ready to advance the funds and the Amtorg officials were ready to close the deal as soon as an agreement could be reached on the interest rate, the maturity and the amount of the purchase price which the soviet would have to put up in cash.

Indications were that Bogdanov and Rosenshein were trying to drive a hard bargain on the terms of the loan. The $4,000,000 credit which they obtained in this country in July, most of which came from the R. F. C., bore interest at 5 per cent and was payable in one year.

Charges Against Mayor of Gary Are Dismissed

Valparaiso, Ind., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Charges of misconduct in office pending against Mayor Roswell O. Johnson of Gary in Porter Superior court for more than a year, were dismissed today by Prosecutor Robert Estill of Lake county. Johnson was indicted on charges that he used city labor, equipment and credit in constructing a rock garden at his Gary home and remodeling his summer residence at Miller.

JAP FAMOUS FOR VERBAL SHAFTS AT U. S. SAILS

Foreign Office Spokesman to Visit Chicago.

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Toshio Shiratori, the man who made Japan's "foreign office spokesman" famous, sailed today for his new diplomatic post in the Scandinavian countries by way of the United States.

Shiratori, the new minister to Sweden, Denmark, Iceland, and Finland, will arrive at Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 27 and then spend three months in America, renewing firsthand knowledge of the country which for the past two years has been the principal target of his verbal shafts.

As chief of the information bureau of the foreign office he was the chief link of the Japanese government and world press.

Replies to Stimson Recalled.

It was Shiratori, as "foreign office spokesman," who replied to the blunt notes of Secretary of State Stimson of the United States after the Japanese army began its conquest of Manchuria in September, 1931.

One of his most widely published rejoinders was a reply to a correspondent who asked early in 1932 whether Japan would recognize the newly formed state of Manchukuo at an early date.

"We are in no hurry," was Shiratori's reply, "we haven't any canal to build there."

It was an open secret that Shiratori's utterances brought frequent complaints to the home government from Japan's ambassadors and ministers abroad, while foreign ambassadors in Tokio had occasion to comment to the Japanese foreign minister.

Connected with Army Clique.

Shiratori is a nephew of Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, Japan's chief delegate to the world economic conference in London.

This family connection, his connections with the army clique, and the fact that he was one of the few government employés who had direct access to the emperor, were believed to have been responsible for him remaining in the foreign office post long after attempts had been made to remove him.

For two years he was designated to call weekly on Emperor Hirohito and acquaint him with the foreign affairs developments of the last week.

The new minister was last in the United States twelve years ago when he was second secretary of the embassy at Washington. This time he plans to visit A Century of Progress exhibition at Chicago and spend some time at the American capital. In the latter city he hopes to meet Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

L. J. MAITLAND'S EX-WIFE, TAXI DRIVER MARRIED

Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 15.—(AP)—The marriage of Ruth T. Maitland Dickson, former wife of Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, noted army flyer, and Dewey Howard, 31 year old Las Vegas taxi driver, was disclosed here today.

Mrs. Howard is the mother of Maitland's 9 year old daughter, Patricia Ruth. After a divorce here in 1931 she married Cecil B. Dickson of Washington, D. C.

Because of occasional visits of Lieut. Maitland here by plane while Mrs. Dickson was establishing residence for her latest divorce, friends expected her to remarry the flyer, and her marriage to Howard was a complete surprise.

She and Howard were married late yesterday by P. J. Springer, justice of the peace of Goodsprings, Nev., in a ceremony at which Mrs. Robert White was a witness.

Mrs. White is the widow of Bob White, convicted slayer who was executed in the Nevada lethal gas chamber.

Howard's friends said they understood the couple planned to live in Las Vegas as long as he is employed by the taxicab company.

MARTIN INSULL LOSES FIGHT TO QUIZ WITNESSES

Canadian Court Denies Him Appeal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 15.—Justice W. H. Wright today dismissed a motion on behalf of Martin J. Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities man, for leave to appeal against a judgment of Justice K. C. Kingstone declining to appoint a commission to go to Chicago to examine certain witnesses upon questions relating to the effort of Cook county, Illinois, to have Insull extradited from Canada to face charges of embezzlement in Chicago.

"I am strongly of the opinion that no appeal lies and that on that ground alone the application should be refused," Justice Wright said. "I know of no provision in the rules or in law that permit me to refer the question at issue to the Court of Appeal.

Cites Precedent for Action.

Justice Wright said he felt he should follow the decision in a case in British Columbia in which a right of appeal was denied. He noted that the criminal code did not expressly provide for an appeal against such a judgment as that of Justice Kingstone, and that against the decision of a county judge in such interlocutory proceedings there would be no right of appeal.

I. F. Hellmuth, counsel for Insull asserted in his plea that it would be a serious thing if a man should be committed for extradition on a deposition which omitted the explanation of his acts.

"I am questioning whether or not it has been shown that there has been a crime," he said.

"Do you say," asked Justice Wright "that there has not been a crime for which he can be extradited?"

Calls It "Proper Sale."

"There was no crime whatever, but a perfectly proper sale of securities," Hellmuth replied.

He added that checks which Insull had received were shown, but not the vouchers showing the purpose for which the checks were given.

E. W. Bayly, representing Cook county, Illinois, said that in an exactly similar case in British Columbia it had been held there were no grounds for appeal.

"The idea of going to Chicago to get evidence there to be used at the trial, and to be used here, is something entirely new," Bayly said.

Bayly said that with this point cleared up he would apply at an early date for an order from Justice Kingstone to extradite Insull.

U. S. READY IN GREECE

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 15.—American legation authorities said today that they will be ready tomorrow or Monday to make formal requisition to the Greek government to extradite Samuel Insull. The American authorities will submit documentary proofs of Insull's alleged guilt in violating the American bankruptcy laws.

The documentary proofs, which run about 1,000 pages, were nearly ready today. Five photostatic copies of the documents, translated into Greek, have been made to distribute to the Greek court and to Insull's lawyers.

The documents will be submitted by Leland Morris, American chargé d'affaires, on a formal visit to the foreign office. They will be presented with a formal diplomatic letter.

It was expected that two weeks for study of the documents will elapse before the Greek Court of Appeals is assembled to pronounce on the case.

After Morris submits the documents to the foreign office the latter first certifies the correctness of the translation, then passes them along to the ministry of justice, which turns them over to the Court of Appeals. This process usually requires three or four days.

Insull's lawyers today said they were sure no Greek court would grant the extradition.

GANDHI AND AID FIX FULL LIBERTY AS GOAL IN INDIA

POONA, India, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Jawarhalal Nehru, nationalist leaders who have conducted a series of conferences, announced today an agreement in defining the aim of the nationalist congress as the complete independence of India.

Gandhi declared that Indian princes must surrender much of their power and become popular representatives of the people. His colleague emphasized that freedom must be achieved by a revision of the rights of what he called the vested interests in favor of the masses.

The biggest vested interest, he said, is the British government and next come the princes.

CLIMBING stairs
that lead to NOWHERE

Why wear yourself out climbing endless stairs — stairs that lead only to disappointment?

It's far easier to plan your apartment hunt—to know in advance what stairs are worth the climbing—by using the Tribune Apartments-To-Rent want ad columns as your guide.

Using the Tribune Want Ad Section is the one sensible way to find the apartment you want even if you are interested only in a particular neighborhood. Landlords and rental agents list their best values—in all rental ranges from the lowest to the highest—in the Tribune. They choose the Tribune because they know this newspaper reaches far more prospects of the kind they want in their apartments than they can reach in any other way.

That's why, if you're looking for the best apartment available in the neighborhood you prefer, at the price you want to pay, your best chance of finding it is through the want ads in the Tribune.

Landlords! Rental Agents!

Have you seen the results of the searching, independent inquiry conducted by 17 prominent rental agents into the preferences of 1,988 tenants of apartments for the want ad sections of Chicago newspapers? A Tribune salesman will be glad to show you a copy. Ask him to do so.

GAS COMPANIES SUE TO ENJOIN SALES TAX LEVY

Exemption Is Claimed by Utility Concerns.

Twenty-one Illinois public utility companies, including all of those serving Chicago and its suburbs with gas and electricity, filed suits yesterday in the Circuit court to escape payment of the state's 2 per cent retailer occupational tax, commonly called the sales tax.

The companies seek to restrain Joseph J. Rice, state director of finance, from collecting the tax from them on the contention that utility services are not tangible personal property as it is defined by the tax law. Upon the basis of their business for July, a victory for the companies will cost the state in excess of $3,000,000 a year in taxes.

Distinction Is Drawn.

The 21 bills, filed by Isham, Lincoln & Beale, and by Cooke, Sullivan & Ricks, and by Pam & Hurd, are virtually identical. They state in part:

"Public utility corporations traditionally, historically, and by law are charged with the duty of furnishing their respective services to the public, and such corporations, unlike the merchant and shopkeeper, in furnishing their services, are not engaged in the business of selling property, as the expression 'sale and resale' is used in this act."

The bills also state that the company's rates are fixed by law, and that the Illinois commerce commission will not allow them to pass the tax on to their customers. Each company, the bills state, received a letter from Director Rice, instructing them to file a tax return on its July business. The companies have not and will not file the returns, nor will they pay the tax, unless the courts so direct, they state.

The bills also point out that for failure to make their returns the companies face a penalty of 25 per cent of the tax plus an added 1 per cent for each month during which it remains unpaid.

Companies Are Listed.

The companies which filed the suits, with the amounts of tax which they would owe on their July business, are:

Commonwealth Edison company	$110,000
People's Gas, Light and Coke company	40,000
Public Service Company of Northern Illinois	41,420
Western United Gas and Electric company	9,532
Central Illinois Public Service company	14,412
Illinois Power and Light company	21,547
Illinois Northern Utility company	4,664
Alton Light and Power company	1,220
Central Illinois Light company	9,892
North Shore Gas company	2,100
People's Power company	3,335
East St. Louis Light and Power company	3,041
Alton Gas company	262
Kewanee Public Service company	765
Rock River Valley Light and Power company	27
Keokuk Electric company	65
Cahokia Manufacturers Gas company	84
Dallas City Light company	23
McHenry Light and Power company	.....
Calumet City Public Service company	.....

The last two did not list the amount of their probable tax.

RUSH TO PAY TAXES

About 15,000 retailers pushed their way through the Chicago offices of the state department of finance at 30 North La Salle street yesterday to pay the 2 per cent occupational tax before midnight. It was the second monthly deadline date on the new sales tax, which last month netted the state $1,866,876. The penalty for delinquency is 25 per cent of the tax.

An avalanche of mail was expected to arrive at the Chicago and Springfield offices this morning, postmarked before midnight. Hundreds of those who came to the local offices left again intending to make their payment by money order rather than spend a long time in line.

The returns for August being made yesterday were "bigger and better" than for July, according to Robert M. Stowers, supervisor of the Chicago office. Figures on the collections will not be completed until Sept. 20, he said.

Wife Demands Husband Tell Why He Left Her

Mrs. Agatha M. Klesc, 446 West 63d street, asked in a separate maintenance suit filed yesterday in the Superior court for a court order requiring Richard Klesc, 410 West Marquette road, to tell her why he left her. The bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, states that the couple were married in 1930 and lived without a quarrel until Aug. 4, when Klesc suggested to his wife that she visit her family in Buffalo. When she returned, she says, he had left their home, and since has refused to return or to tell her why he left.

Stromberg Widow Sues for $500,000 Investment Loss

Mrs. Ella Stromberg, 5442 Sheridan road, widow of Alfred Stromberg, inventor of the Stromberg carburetor, yesterday filed the praecipe of a suit for $500,000 in the Superior court against Frederick L. Wilk Jr., her former son-in-law, and three other former officials of Wilk, Clarke & Co., a defunct investment company. Attorney Gerald T. Wiley, who filed the suit, said that the action is to recover money which Mrs. Stromberg lost through investments in the company.

Jury Asks Negro Be Held for Killing in Store Holdup

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that William Crawford, 38 years old, colored, 4732 South Dearborn street, be held to the grand jury for the murder of Kenneth Sutherland, 65 years old, 1706 Byron street, slain during the holdup of a grocery store Thursday night. Crawford was wounded and captured a few blocks from the scene of the killing after a gun battle with Policeman Frank Bychowski of the Town Hall station.

FEDERAL ATTORNEY OBSERVES TRIAL OF SIX LUER KIDNAPERS

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Joseph B. Keenan, a special assistant attorney general from Washington handling kidnaping cases, arrived here today as an observer in the trial in the Madison county Circuit court of six defendants in the August Luer kidnaping case. Keenan will remain next week and then go to Oklahoma City, Okla., as observer in the Bates case in which the federal government is interested.

Selection of the local jury was completed this afternoon despite one of the first selected jurymen, Clifford Cavener of Venice, sent word to State's Attorney Lester Geers that he had changed his mind about inflicting the death penalty. When reëxamined he was excused from service.

CLAIRE WINDSOR FIGHTS $75,000 LOVE VERDICT

Asks New Trial; Says She Cannot Pay.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Challenging the verdict of a jury which returned a verdict of $75,000 against her, Claire Windsor through her attorneys today took legal steps to nullify the judgment favoring Mrs. Marian Y. Read, Oakland society matron who had accused the actress of alienating the affections of Alfred C. Read Jr.

Attorneys representing the actress filed two motions with the court. One demanded a new trial and was based on grounds that the verdict was arrived at by chance; was not supported by the evidence; was contrary to law, was excessive and that newly discovered evidence warranted new legal action.

The second motion asked that the judgment "be set aside" on the ground that it was illegal. Judge Joseph Sproul indicated that this motion would be denied because it was untimely, the defense attorneys not having petitioned the court for a directed verdict before the cause was submitted to the jury.

Judge Sproul also granted an application for a stay of execution of the judgment for 10 days after the motions are to be argued, probably next week. Miss Windsor said "of course I can't be expected to pay that much money or any considerable sum for the simple reason that I haven't it."

A machine by which watches may eventually be regulated throughout the country by means of electrical impulses sent out by a single apparatus in New York was exhibited yesterday before 176 jewelers who are watch inspectors for the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago and Alton railroads. They held a convention in the Morrison hotel, arranged by W. C. Donnelly, superintendent of watch inspection for the roads.

The machine was developed at the Bell Telephone laboratories in New York for the Electric Research Products company. Through its use, the watch inspectors were told by C. H. Fetter of the sesearch company, the time required to regulate a watch may be reduced from two weeks to about five minutes.

The central principle of the apparatus which sends out the impulses from the laboratory in New York is an accurately cut, delicately adjusted ring of quartz crystal. This crystal acts as a control on the pulsations of an oscillating vacuum tube, somewhat similar to a radio tube, timing the frequency of the oscillations to a frequency which varies less than one part in a million.

The current generated in New York operated a small motor in Chicago, which in turn flashed a light at the rate of five times a second. The light was flashed on the balance wheel of a watch, which in this case also oscillated five times a second. The watch inspector, viewing the wheel through a microscope, knows that when it appears to stand still the watch is accurate.

BANDITS HOLD UP SCORE IN OFFICE; FLEE WITH $334

A score of employés of the A. I. Appleton Electrical Appliances company, 1723 Wellington avenue, were compelled to lie on the office floor yesterday while four bandits searched and robbed them.

The robbers made a haul of $334. The victims and their losses were: John Painter, 5125 Kenwood avenue, $125; Walter Robertson, 3920 Lake Park avenue, $100; Ernest R. Halsted, 4448 North California avenue, $40; Frank Wehrkeim, 6047 North Fairfield avenue, $31; Carl Sampson, 4745 Kenwood avenue, $16; Fletcher Staret, 104 Princeton avenue, Villa Park, $12, and Mrs. Edith Janson, 1618 Fullerton avenue, $10.

Actions of the bandits indicated they had hoped to find the company's pay roll. The company pays in checks.

COUNTY STARTS MILLION DOLLAR ROAD PROGRAM

450 Men to Be Employed; Bids Due Sept. 25.

BY HAL FOUST.

President Whealan of the county board yesterday announced a $1,000,000 highway program that will furnish employment to 450 men directly and almost as many indirectly this fall. Bids for the contracts, covering sixteen paving and bridge projects, will be opened on Sept. 25.

Maj. George Quinlan, superintendent of the county highway department, said that rights of way were being obtained and specifications being drawn for a second $1,000,000 batch of contracts to be awarded later in the year. The construction will be financed with the county's share of the gasoline tax.

Most of the projects are small but with an importance to the motoring public out of proportion to their lengths. In Belmont avenue, from Narragansett avenue to Central avenue, for example, the county will pave the sixteen feet of dirt in the middle of the street that has caused several severe accidents recently.

Devon Stretch to Be Paved.

Devon avenue, from Carpenter road to McCormick road, is another dangerous stretch that will be remedied with 2.7 miles of concrete ten and twenty feet wide. A forty foot slab will be laid in place of the bumpy asphalt of Addison street between Narragansett avenue and Natoma avenue. Concrete will also replace the rough brick of Ridge avenue between Devon avenue and Peterson road.

Other paving projects on the Sept. 25 letting are:

CRAWFORD AVENUE—131st street to 135th street.

STATE STREET—123d street to 127th street.

Two bridges are to be built for Kedzie avenue over lagoons in Marquette park. A bridge is listed for Lake street over the Des Plaines river. Two pedestrian underpasses are to be constructed in 87th street, one just west and the other just east of Western avenue. Drainage for Plum Grove road near Salt creek, and a culvert for Harms road near Glenview road are also on the program.

Automatic Traffic Control.

The letting also includes traffic actuated light control for four highway intersections—Glenview and Waukegan roads, 1st avenue and River road cutoff; 1st and North avenues, and River road and River road cutoff. With this equipment, such as is now installed in several places in Chicago, the stop and go lights are operated by automobiles tripping a radio trigger set in the pavement approaching the intersection.

"Our investigation," said Harry Lockner, traffic engineer for the county, "shows that these automatic signals increase the efficiency of the public's investment in pavements and at the same time reduce the hazard of motoring because drivers respect and obey this type of light."

LEHMANN FIGHTS DIVORCE ACTION, DELAY INDICATES

E. J. Lehmann Jr. will contest the divorce suit which Mrs. Virginia Peine Lehmann filed Wednesday in the Circuit court, it was indicated yesterday.

The case was placed on call yesterday before Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, at which time Mrs. Lehmann's attorney, William B. Gemmill, had been expected to appear and present his evidence at a default hearing. Mrs. Lehmann charges her husband with three instances of cruelty.

Instead, however, Attorney Gemmill went into court and asked that the case be continued indefinitely. Leaving the court, he admitted that there had been difficulties in arranging a property settlement, and that young Lehmann's attorneys are preparing an answer to the bill and will probably contest the case.

Lehmann is a grandson and namesake of the founder of the Fair department store and a nephew of Otto Lehmann, prominent turfman. His wife is a daughter of the late Adolphus Peine, who was vice president of Alfred Decker & Cohn, clothing manufacturers. She divorced William Waibel, former Northwestern university athlete, a few days before she married Lehmann in 1931.

Hungary Bans Wearing of the Nazi Swastika

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Sept. 15.—The wearing of swastikas by Hungarian citizens is forbidden by a police order issued today. The regulation is grounded on the argument that the swastika is the emblem of Germany, a foreign state.

$20,000 Prize Novel Is Real Work of Art

"No Second Spring" Is Love Story, Told Simply.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"No Second Spring," by Janet Beith. [Stokes.] Published yesterday.

No matter what of good or bad, of beauty or awkwardness, there might be in "No Second Spring," today and until that fact has lost something of its glamour by being known by every one the announcement that "No Second Spring" was the winner in a famous international novel contest with the startling prize of $20,000 will take precedence over anything else in connection with the book . . . and that it was the unanimous choice of the judges and that the author, an English girl and niece of "Ian Hay," is 28 years of age and that this is her first novel and that she kept her work a secret from her parents, a secret that was disclosed to them when they read in the newspapers that she had won the prize of 4,000 healthy golden English pounds. . . .

After the excitement and the romantic film has been blown away a bit by time the world can get down to the actual insides of "No More Spring." That is usually the time when the amateur critics begin pointing out that a fortune has been thrown away to encourage a talent which is, at best, little more important than that of (fill in any third rate writer friend of the critic), or accept the dark suggestion that the critic himself (I'm talking about you and you and you, amateur, not professional, judges) could have done as well.

Declares Book Work of Art.

Unfortunately for the charming game of proving to the world how much better one is at any business than one's fellow men, those ardent baiters are going to have a hard time convincing any one who reads "No Second Spring" that it is not, for what it is, a work of art. It makes no pretenses at either modernity or uniqueness in plot, technique, style, or intent. It is a story which has been told hundreds of times before; the author has used a technique which has flourished ever since novels have been written.

Her intent is the simplest in the world—nothing ironic, nothing satiric, nothing overlaid with meaning. She tells in values as clear cut as black and white her simple tale. And her style, while unusually rich in beauty, is as conventional as the King James version of the Bible.

All of those things sound, when one says them separately, like disparagements. Massed, they give the reason for the fineness of Miss Beith's achievement.

With a superb disregarding of all modern, all bizarre tricks, the author of "No Second Spring" has written something so simple, so real, so moving, that one wonders how only twenty-eight years could have borne such a lovely flower of restraint.

Love Story of Utter Simplicity.

It remains usually for those who have discovered how tragic life really is to be able to write about it with calm acceptance. Miss Beith has a quality of serenity in this book which is almost unique in a first novel.

"No Second Spring" is a love story of utter simplicity . . . the story of the gentle Allison McGregor, wife of the Rev. Hamish McGregor, pastor to a wild flock in the Hebrides in 1832. She lived to bear him ten children, seven after the fateful year of 1832, content in her knowledge that she was needed by them and by her husband.

With exquisite tenderness the author tells of the timid eagerness of Allison to stir an answering love in her husband, passionate only in his need of her and in his mission to preach God to mankind, a stone man who preached to his 6 year old daughter the fires of hell merely because, terrified, she could not tell him that she had been sent to summon him to supper.

Heroine Really Has Character.

The terror of the wild country, like something evil clutching at humans, is in the pages of the book, but always so calmly set down that its terrors are made vital instead of purely decorative. Into that emotional bleakness there comes, not suddenly, but slowly with inevitability, love to Allison. What she does about it and how she pays for her choice is the theme of the rest of a moving, tragic, but lovely, tale.

"No Second Spring" has within it the whole moral fragrance, alike sweet and bitter, of the nineteenth century. Miss Beith has produced a book which in its beauty and simplicity and its spiritual essense of its period is a work of art.

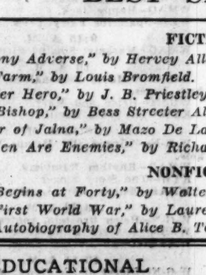
London Awaits Biography of Music Leader

Story of Thomas Beecham Told by Hogarth.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A short biography of considerable interest which is to be published in the course of the new season is the book about Sir Thomas Beecham by Basil Hogarth. Mr. Hogarth, who has also written a book called 'Writing Novels for Profit," the title of which will cause much dismal laughter among unsuccessful novelists and some panic among publishers who already receive far too many impossible manuscripts, sets out briefly the details of Sir Thomas Beecham's life, and estimates his doughty deeds as conductor and musical influence in English life.



SIR THOMAS BEECHAM.

It is a remarkable thing that Sir Thomas Beecham, heir to that Sir Joseph Beecham whose pills have a world-wide fame, has a prestige surpassing that of any other English musical conductor. His financial affairs have been "news" for several years, and have even been the subject of comment in parliament; his original and vigorous personality affects English concert audiences as that of no other man can do; and although his operatic ventures have never, perhaps, been profitable, he has done tremendous things in London for opera.

It was his father who first sponsored the Russian opera in England; but since the memorable season when we heard Chaliapin at Drury Lane Theater Royal the consequences have been unending. Opera, ballet, and the introduction of music otherwise unheard at orchestral concerts have all followed. While other conductors, whose work has been hampered by the fact that they were employed by impresarios to give hackneyed pieces, have labored to improve popular taste, Sir Thomas Beecham has been able to give what most interested him. The results have been excellent. He is the idol of the snobs, and a Beecham season has always been sure of their patronage.

But Beecham himself is no snob, but an enthusiast and a great musician. A book about him is welcome, and if it is adequate will give great pleasure to all who can appreciate personality in whatever field it is exercised.

Odd as it may seem, London is spending the late summer in scanning books on food and drink. The number of these to appear within the last few weeks is legion. "Tables of Content," by Andre Simon, "What Shall We Have to Drink?" by Marcel Boulestin, "The Anatomy of Dessert," by Edward A. Bunyard; "Good Food on the Aga," by Ambrose Heath; "A Book of Food and Drink," by "Gourmet," and a dozen others, are all in demand.

In demand, too, is Miss Margery Sharp's third novel, "The Flowering Thorn," in which this unspoiled young writer again allows her gifts of gayety and charm to play about the contrasts between pleasant virtue and disagreeable smartness. When she was very young indeed, Miss Sharp visited the United States as one of a party of girl debaters. She no longer debates; she dazzles.

WAY IS CLEARED FOR 40 STATIONS ON 50,000 WATTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—After insisting for three years that only four radio stations in each of the five American zones could operate on a 50,000 watt power basis, the federal radio commission today rescinded that limitation.

Under a rule adopted by the commission today, the limitation was dropped, and thus the way has been cleared for issuance of permits to allow eight stations in each zone to operate up to the maximum of 50,000 watts.

Several applications are pending from stations seeking to increase their power, including one from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, W-G-N, which will be heard on Oct. 4.

The limitation has been in force since 1928, and since the fall of 1929 much litigation has resulted from the efforts of stations to get on the higher power rate.

Better Service Foreseen.

Engineers have often asserted that if the ban were lifted listeners in rural and remote sections of the country would be accorded better service on their sets and also that stations would enjoy a greater economic efficiency by attracting a greater range of listeners.

Under the new attitude taken by the commission it is expected that the number of stations operating on a 50 kilowatt power basis will be increased from 20, the present number, to 40. There are 40 so-called "clear channels" in the range permitted by the commission, and it is expected that each of these channels, or 8 in each one, will be occupied eventually by a full powered station.

Conjecture concerning the commission's ruling centered today about the possibility that eventually the commission may drop altogether its limitations on the power allotments to the clear channel stations.

High Power Used Abroad.

Other countries have already adopted the high power systems, Mexico having stations powered as high as 70 kilowatts, Russia having 500 kilowatt stations, and stations all over Europe operating on 100 to 120 kilowatts.

In this connection, in 1930, during the suit of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to obtain permission to operate on a higher power, one of the W-G-N witnesses, O. H. Caldwell, caused a furore in radio circles by predicting that before long stations operating on 100, 200 and 500 kilowatts would be the vogue. It now appears that the prediction of Mr. Caldwell, a radio engineer and a former member of the federal radio commission, may be realized.

The commission recently gave a permit to the Crosley station at Cincinnati, WLW, to build an experimental 500 kilowatt transmitter, which will be completed by the end of the year, and which will be put into operation on an experimental basis, so that the commission may observe its effect on nearby channels.

JONES OF R. F. C. IS ACCUSED IN FEDERAL COURT

Forth Worth, Tex., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was described today as "the chief high priest of the money changers" by Stanley Boykin, chief counsel for plaintiffs in a receivership suit filed here early this year against the Fort Worth Properties corporation, of which Jones is principal stockholder.

The statement was made in federal District court during a hearing on a petition for permission to propound additional interrogatives of discovery to find Fred J. Heyne of Houston, one of the defendants.

Boykin declared he had enough evidence to justify the removel of Jones from the chairmanship of the R. F. C. He said the evidence would show examples of "both criminal and corporate misappropriations."

Jones' attorneys have filed a motion to quash the subpoena served on him recently in Washington on the grounds that he no longer is a resident of Texas.

THOUSANDS SEE FEISAL BURIED IN ROYAL TOMB

BAGDAD, Iraq, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Thousands of his former subjects crowded into this city today as the body of the late King Feisal was returned from Switzerland and buried with simple religious rites in a vaulted tomb of the royal family near the parliament building. The king died recently of a heart attack at Berne, Switzerland, where he was undergoing medical treatment.

Thousands lined the way as the funeral procession proceeded to the burial place. The royal coffin, embellished in oriental fashion, was carried to the tomb on a gun carriage, on which was a huge portrait of the dead king. A royal bodyguard formed an escort, while behind the coffin rode the young King Chazi in a motor car.

The police had a trying time with the excited crowd, which included many Arabs unused to city ways. The police were forced to use their batons to clear the way. The throngs sought to touch the coffin after a Moslem custom.

"CHOFETZ CHAIM" DIES AT 105; ONE OF JEWISH SAINTS

WILNO, Poland, Sept. 15.—[Jewish Telegraph Agency.]—The famed "Chofetz Chaim," venerated by orthodox Jews throughout the world as one of the 31 saints because of whose piety the world has not been destroyed, died today in the village of Radin, near here, where he had spent most of his 105 years. He had been ill for a short time.

The "Chofetz Chaim," whose real name was Rabbi Yisroel Meier Ha' Cohen, had been a figure of almost legendary proportions for almost half a century. The village where he spent most of his life was the scene of pilgrimages of thousands.

The rabbi in 1875 published a book in Hebrew, "The Chofetz Chaim," listing all the forms of slander from which a pious Jew must guard himself. It was on account of this book that he became known as the "Chofetz Chaim."

He was born in the village of Zhetel, in the province of Grodno, Poland. After a brief period as a rabbi in Radin he founded a yeshiva, a school for the teaching of the Talmud, and supported it for scores of years. He became known throughout the world as a Talmudic scholar.

Mrs. F. W. Peck Explains Her Two Birthdays

Prominent Resident Will Be 85 Today.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Thirty-three years ago Mrs. Ferdinand W. Peck celebrated her birthday on Sept. 16 for the first time. This morning she is receiving the congratulations and good wishes of her many friends on having reached her 85th milestone.

"It does sound strange," Mrs. Peck commented pleasantly in answer to this reporter's queries. She was sitting in the sun porch of her apartment at 2238 Lincoln Park West looking out upon the fast moving city she has watched grow from a struggling prairie town. There she makes her home with a son, Ferdinand W. Peck, and a daughter, Mrs. Arline P. Warwick.

"You see, it was this way," she explained. "I was born in the tempestuous year of 1848 in Alsace-Lorraine, but as a tiny baby I had the misfortune to lose my mother. Three years later my father, who had brought me to this country in a merchant ship, also died, leaving me an orphan. Then, however, I did have the great good fortune to be adopted by the William Spaldings, who were pioneer Chicagoans. Mr. Spalding was a business associate of my father. But in those days records weren't kept as they are today, and the Spaldings were never told of my birthday."

Little did this bother Mrs. Peck until one pleasant spring day, when the minister of the old Trinity church on Jackson boulevard near Michigan avenue, where she was enrolled in Sunday school, found her at play and inquired the date of this very important occasion.

"But what," he pursued in answer to her negative replies, "you don't know the date of your birthday? Well, my dear little Teesa, you shall have mine." And then and there the Rev. Norr Hunt Schenck gave Teesa Spalding June 20 for a birthday.

It was until 1900 when Mrs. Peck and her late husband, Chicago pioneer and builder, visited Europe that she lighted a birthday cake on June 20. Then she learned from records, pieced together bit by bit, that her real birthday was Sept. 16, 1848.

Into these years Mrs. Peck has crowded myriad experiences as the daughter of a stanch Chicago family and as the wife of Ferdinand W. Peck, the vice president of the World's Columbian exposition, the commissioner general from the United States to the Paris exposition, the "builder" of Chicago's old Auditorium.

Today in splendid health with the exception of the weakened limb which she had the misfortune to break last winter, she reflects a life of activity, yet one that has found its greatest satisfaction in the cultural, spiritual, and intellectual influences of her home.

She has enjoyed many experiences that might be the boast of any one, yet she speaks of them with a becoming modesty still, saying quietly, "It was all Mr. Peck."

She remembers the New Year's day on which she was first allowed to receive young men. She was 17 years old and wore her first silk dress. Mr. Peck came to call with Frederick Tuttle. After his departure he later admitted having confided to Mr. Tuttle that he was going to marry that girl some day."

Of course, she remembers their wedding in Trinity church. It was the last marriage ceremony ever performed in that house of worship. Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy was one of the bridesmaids and Mrs. Clifford Williams another.

Then, most interesting of all, she remembers that historic night in 1890 when the old Auditorium was opened and Adelina Patti sang. President Harrison came to Chicago for the dedication and dined in the Pecks' newly furnished home.

"We had just moved in," Mrs. Peck recalls, "when we heard that President and Mrs. Harrison were coming and that we were to entertain them. Never have I furnished a house so quicky, but I can't say it was unfortunate, for I still have a number of the pieces today."

Levi P. Morton was another of Mr. and Mrs. Peck's guests on that memorable occasion. So were Illinois' former Gov. Fifer and Chicago's early mayor, De Witt C. Cregier.

Good Morning!

The love lives of three beauty shop operators are feelingly analyzed in this opus and you find that the outlook is dark indeed for the maid who loves too well outside the circle of the wedding ring.

The first reels make the existences of the heroine seem a bit glamorous. Beauty they have, and allure. The tricky costumes of their profession and the knowledge of personal upkeep acquired by training, observation and experience enhance these assets. Brittle, laughing Carol has found herself a sugar daddy who tells her to write her "own ticket." The handsome son of the shop proprietress makes life interesting—alas, in time, TOO interesting!—for slim, ardent Jane. And the wealthy lawyer, Sherwood, who most certainly DOES have a wife who doesn't understand him, falls head over heels in love with the little southerner, Letty, who has seen better days.

Like butterflies the damsels flutter about in the sunshine for a while. Then comes the rain—and all of you little children know what happens to butterflies in the rain! . . .

"Beauty for Sale" must be classed as a sensational photoplay. But no maid who sits through it will leave the theater feeling that the Primrose Path is any sinecure. She will, on the contrary, probably give the Poor but Honest Young Man who has Good Intentions a date that evening and lisp a wrong telephone number to the next lonely Married Philanderer who asks her to brighten his Forlorn Existence.

While the story has nothing new to offer, it is effectively presented. All three girls are personable and appealing, and male rôles are capably played.

May Robson contributes a shining character bit as a mother and Alice Brady as the wife of the lawyer cleverly caricatures a silly woman faddist. [She talks to her Pekingese the way I do to my canary, and now I know what the neighbors think of me.]

See you tomorrow!

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE latest modern child story concerns Bobby Burns, who lives at 7940 Essex avenue and who was four years old the other day. A trip to the zoo was one of his birthday presents, and his parents took him to each cage, patiently repeating the name of the species inside.

Query—
Broadcast—
Guides—
Sightseers—
Stamp—
Lost.

"And that is a buffalo," continued Mr. Burns as they reached one of the large cages.

"When he is going to shuffle off?"

IT was in Hollywood at the Fair. Grant Withers, acting as master of ceremonies, spotted a well known concert singer in the audience and announced her presence over the amplifying system by means of the portable microphone he carries about with him. Walking over to her table, Mr. Withers asked her to sing something. He held the microphone in front of her so the crowd might hear her reply:

"What, with that orchestra?" she said.

THE guides at the Fair were marching off duty in columns of four and in their midst were the latest additions to their ranks, still in their regular clothes, not yet having acquired their uniforms. As they swung by an old fellow regarded them thoughtfully. Then he approached an information desk and, indicating the recruits, asked:

ALSO there was the girl looking at the pictures in the World's Fair exhibition at the Art institute.

"O, look," she said, ". . . of the Florentine school! That's where Bernice went!"

MAYBE it's not really a good idea, but a friend suggests that if the Fair really has helped lift the depression, oughtn't there be a postage stamp with Sally Rand on it?

WE'RE not exactly a dog department, but when a girl named Dolores Priebe dropped in to tell us about her little sick dog, just back from a trip to the veterinarian, being stolen along with her car at 68th street and Stony Island avenue we felt we might draw attention to the matter. It is a female Spitz, nine months old, with brown spots on the left eye, right ear and hips. Advertising has brought no results and she is miserable thinking of the little creature, not well enough to look after itself, perhaps turned out by the car thief. Her telephone number is Hyde Park 9461. And we warn you that this probably is the last time we'll ever do this for anybody.

Place Photos in Sanctuary of Modern Art

Prints of Edward Weston a One Man Show.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Modern painters should beware lest much of their thunder be stolen while they think themselves secure, when such wizards with a camera as Edward Weston are given a one man show of their prints in a gallery familiarly regarded as the sanctuary of the last word in nonconservative art.

The Increase Robinson gallery, Diana Court building, has introduced many a new name to Chicago in the few years since its inception. For the first time it is introducing a photographer to Chicago, but when his work is considered soberly Mr. Weston is much more than a clicker of shutters; he is an artist using plates and camera instead of palette and paint box.

Edward Weston has been greeted enthusiastically in New York and in San Francisco. From end to end of the United States the unique value of his particular photography is recognized as something extraordinary. Simplicity is the keynote of his work, and closely following this is a devotion to form. The group of "nudes" confirms the assumption. One after the other these posed figures achieve the quality of sculpture. They are definite solutions to definite problems.

The vegetable kingdom opens a wonderland to Mr. Weston. The intricate and delicate patterns of the halves of a cauliflower or cabbage are grist to his mill. He performs miracles of translations. The most ordinary object, a carrot or kale or a squash, becomes under the power of his lens a marvel of beauty and mystery.

His landscapes have the austere charm of a Ross Moffett or a Rockwell Kent painting. They are aloof, beautiful, and hauntingly sad. In portraiture Mr. Weston touches a human note and plays it strongly. His studies of various persons are among the most interesting prints in the exhibit.

The exhibition will continue through Oct. 14 and is well worth seeing, particularly by the professional and amateur camera enthusiast.

Two More Bow

A dancing party last night at the home of the Calvin Fentresses in Hubbard Woods wound up a day of festivity for two of this season's debutantes—Miss Harriet Fentress and Miss Barbara Hobart—who made their bows to society during the afternoon at teas at the homes of their parents.

Miss Hobart, the daughter of the Ralph G. Hobarts, received between 5 and 7 o'clock in the drawing room of her parents' residence on Prospect avenue in Winnetka. Lovely in a gown of shell pink satin fashioned on simple lines, she carried an armload of butterfly roses. Standing in line with her her were her mother, gowned in wine velvet, her father, and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. E. C. Hinsdale. She was assisted by a coterie of her friends and sister debutantes, many of whom divided their time between this party and that of Miss Fentress.

A striking gown of henna bagherera velvet was the choice of Miss Fentress for her debut party. A bouquet of gardenias was its only decoration. The debutante's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, received with her in the drawing room of their home on Green Bay road, while their good friend and neighbor, Mrs. John W. Gary, assisted with a group of debutantes and post-debs.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart entertained for both their daughter and Miss Fentress and their assistants at supper following the teas. Later the party moved over to the Fentresses for dancing.

French Ambassador Will Visit Fair Art Exhibition at Institute

Reception Will Be Held on Sept. 25; Government Recognizes Notable Show.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MONDAY, Sept. 25, will be French day at the Art institute, for on that day the French ambassador, André de la Boulaye, will recognize officially on behalf of the French government A Century of Progress art exhibit at the institute. The French government is recognizing the exhibit because it is the greatest French art exhibit ever held outside of Paris, with ten of the thirty-five galleries devoted exclusively to French art and other examples of it scattered through many of the other galleries.

There has been some grave doubt as to whether the French ambassador would pay an official visit to Chicago this summer because there is no official French exhibit at the Fair—no, the Streets of Paris are in no way France's contribution to the foreign exhibits at the Exposition, quite the contrary—but Chauncey McCormick, chairman of A Century of Progress art exhibit, received word yesterday that the visit had been arranged.

A Century of Progress executive offices had had no word of his excellency's visit when we communicated with them yesterday, but immediately some one there said M. de la Boulaye would be given the official ambassador's salute and military greetings befitting his rank and station when he visited the Fair. He is bringing Mme. de la Boulaye and their two daughters, Agnes and Marie Therese, with him, and it is safe to assume that they will see the sights at the Exposition as well as those of Chicago during their stay here.

Art Institute to Hold Reception

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are giving a small dinner Monday night at the Casino for the De la Boulayes, after which the president and trustees of the institute will give a reception for the ambassador in the Goodman theater of the institute. Following the reception the ambassador and other guests will visit the galleries with special reference to the French primitives and the ten galleries given over exclusively to French art of the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries.

The French ambassador's visit to the galleries that night will inaugurate the opening of the institute on evenings from then until Nov. 1 in response to many requests received from students and workers who are so occupied during the day that they otherwise might miss this extraordinary art exhibit, the greatest one ever assembled in Chicago.

During the evenings only the special Century of Progress exhibit will be open and the price of admission will be the same as during the day, twenty-five cents.

M. de la Boulaye, who replaced the poetical Paul Claudel as French ambassador in Washington, took over his duties just last spring. He had served as first secretary of the embassy in Washington during the Wilson administration so he and his wife know Washington well, but this will be their first visit to Chicago. Both speak English beautifully and every one who has met them says they are a charming couple.

France is the second foreign country to give official recognition to the marvelous art exhibit assembled under the chairmanship of Mr. McCormick, for when Prince Potenziani was here as commissioner from Italy to the Fair, he paid a visit to the exhibit on behalf of his country. Italy is well represented in the exhibit, in fact, it is next to France in the number of paintings exhibited.

Three Weddings on Calendar Today

Brides and debutantes share the spotlight on the social stage today with brides in the majority. The largest of today's three weddings is that of Miss Peggy Glidden, daughter of Henry Leonard Glidden of Highland Park, and John Roderick Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Rogers of Ausable Forks, N. Y. It is to take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Trinity church in Highland Park and a reception at the residence of the bride's father will follow the ceremony.

Miss Glidden has asked nine of her good friends to attend her as bridesmaids, including the bridegroom's sister, Miss Kathryn Rogers, Miss Bettylee Rich of New York, who is engaged to Robert E. Kenyon Jr. of Lake Forest; Miss Elizabeth Eddy of Bay City, Mich.; Mrs. Albert O. Snite, Miss Gwendolyn Juergens, Miss Welythan Harmon, Miss Helen Marie Castle, Miss Louise Ruffner and Miss Eleanor Page.

Ward R. Briggs has come from New York to act as Mr. Rogers' best man and ushering will be Roger Wolcott

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd feels admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a debauchee. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Bray finds a new will, disinheriting Florence. As it is unsigned the old will stands. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch-hiker, before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. Bray plans to interview Hilda, Florence's maid. He is laid up temporarily by a motor accident. Hilda tries to escape from the Cresap estate and is apprehended. Sabino's disappearance is discovered by Verity, one of the servants.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

A SENSATIONAL DISAPPEARANCE.

"Couldn't you have been wrong?" I cut in. "Couldn't you have mistaken somebody else—a prowling boy, say—for Sabino?"

"It couldn't 'a' been nobody else," declared Verity, "and I'll tell you gents why it couldn't. In my sweater pocket I had my old flashlight, same ez I aluz tote it with me nighttimes. So I pulled her out and I plugged her on, and, by Judas Priest, there wuz his footprints, aplenty of 'em—some of 'em showin' where he'd come along the ditch and some of 'em showin' where he'd swarmed up out of it and gone thrashin' off through them high weeds.

"Well, I goes on home scratchin' my noggin and puzzlin' why Sabino should acted like that. And when I gits home, young Eddie Enoch, he's the relief agent at the depot, he's settin' there—him and his wife. They come over nigh onto every Sunday night. Well, purty soon it's supper time and we're all four of us settin' at table eatin' baked beans and talkin' of this and that when Eddie he speaks up and sez, 'Say, Uncle Haw, your old college chum, Sabino, from over at Cresap's must be fixin' to go travelin' somewheres, ain't he?' So I pricks up my ears and I sez, 'Whut's that?' And he sez, 'Why he wuz down to the depot only last evening' astin' me would I look up night connections fur him out of N' Yawk fur Buffalo and points west. So I looked it up on the timetables fur him and I told him ef he took No. 3 at 7:08 p. m. out of here she'd put him in town in ample time to git acrost to Grand Central and catch a train that'd land him in Buffalo next morning. But he didn't buy no ticket and he didn't ast me to wire in for no sleeper reservations. He jist said that wuz all he wanted to know and went on out without thankin' me. So that's why,' he sez, 'I figgered he mout be aimin' to go somewheres upstate.'

"And Folks—Sabino wasn't there."

"Well, I started to tell him whut had just come to pass in Pharaoh's lane but suthin' made me shut up. But you bet I done a heap of ponderin' to myself. I must 'a' laid awake fully half of last night ponderin'. And this morning', soon ez ever I got back over to Cresap's, I sez to that chuckle-headed German girl, Greta, that I want to go up to Sabino's room in the addition and see him 'special. And she sez to me she can't say fur sure whether he's there or not but she thinks likely not. And I sez to her what's the reason she can't be sure? And she sez she knocked on his door jist a little spell before and didn't git no answer. And I asts the little fibberty-gibbet why the thunder she didn't open his door and she sez becuz he alluz keeps it locked whether he's in it or not, and does his own cleanin' up inside there and carries the key himself. But she says she thinks there's an extra set of keys in Miss Florence's upstairs desk. So I made her go look fur 'em, and she brought 'em to me and on my own responsibility, me bein', ez you mout say, sort of in charge at present, I unlocked his door and I walked in.

"And folks, Sabino wuzn't there. And a little valise that he owns wuzn't there neither, and there wuz signs that he'd done some packin' up, sort of in a pell-mell rush, looked like to me. And his bed wuz all made up and hadn't been slept in last night. Mebbe it hadn't been slept in fur more'n one night. But I'm sure about last night, becuz it stands to reason that ef he'd cleared out in a rush early this mornin' he wouldn't 'a' took time to make up his bed and pat the pillers smooth and slick down the coverlid and tuck the ends in and yit leave his shirts and collars and things scattered 'round all permiscuous like they wuz. So the way I figger it is, he probably ketched No. 3 at 7:08 last night—she runs Sunday nights same ez week nights—and dodged me in Pharaoh's lane about an hour before that time becuz he didn't want me suspicionin' ez to whut wuz up. Anyhow, he's gone without a word to any single solitary creature. Leas'wise, I kin take oath to it that he didn't tell nobody at Cresap's farewell!"

"That's enough," announced Chief Taper. "I'm going scouting for this Sabino person myself—because this whole thing sounds mighty significant to me. But before that I've got to get Cap'n Bray on the phone. So if you gents will both excuse me——"

Evading Verity's efforts to buttonhole me, I passed out of the town hall and easily outpaced him, getting to the sidewalk. Right now Sabino was not my immediate concern, and poor Hilda in the toils most emphatically was my concern. I left him in the offing and hastened along Main street to Rutherford B. H. Rand's office.

Rutherford B. H. Rand is a fine type of the genus country lawyer—a straightforward, kindly, shrewd man. Such small legal business as I have had these last six years since I moved here he has handled for me. He was in the cluttered little den he calls his consultation room. Conceivably he was the only able-bodied adult in the village who had not had at least a distorted inkling of the girl's plight. I told him how she had involved herself sticking to the facts, and then I told him that acting as her next friend I wished to retain him for the defense of her interests.

"I'm busy here this morning," he said when I had finished, "but this afternoon, if word doesn't come in the meanwhile that those people over there have turned her loose on their own volition, I'll run over to Riverhead and see what can be done. Unless she already has been formally charged with being an accessory before or after the fact, which I would say is not very probable, and if steps merely have been taken to hold her as a material witness on her claim that she is wilfully withholding knowledge of the crime, which is more than possible, it should be easy to arrange bail for her. If necessary, I'll swear out a writ. It is understood, of course, that you are willing to go surety for her in any reasonable amount?"

"Or any unreasonable amount either," I said.

"You're a property owner in this country—have realty in your own name," he told me. "That's all that's necessary."

As I stepped out of his front door I caromed off the heaving bulk of Chief Taper. Ten minutes earlier, Taper had been thrilled, but now he was absolutely gelatinous with excitement.

"Just coming to find you," he wheezed between pants. "My land, how these here doings do pile up on us! Now the young lady's gone!"

"What!"

"The young lady from over at Cresap's—your niece or something, ain't she?—Miss Dane. . . . She's gone!"

"Man, you must be crazy!"

He shook his globular form in dissent.

"If I'm crazy then there's quite a bunch of others that's crazy, too, including Capt. Bray. Because 'twas him that told me just a minute ago. I got him on the line at Watermill to tell him about Sabino having run away on us, and soon as I get done with that he tells me she's done practically identically the same thing on him. He says that right after breakfast this morning she leaves that hospital where she's been these last coupler days with her bunged-up beau, and don't even tell her beau she's going, neither. And she gives the slip to one of Bray's men that he's had watching up there since Shapiro left to come back here, and drives smack-smooth off in a car with a young woman that works in that hospital as a nurse. Well, they're gone maybe an hour, maybe two hours. And when the other young lady, the nurse, comes back she's alone, and all she'll say is that as a personal favor she took Miss Dane to the Whitestone ferry and saw her go aboard the ferry and saw the ferry pull out.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Rebels Against Mauling.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl and I think she loves me, but she doesn't like to be mauled. She is never alone. How can I find out if she loves me?

"FRENCHY."

Your observations of the girl's manner with you should give you an inkling of what she thinks about you.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

CLARA: TO BRING ATTENTION away from a prominent nose, wear your hair softly and flatteringly waved with small ringlets on the temples or sides of the face. Study attractive hair styles in fashion and movie magazines. As for makeup, use a slightly darker shade of powder on the nose than you do on the rest of the face.

Mary Rogers Seeks Training on N. Y. Stage

Refuses Parts in Movies for the Present.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Mary Rogers' departure from movies after her first and only appearance in "My Weakness," Lilian Harvey-Lew Ayres' spectacle, will not be permanent.

Miss Mary, who at 18 sees things through the same common sense vision as her dad, Will Rogers, turned down the part Rachel Hudson is now playing in "Mr. Skitch" at Fox's because Mary had made up her mind she wasn't good enough yet as an actress to do herself, her father, and her would-be employers justice. But she expects in a year or less to be that good.

The blonde miss, who upon her return from Sarah Lawrence school, Bronxville, N. Y., last June, started in films more as a lark than anything else, says: "I will leave for New York in about three weeks to join a stage stock company. I want to get some stiff training, and think that a stock company with once-a-week changes will give it to me. I want to get work around New York so I can take vocal and dramatic lessons there at the same time. I am definitely set on following a movie career. But I believe I should have proper training first. The part that I might have had in 'Mr. Skitch,' in which my father is playing, was too good a part for me with my present experience and ability."

Miss Rogers formerly had intended going through an eastern college. She now has no desire to do so, she says.

Will Rogers talked it over with his daughter and agreed that Fred Stone's whole family had gone onto the stage and turned out well. Talking today on the set of "Mr. Skitch," he said, "There's no truth in a published report that I objected to her entering films. But I didn't think she should have played the part in this picture. I believe in fitting one's self for what one is to do, and Mary does also."

Mary's name in films has been "Mary Howard." Under this name she is one of eight beauties—the others all with stage or screen names—who represent friends of Lew Ayres who try to transform Lilian Harvey from chambermaid into an aristocratic looking beauty in "My Weakness."

In that Fox film she wears a white satin evening gown with low cut back, appears in stepins in a negligee scene and generally holds her own with seven well known charmers of previous stage and screen experience—Irene Ware, Susan Fleming, Marcelle Edwards, Barbara Weeks, Jean Allen, Marjorie King, and Gladys Blake. Mary Rogers is an ash blonde, with blue eyes and a fine figure and the Fox studio people say they'll be glad to have here come back with more experience and carry out her agreement to act for them in the movies.

A strange incident took place at Paramount studio today. Maurice Chevalier was a somewhat solemn host to a young woman, Blanche Cameron of Lincoln, Neb., who wrote him recently that doctors had told her she would be blind within a year, and that she wanted him to hurry through his last film so she could see it while sight remained. Chevalier sent a sympathetic note, and Miss Cameron who is moving to Berkeley, Cal., came by way of Los Angeles so that she could see her idol in the flesh.

After seeing Chevalier, who interrupted his packing to leave for New York tomorrow and then on to Paris, the unusual visitor was taken to consultations with local eye specialists in the hope of deferring the time when her sight should fail. Miss Cameron is about 32 years old and formerly was secretary to Al Perkins, Lincoln artist.

Quarrels Vex the Tyrannous Pair of Lovers

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"We're very much in love with each other, but we're always quarreling."

The rocky road over which so many otherwise good romances seem to travel.

What is it that gets into two people, once they enter a relationship no longer bordered by the formalities of casual friendships? They want to quarrel. And they do quarrel. And they keep on quarreling. And when they sit back and view the ruins of those quarrels—over what were they quarreling, they ask.

Some possessive demon gets into action once the couple gets on terms of loving interest. They want to formulate each other's opinions. Advise each other's actions. Direct each other's lives. And each wants to be the strong mind of the party. All the petty arguments about where to go over which they quarrel, or what they should wear, or how they should act are simply byplays of a deeper rooted cause, a great common weakness to have the last word and to be recognized as having it devotionally. Isn't it true?

After you have quarreled and stopped to think it over, were you honest you'd admit it wasn't what the person did one-half so much as your own darned cantankerousness. You say for the "principle of the thing." The principle wasn't considered at all. It was your own injured vanity or some silly weakness in your own character.

"Every time we go out," "Come On" tells in her letter, "we quarrel. We can't agree on things."

Well, why expect to agree on everything? It isn't because you don't agree on a few things the quarrels ensue. It's because you demand that you and the boy friend or girl friend agree on everything. That's why quarrels happen. It's just a silly expectancy of perfection—but perfection according to your idea of it.

Now, you're not going to get through marriage, you young pre-marriage disputants, without a lot of upsets to your deep personal vanity. So you might just as well put yourself in training beforehand. Learn to take that love of yours as an individual entitled to his own opinions or hers, his own tastes or hers, and his own idiosyncracies or hers. And don't try to remold, remodel, and reshape! You're going to get a lot more fun out of life, of love, out of marriage, if you train yourself to take people as they are.

French Envoy Will Visit Art Institute Show

Reception Will Be Held on Sept. 25.

Hooker of New York; Spaulding and James Rogers, brothers of the bridegroom; Clark Redfield of Albany, Robert E. Kenyon Jr., Loren J. Massey, John R. Hurley, who is Miss Juergens' fiancé, and Richard Glidden, the bride's cousin. Mr. Rogers is taking his bride to Ausable Forks to live.

Margaret Lynde Another Bride

The marriage of Miss Margaret Emily Lynde, daughter of Cornelius Lynde of Winnetka, to Eugene Vincent O'Brien, son of the Frank T. O'Briens, also of Winnetka, will be solemnized this morning with only the immediate families present. Miss Lynde has not made public the hour nor the place of the wedding, for it is to be as quiet and simple as it is possible to have it. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will be at home in the Marlborough on Lake View avenue and Deming place after Oct. 1.

The third of today's weddings will be that of Miss Jane Kidston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rose Howland Kidston of La Grange, to George Tracy Bunker Jr., son of the George T. Bunkers, also of La Grange. It will take place tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Emanuel Episcopal church in La Grange. A reception at the La Grange Country club will follow.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Wallace Jensen of Detroit, will be the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be four La Grange girls, Miss Josephine Clark, Miss Mary Gaston, Miss Ruth Burdick, and Miss Dorothy Moyer.

John P. Wilson Jr. of Chicago will act as best man for Mr. Bunker, and ushering will be Mr. Wilson's stepbrother, Albert Keep of Chicago, Samuel Durand of Milwaukee, Loyal Durand of Madison, William Crutcher of Louisville, Frank Stephan of Riverside, Wallace Jensen of Detroit, Winfield Foster, and James Kidston of La Grange. The last named is the bride's brother.

Two Winnetka Debs to Bow

Another festive afternoon is in store for north shore society today with two more Winnetka debutantes, Miss Marie Louise Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Gardner, and Miss Jean O'Brien, the Howard Vincent O'Briens' daughter, making their formal bows at parties planned by their parents.

Before a green boxwood hedge enclosing a white aster garden in the spacious lounge of the Indian Hill club, Miss Gardner and her mother and father will receive their guests between 4 and 7 o'clock. Adding to the gayety of the party, which is to be a tea dance, will be seventeen of Miss Gardner's friends and sister debutantes serving as assistants.

Miss Dora Oakley has come from Greenwich, Conn., just to assist on this very important occasion. With Miss Anne Palmer, Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr. [the former Rosamond Baker], Miss Susan Badgerow, Miss Josephine Templeton, Miss Nancy Morse, Miss Patsy Keith, Miss Patricia Calkins, Miss Allenne Withers, Miss Nancy Thomas, Miss Barbara Hobart, Miss Eleanor Janney, Miss Barbara Bastien, Miss Barbara Shaffer, Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Harriet Fentress, and Miss Peggy Hixon, she will spend the afternoon looking her prettiest and mingling with the guests.

Some to Assist at Both Parties

Many of these young women will be dividing their time, however, between the Indian Hill club and the O'Brien residence, which is at 790 Bryant avenue in Winnetka, for they are also to assist Miss O'Brien at her tea between the hours of five and seven. Miss Janney will have to make a hurried trip between the two parties and so will Miss Fentress, Miss Badgerow, Miss Thomas, Miss Calkins, Miss Morse, and Miss Hobart. Miss Thomas' sister, Marian, was included on each debutante's list of assistants but yesterday she left with her mother Mrs. Frederick B. Thomas, for a short stay at Ocean Springs, Miss., before returning to Smith college.

Others who will be assisting Miss O'Brient at her introduction party will be Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Jean Lamson, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Miss Roslyn Paine, Miss Jean Hyman, and Miss Allene Withers.

Mrs. O'Brien will receive with her daughter this afternoon in front of the big bay window that dominates the drawing room of their lovely old fashioned home. On the old English table in the dining room will be spread a Sheffield tea service. The weather permitting, Mrs. O'Brien plans to use the large veranda as an accessory dining room and parlor.

Buffet Supper to Follow Parties

The ever interesting question of "What to do after the debutante festivites?" has been answered this time by Miss Gardner, for she and her parents have invited all of her assistants with their beaux and Miss O'Brien with her assistants and their escorts for a buffet supper at their house at 844 Bryant avenue. After this the entire party will return to the Indian Hill club for its last Saturday evening dance of this season.

Both Miss Gardner and Miss O'Brien are congratulating themselves that their first flush of grownup party going is not to be cut short by a return to finishing school or college. Having completed her course at Dobbs Ferry last June Miss Gardner is planning on a purely social winter, and so is Miss O'Brien, who studied last year in Zurich and Paris.

Many States Want Credit for Origin of Popular Quilt

Sweetheart Garden.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Sweetheart Garden" is a quilt design so popular, and has been claimed by so many states as having been originated within their borders, that the facts of its history have actually become obscured. As a matter of fact, quilt historians have given up hope of trying to place the credit justly. The flower buds are made of rose and green and the corner triangles of French blue.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Schooner Race of Clubs Today

Now how do you suppose Karleton Hackett, and for that matter all the others who are members of the Cliff Dwellers and the Tavern, decided which schooner to sail on this afternoon, the Gertrude L. Thebaud or the Bluenose? The Cliff Dwellers selected the Bluenose, champion Nova Scotian schooner, as their racing craft when they were challenged by the Tavern members to a race to decide the club championship of Michigan boulevard, so to the latter fell the famous Gloucester craft.

The Tavern members admit that the Cliff Dwellers have the faster vessel, but even so they "count on being first across the finish line and have invited them [the Cliff Dwellers] to dine with us after the race to soothe their wounded dignity." The race will start from the schooners' dock at the Navy pier at 1:30 and the finish will be in the harbor at the mouth of the Chicago river about 5.

Launches then will convey the rival parties to the Tavern's rooms for a buffet dinner and dancing. Herbert E. Hyde is in charge of the Cliff Dwellers' entertainment and Alfred P. Shaw has arranged that for the Tavern members.

Mr. Hackett was the first president of the Tavern, but he has been a member of the Cliff Dwellers for many years, so perhaps that is why he decided to be aboard the Bluenose instead of the Thebaud. Among others who will be on the Bluenose are Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, Thomas Tallmadge, the Henry Voegelis, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Parker, Dudley Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. West, Mr. and Mrs. Chalkley J. Hambleton, Mr. and Mrs. John Stacy, and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hardin.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. John Norton, the George Senseneys, Preston Boyden, the John Roots, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Fahrney, and Johnston Bowman will be among those cheering the Thebaud.

Golf Tourney at Glen View.

There isn't a member of the Glen View club who isn't hoping and praying for good weather today for it brings the club's time honored invitation golf tournament, known as the Twa Days. Members, junior and senior, will rally at the club for eight hours of golf interspersed with luncheon and incidental refreshments. This will be followed by the kind of dinner golfing appetites demand with entertainment made to order for tired but jubilant players. There are twenty-two handsome trophies awaiting the winners of the day's events.

Sixty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Conway H. Olmsted are invited this evening to meet Mr. and Mrs. William Stocking Gould Jr., who are arriving from New York this morning to be the Olmsteds' house guests during the next several days.

The party is to be held at the Onwentsia with dinner after cocktails and then dancing after dinner. Mrs. Gould as Barlow Humphries was one of Mrs. Olmsted's bridesmaids. As a matter of fact the party is a wedding anniversary celebration, for it was just two years ago Tuesday that Mr. Olmsted married the former Ethel Johnson.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes is entertaining several dozen guests at tea in the Trustees' Lounge in the Hall of Science for Mrs. George B. Woodruff. It is Mrs. Woodruff, as most every one knows, who is the sculptress of the fountain of science group in the Hall of Science.

Dr. and Mrs. Patrick J. H. Farrell are visiting their son, Capt. Walter G. Farrell, Air Service U. S. Marines, and his family in Newport, R. I., where he is on duty at the Naval War college. Dr. and Mrs. Farrell spent the early summer with their son-in-law and daughter, the Edgar Hibson Crossmans and their two little sons of New York at their summer place in Bedford, N. H.

Shapely Legs Required with Shorter Skirts

Recommend Skipping Rope to Banish Fat.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It looks, from Paris hints, that skirts are going to be a bit shorter for street wear this fall and winter. Hope it's true! A twelve inch length is generally more becoming than an eight or nine, don't you think? Gives a little more perspective, so to speak. The shorter skirt just has to have a thoroughly well turned ankle and slim leg or there's no smartness around these pedal parts.

Anyway, we'd better be getting after the ankles and legs if the edict for the shorter skirt is true. It won't do any harm to have them in shape, even if it isn't. There are other occasions, you know. You may want to go to Palm Beach later and join the barefoot parade, who knows?

Some one told me the other day that Primo Carnera told a friend of his who told a friend of his that you can skip-rope any kind of legs into form. I remember Jack Dempsey told me the same thing. Not only is the rope skipping good for shedding extra weight off the legs but it snaps up the muscles so that you move along faster and in younger fashion.

Everybody can't skip because everybody's landlord isn't lenient enough to let one knock down the chandeliers in the apartment below. You need a stout asphalt base to do the job, or a porch of your own, or something sturdy and self-responsible. But it is swell exercise for a lot of things, including legs. Do it if you have the place to swing a rope.

If not, pick out a couple of good leg exercises and make them do the rope's job for you. The good old rising up and down on the toes has been known to trim down a too thick ankle in time, but any good kicking you can get is is worthwhile, providing the object is only reducing. Stretching those leg muscles! Stretch—kick. Stretch-kick from a prone position or standing.

For emergency ridding of leg and ankle fat massage is good—hand, roller or machine. But you can't rest content once it comes off this way. You have to get in some exercise to keep the area free from speedy return of the excess.

Of course, if one is overweight from head to foot the best thing is to go on a good diet and do all kinds of exercise. In the total loss the legs will have contributed their share.

Velvet Cartwheel Hats Top Smartest Autumn Silhouettes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—Special.]—The French milliners, their memories still green with the success of the straw cartwheel hat this late summer, have created an autumn offspring, the velvet cartwheel to wear for dinner and late afternoon.

In the memory of any woman under 30, the big velvet hat does not have a place as a fashion. It flourished around 1910, laden with feathers or furbished with flowers, and at this instant every indication points to its revival in the winter of 1933-'34.

The 1933 cartwheel in velvet is pictured by Miss Dulin today. At the top is a black velvet version, with its brim becomingly dipped in front, and with its crown curled in a soft roll at the top. The top of the crown is filled in with white monkey fur.

Evening Coats Frame Faces with Collars

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Trailing right along with the glamorous evening gowns are the picturesque evening coats, long, full, stunning models made of jewel colored velvets. Huge sleeves, each boasting at least a yard and a half of material to achieve that perky fullness, are featured . . . face framing collars that remind you of Medici princesses are stiffened, stitched or shirred so that they stand erect.

These grand new coats are long, fitted smoothly around the ribs, waistline and hips and then flare and swirl around the ankles.

You will find a wine red affair that is positively a knockout, a rich, glowing red that will harmonize with practically any evening gown you may possess. There are lots of gleaming black models made in the same manner with large, flattering, dress parade sleeves and lined with snowy white satin, probably the most practical as well as handsome evening coat you can use to cover the colored glitter of any of your evening gowns.

Most of these coats are furless and have price tags that are amazingly low for the quality and rich color and beauty. The most attractive models have corded shawl collars and sleeves. . . . You can find a new shade of blue called "madcap blue," a gorgeous shade of royal blue, rather softened so as not to be as trying as that color used to be, a blue that will be divinely perfect over shell pink satin gowns, or the blue you need to dramatize an old gold or vermilion gown.

A brunette can wear this blue with icy white satin and start a good riot . . . and for the redheads some one has thoughtfully supplied the same coat in the new smoke gray color, the most subtle of colors, almost as obliging as black for an all purpose evening wrap, done in the new grand dame elegance.

Expert Solves Problems of Kitchen Clinic

Asks That Perplexed Ones Unburden Themselves.

"Entertaining with Cheese"—a booklet containing 10 recipes for informal luncheon dishes—is on sale at the Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coins; address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

What makes my meringue shrink away from the pie crust?

Why do poached eggs separate in the water—and what to do about it?

How can I make my refrigerator trays stop sticking?

Just a few samples, these, of the questions on hand this morning teasing for attention in the Kitchen Clinic. And if you have cookery troubles chez vous won't you tell us the sad details and see if we can't ferret out the answer for them also?

So first today for Miss A. G.'s query about shrinking meringues. And here's a tip. Meringues are almost certain to hug all together in the middle of a pie unless they have something to hang onto. That something should be the edge of the crust. Therefore, whenever making a meringue pie be sure that the meringue touches the pastry all around the edge. It will then bake onto the crinkly edge and be held from shrinking.

Mrs. F. T. H. is having difficulties with poached eggs separating while being cooked. Mrs. H., I've found that, oddly enough, a few drops of vinegar added to the water in which eggs are poached will hold them together and keep the white from separating.

Then that matter of refrigerator trays and their stubborn, naughty habits. Usually the fault lies with the cold control. If the cold is too intense or if the freezing unit is not defrosted often enough, coatings of ice form solidly around the trays and even over the inside door. The treatment is to check up with your refrigerator dealer and either have the machine adjusted or, if it has a cold control, raise the temperature slightly, or defrost more often.

Occasionally trays stick from lesser causes and can be loosened by the application of a hot, wet cloth to the parts under and about the tray. And another thing: There are on the market now inexpensive metal grids which may be slipped under each tray, fit into all refrigerators with metal or rubber trays, and make the job of extracting ice cubes and such materially easier.

*

Now another question, this time from a gentleman column-scanner, Mr. G. L. He asks: "What are 'puffed' and what are 'recleaned' raisins?" Puffed raisins, Mr. L., are raisins that are not sticky. They still have their seeds, but they've been prepared by some patented process that leaves them plump and separate, so they may be shaken out of the carton much as seedless ones are.

"Recleaned raisins" are something else again. They are actually seedless raisins from which all the imperfect raisins and those which have cap stems are removed before retailing.

And now for a recipe Mrs. M. L. D. can't find.

CHERRY LEAF PICKLES.

1 peck medium sized cucumbers
Cherry leaves
2½ ounces caraway seeds
1 cup salt
10 quarts water
6 cups sugar
2 cups vinegar

Select cucumbers which are four to five inches long and arrange them in a stone jar in alternate layers with cherry leaves. Sprinkle caraway seeds over each layer of cucumbers and leaves. When all are used cover them with brine made by dissolving the salt in the water. Weight down with a stone and let stand at room temperature, covered, for two weeks. Now remove from the brine, wash, and wipe dry. Cut off and discard the ends and slice the remaining pickle in one-half inch slices. Pack these slices in sterile, glass jars and invert them to drain for an hour. Combine the vinegar and sugar in a saucepan and cook until a rich sirup is formed. Add mixed spices to taste and pour at once over the cherry pickles. Seal.

MINUTE MYSTERY
By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CLASS DAY.

"All right, fellows, let's get down to business," Prof. Fordney said to his class in criminology. "We have a distinguished visitor today, and as he can spend only a few moments with us I want him to see just how alert you chaps are."

"Boys," he continued, "this is Inspector Marcel Guidont of the French Surete. He is working with me on the murder of that young Parisian girl who won a beauty contest and was given a trip to New York to compete with other beauties from all over the world."

The class enthusiastically acknowledged the introduction.

"I really should apologize to the inspector for giving you such an easy problem, but I want to be sure you won't fail in front of him. Incidentally, the first one of you to answer the problem will be permitted to work with Monsieur Guidont and myself on the girl's case—and a most interesting one it is. Here you are—and don't let me down!" smiled Fordney.

"Some time ago," he told them, "a friend of mine in the country received a very liberal offer for the property on which he had built a small bungalow. As he liked the house and owned another piece of land not far distant he decided to move it. So, with help, he put the bungalow on a large log three feet in circumference. Had he pushed the log himself how far would the house have traveled while the log made one revolution? Quickly now!"

HOW FAR WOULD THE HOUSE HAVE TRAVELED?

MARSTON, DUNLAP REACH NATIONAL AMATEUR FINAL

MUNGER LOSES, 6 AND 5; LITTLE BEATEN, 4 AND 3

36 Hole Match for Title Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 15.—George T. Dunlap Jr., an earnest young New Yorker of 24, who has been hammering his clubs against championship gates for the last few years, and Max Marston of the Philadelphia Marstons, who has been inside those gates once before, tomorrow will play 36 holes, more or less, for the thirty-seventh national amateur golf championship at the Kenwood Country club.

GEO. T. DUNLAP.

Dunlap, a 135 pound blond who takes his golf right seriously, reached his first national final today by defeating Lawson Little, Stanford senior from San Francisco, 4 and 3, in the 36 hole semi-finals. The 41 years old Marston, who won the championship in 1923 in a 38 hole struggle with Jess Sweetser, came back after ten years to the deciding act of the big show with a 6 and 5 victory over 18 year old Jack Munger, the bespectacled prep school boy from Dallas, Tex., who had been for four days the sensation of a sensational tournament.

Barely Get Into Tourney.

There are probably no two more surprised people in Cincinnati tonight than Dunlap and Marston, for both had to clutch at straws last Wednesday morning to keep from being washed out of the tournament. Both finished the qualifying rounds Tuesday in a tie with ten others for the last eight places in the match play bracket, and were forced to get up early Wednesday to work for their places in a record playoff. They earned them, and have kept on coming for five days through a tournament which saw an all time record qualifying score and the early defeat of the defending champion, Ross Somerville, and the national open title holder, Johnny Goodman.

Dunlap is not unknown to the national, although this is as far as he has ever gone in it. He first gained fame while playing for Princeton, twice winning the national intercollegiate, and he has been a consistent star at Pinehurst. Dunlap also was a member of the American Walker cup team last year. He has competed in the amateur six times and has qualified for the match play four times, but never has gone beyond the second round.

Dunlap's Greatest Year.

The present year has been Dunlap's greatest. He eliminated Somerville in the fifth round of the British amateur, and lost to Mitchell Scott, the ultimate winner, in the semi-finals.

The cards for Dunlap and Little follow:

MORNING ROUND.

Dunlap—Out	435	435	555	—39
Little—Out	546	434	445	—39
Dunlap—In	443	544	353	—35—74
Little—In	434	454	354	—36—75

Dunlap leads, 1 up.

AFTERNOON ROUND.

Dunlap, out	445	324	544	—35
Little, out	545	535	445	—40
Dunlap, in	443	444
Little, in	333	464

Dunlap wins, 4 and 3.

Dunlap got away to a handsome start through Little's wildness, taking the first three holes. He earned his pars on all three, while Little was

Once It Was Ginger Ale, Now It's Beer; Soon It'll Be Champagne

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 15.—Among other characters who made life a goofy joy to persons in the sport business during the time of the boom was a tall, gray haired young country boy from Massachusetts with a frivolous manner, who suddenly landed in New York from nowhere and elected himself a full brother in the lodge. He seemed to have known everybody intimately all his life and very soon everybody knew him as Frank Dailey, the ginger ale agent.

Now this was in the time when ginger ale sold for a dollar a bottle in the night clubs and for from 40 to 75 cents in the hotels. It sold in large quantities and ginger ale stocks were quoted on the big board in Wall street.

Mr. Dailey was the agent for a new kind of ginger ale which came in an attractive bottle. It began to develop after a while that some of the more influential New York local politicians were the promoters of this particular ginger ale and that the product was being moved into the local speakeasies.

Mr. Dailey Was Just a Booster Boosting Ale.

It was also moving into such local hotels as wished to make themselves agreeable to the local government and thus avoid difficulties with the building department or other departments which might send around pestiferous inspectors to quibble over small violations. Other kinds of ginger ale were being moved out of these speakeasies and hotels and this new ginger ale, of which Mr. Dailey was the official booster, seemed on the way to a monopoly.

Mr. Dailey's job as booster was something on the order of the work of the old champagne buyers of the days before prohibition. He went around places and saw people and bought ginger ale for the crowd, but whereas a wine agent never had any trouble persuading citizens to join him in a quart of his goods, Mr. Dailey's task was fraught with problems which called for ingenuity and tact.

You Had to Take Mr. Dailey's Ginger Ale.

You could not very well expect people to step up to a counter and drink ginger ale neat and in cold blood, so to speak. So Mr. Dailey took to traveling hither and yon to the sport events, always with a suitcase full of good, wholesome stimulant right off some boat or fresh out of some government warehouse. In Baltimore or New Haven or Louisville or Miami you would be dawdling around the

$100,000 PURSE DRAWS 17 FOR FUTURITY TODAY

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Seventeen 2 year olds were entered today for the forty-fourth running of the $100,000 Belmont Futurity at Belmont Park tomorrow over a muddy track. The Brookmeade stable's High Quest was favorite today at 5 to 2. This colt has ruled the choice in all predictions. Kepi, from the same stable, is coupled with High Quest. The Calumet stable's Hadagal is second choice at 4 to 1. G. D. Widener's Kawagoe is quoted at 6 to 1. The Greentree stable's entry of Black Buddy and First Minstrel is 8 to 1.

Winner to Get $80,000.

The field was smaller than had been expected if the track had remained fast. The gross value of the stake will be approximately $100,000, with $80,000 or more to the winner.

The post time entry fee is $1,000 and there previously had been paid in on each of the starters $160, making the total starting fee $1,160. The declarations of the others of the original entries, numbering 1,723, is forfeited by the owners who nominated the mares three years ago before the juveniles, now 2 year olds, were foaled.

Equipoise in Gold Cup.

The forecast is rain tomorrow. The entries for the Futurity have proved their ability to run in the mud, except Bonanza, whose chances will be hurt by track condition.

Equipoise will be opposed by five other long distance runners in the $5,000 added Jockey Club Gold Cup at two miles, longest route the champion ever has run. He will be odds on favorite.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
(Picture on page 23.)

Chicago's Bears, defending champions of the National Professional Football league, and a picked team of Notre Dame alumni will meet this afternoon at 2:30 at Soldiers' field. The game will not answer the familiar question concerning relative strength of a college team and a professional eleven, but it is the nearest possible approach.

TIM MOYNIHAN.

Most of the Notre Dame players were regulars during the last three years. The Bears were good enough to win the pro title last year, and the squad has been strengthened. In condition the pros should have an advantage over the Notre Dame alumni. They've been practicing longer and have had one practice game. But this does not rule out the Notre Dame team by any means.

It has been coached for more than a week by Hunk Anderson, who now is starting his third year as majordomo of the Irish varsity. The all-stars haven't forgotten the plays and formations they used during their undergraduate days, and consequently their preparations for today's game have been more rapid than might be expected.

Rules Should Aid Stars.

Other factors favor the Notre Dame players. The game, with two minor exceptions, will be played under college rules. An injury sustained in final scrimmage probably will keep Carl Brumbaugh, Bears' quarter back, out of the game. Since Keith Molesworth, now playing baseball in Texas, hasn't reported, the burden of directing the plays will fall on George Corbett.

The two professional rules in vogue today are the position of the goal posts on the goal line and the positions of the players on the receiving team at the kickoff. The college rule which requires the forward passer to be at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage is most important to the Bears. Strict application of the college rule demands that the quarter back, in feeding the ball to the ball carrier, hand it laterally or backward. Under the pro rule the pass by the quarter back might actually be a short forward pass behind the line of scrimmage.

Four Officials to Work.

Coach Anderson also demanded that four officials be named. He has stressed the importance of penalties for holding, both in the line and of eligible pass receivers. The professional league uses only three officials, eliminating the field judge and giving the head linesman concurrent jurisdiction with the umpire.

Tim Moynihan at center, with one year's experience in pro football, will be a source of strength in the Notre Dame line. Moynihan played against the Bears twice last year. Kosky and Host, at ends, are ideal pass receivers.

The Bears not only will be handicapped by Corbett's inexperience at quarter back but they will have three other players in the starting lineup who have not played professional ball. Ronzani, from Marquette, will carry the burden of the running attack at left half, while the right side of the Bears' line will depend on the showing of Musso at tackle and Karr at end.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Babe Hunt, Oklahoma City heavyweight, shot off the tip of his right thumb while dove hunting today. The gun was discharged as Hunt tossed it over a fence, holding on to the barrel. His manager, Frank Pacassi, said Hunt may continue boxing since it was not necessary to amputate below the second joint.

35 SOPHOMORES CHEER WILDCATS IN FIRST DRILL

Enthusiasm ran high at Dyche stadium yesterday as Northwestern's football squad opened the 1933 season with two workouts. Thirty-five of the 57 players who reported to Coach Dick Hanley were sophomores. The reverses sustained by the team last season mean nothing to these newcomers.

Frosty Froberg, a senior tackle, was the only player counted on for this year's team who did not report yesterday. A knee injury sustained last year will keep him out all season.

Two workouts a day will be on tap for the Wildcats until the start of classes Sept. 25. The opening game with Iowa has been moved up to Sept. 30. It was originally scheduled for Oct. 7.

MAROONS START FAST.

Forty-three football players, all that had been expected and a few more, greeted Coach Clark Shaughnessy and his aids yesterday morning to begin their big push toward gridiron recognition for the University of Chicago.

During the afternoon a group that looked like a varsity team was shepherded into the Midway fieldhouse, shielded from all gazers, and put through the paces of Shaughnessy's shift. On this eleven were John Womer and Rainwater Wells, ends; Bob Deem and Merritt Bush, tackles; Walter Manelkis and Wayne Rapp, guards; Eli Patterson, center; Vinson Sahlin, quarter; Peter Zimmer and Jay Berwanger, half backs, and Ewald Nyquist, full back.

MICHIGAN WORKS ON PLAYS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Kipke today started building on the Michigan football squad at the point where work was dropped last spring. The 52 men who answered rollcall spent only a few minutes limbering up during the morning, then ran through fundamentals and before the day was over had started work on plays.

Petoskey and Ward, ends; Wistert and Austin, tacklers; Kowalik and Savage, guards; Bernard, center; Capt. Fay, quarter back; Everhardus and Heston, half backs, and Regeczi, full back, made up the first team.

76 REPORT AT ILLINOIS.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Twenty-five lettermen were included in the group of seventy-six candidates who reported today for the opening practice of the Illinois football squad. Both morning and afternoon drills were held.

Two newcomers, Arvo Antilla and Doug Monsson, were named on the first team as Coach Bob Zuppke lined up six elevens to start out with several new formations.

BLUEGE IS FIRST IN HEARTS OF CAPITAL FANS

Teammates Call Veteran a Ball Players' Ball Player

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 15.—Ossie Bluege is one of the three present Senators who played in both the 1924 and 1925 world series and who has persisted as a Washington regular ever since. The other two veterans of the two earlier series do not quite parallel this experience, for Goose Goslin played against the Senators for two and one-half years and Sam Rice hasn't been rated as a regular for several seasons.

This is drawing the distinction pretty fine, for the trio played for Washington against the Giants in 1924 and they are going to play in all or part of the games against the Giants next month. It is a distinction, however, that impresses the sentimental fans of Washington and for that reason Bluege seems to enjoy prestige in the capital which isn't shared by any other member of the team, including the manager and brilliant shortstop, Joe Cronin. This affection was demonstrated on Bluege day last Sept. 9.

Bluege Is Ballplayer's Ballplayer, Say Mates.

Recently in Washington we asked three of Bluege's teammates to tell us what they thought of Bluege. The first reply of each was in effect the same:

One of his friendly critics amplified this description.

"Fans and writers who see him play only at intervals don't seem to have much to say one way or the other about Ossie. He's just out there making everything look easy.

"But ballplayers, especially those who see him every day, know that he is a great artist and that many of the chances he handles with such grace and ease would bowl over many a third baseman who is getting by. The members of our team think he is the best third baseman in either league. And right now he's as good or better than he's ever been."

Ossie Hits When Hits Mean Ball Games.

Bluege never has had a really high batting average, but like a few hitters in the range from .250 to .290, has a faculty of coming up with a hit when one is needed to win a ball game.

Ossie was born in Chicago on Oct. 21, 1900, and until a few years ago made Chicago his home. He now is a member of a public accounting firm in Washington and is himself a certified public accountant. His early baseball experience was gained on St. Luke's Lutheran team and the Logan Square semi-pros, both of Chicago. Bluege is married. Oscar Bluege of the Cincinnati Reds is his kid brother.

LIGHT HITTING, POOR PITCHING BRING DEFEAT

Hack Hurt; Malone Clipped on Jaw.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs just about bowed themselves out of the National league race yesterday. They were ably assisted by the Giants, budding champions, who triumphed in both portions of a double header to snap the last threadlike hope of the present titleholders. First, the Cubs took it on the chin by 5 to 1, not counting what George Davis' fist did to Pat Malone's jaw in a brief brawl on the field. Then the Cubs folded up by 4 to 0 and began to find solace in a prospective city series with the White Sox.

HUGH CRITZ.

The Cubs offered the best they could in a pitching way, but it wasn't enough. The bulky Bud Tinning melted early in the first game, giving Malone a chance to reveal some real skill until his venture in the realms of fisticuffs sent him away. His successor was Leroy Herrmann, who in a one inning workout, gave such a mirthful exhibition that the Giants scored three runs without a hit. And then on top of this the coming champions dusted off Lon Warneke, the prize of the staff, in the second game.

Hack Out for Season.

Further grief struck the Cubs in the second game when the bubbling Stanley Hack suffered a broken bone in his right forearm when he was hit by one of Leroy Parmelee's fast balls. Hack was rushed to a hospital for X-ray examination, which revealed a fracture. The mishap apparently had its effect on the Giant youngster. He walked the next two batters and was promptly removed. That proved another bad break for the Cubs. Herman Bell came into the party and in six and one-third innings against him the Chicagoans put only one man on base. That was Billy Herman, who singled to open the ninth.

The little side show staged by Malone and Davis, the Giants' centerfielder, started early in the first game when the latter thought the Cub right hander was trying to dust him off. Nothing was said about that, but in the eighth when Malone cut in front of Davis while he was running out a tap to Billy Herman, the blowoff occurred. It started like a good fight, but was stopped too soon to be enjoyable.

FIRST GAME

The first hint of Tinning's incompetency came with one out in the opening inning. Critz smashed a two-bagger to left. The next hint was a single to center by Terry, Critz scoring. When Ott also singled Manager Grimm began to figure on exercising his authority, but decided to delay action when the inning was halted ab-

TEN WILL GO TO POST TODAY IN CRETE HANDICAP

No More Is Favorite for $2,500 Event.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A lone invader from New Orleans called Playtime will help the $2,500 Crete handicap to be renewed at Lincoln Fields this afternoon from being strictly an Illinois owners affair.

The nine others named for the stake are all owned by folks who live in Chicago or nearby. Since Playtime, which races for the Southland stable, was at 20 to 1 in the betting last night, it didn't appear that the Illinois owners nor the backers of their horses even knew he was in the battle.

No More is Favorite.

No More, which comes from Clarence Davidson's farm out near Wheaton and which has won most of the sprints stakes in the middle west this season, was the solid horse in the race and the favorite at 7 to 5. The Nash Brothers' Shandon farm entry of Evergold and Minton was the second choice at 3 to 1. Miss Bunting and Princess Camella, which will race for Mr. and Mrs. John Marsch, were held at 4 to 1.

On the others a race fan could just about write his own ticket. That also went for the mud running pair of Camp Douglas and Karl Eitel from Ald. John Coughlin's stable.

The price against the Coughlin entry was 10 to 1, but the first warders either were out of money or didn't dare to back the bearers of the Coughlin apple blossom silks. Few backers for them were in evidence anywhere.

Track Probably Will Be Heavy.

The Crete is at six furlongs and will be run over a tough, heavy track unless a warm sun this morning should work miracles on the racing strip. No More is assigned the top weight and will carry 114 pounds. He has been shipped here from Detroit for the engagement and will be ridden by Jockey E. Arcaro.

The first running of the Crete took place back in 1926 soon after the Lincoln Fields track was constructed. Its first winner was Supremus. The race was run over a heavy track. The next year, in fast going, Johnson N. Camden's Nor'easter beat out Prince of Wales for the prize. In 1928 Blackwood won it in the mud. Misstep and Ansy Walker were the winners over fast track in 1929 and 1930.

Pansy Walker Has Best Time.

A year later Jim Norris' Knight Commander galloped home on a muddy track. Pansy Walker has the best time for the stake, running it in 1:11 in 1930. Last year the race was not renewed.

The Crete holds unusual interest today because of the presence in the race of so many locally owned thoroughbreds. Yet it isn't at all impossible for Playtime, the invader from New Orleans, which is now a year old, to uncork a surprising effort, thereby causing considerable concern among the backers of the Illinois horses.

FANS CHEER ROSS AS HE RETURNS HOME CHAMPION

Mayor Receives Boxer in City Hall.

Barney Ross, lightweight champion of the world, came home yesterday from New York, where he successfully defended his title Tuesday night against Tony Canzoneri, to receive a welcome unsurpassed in Chicago ring history. City officials and hundreds of friends greeted the champion when he stepped off the Golden Arrow at Union station. When order had been restored they attended Ross in triumphal march through the loop to the city hall, where Mayor Edward J. Kelly extended official greetings.

"Your accomplishment," the mayor said, "was the greatest thrill I have known in many a day. We knew that you had whipped Canzoneri fairly when you took his title at the Stadium, but it was a great satisfaction that you whipped him again in New York. We are proud to welcome you home."

Guest at Luncheon.

Following the city hall reception, Ross was escorted to the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street, where he was the guest of honor at a luncheon. Tonight Ross' friends of the west side will pay their respects at a reception at the 24th Ward Democratic club, 3242 Roosevelt road.

Ross' rise to fame reads like an Alger epic. Four years ago he won the Golden Gloves intercity amateur boxing title. Shortly after he made his professional debut. Since then, and due in no small part to the sagacity of his managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, Ross has been defeated only twice and these in the early days of his career.

"I felt all the time during training that I would win," Ross said to his well wishers yesterday. "I concentrated on condition and I believe I finished stronger than Tony. It's great to keep the title not only for myself, but for my Chicago friends who have believed in me."

New Orleans Bids.

Ross plans to take a rest and then resume fighting. His first bout will be at the Chicago Stadium, since Pian and Winch have said they owe the Stadium that consideration. The Stadium arranged the first title bout.

Many other offers for matches have been received. New Orleans, where Canzoneri was born, has offered $30,000 for a third fight between Tony and Barney, and Boston and New York also have made propositions.

Mrs. Jones' 85 Wins in Women's Golf

The Chicago Women's District Golf association closed its competitive season yesterday at Beverly. One hundred competed for gross and net prizes and later attended the annual luncheon at which Mrs. John A. Wheeler of Evanston was reelected president.

Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire led in gross scoring with 44—41—85. Mrs. H. W. Tupper of Olympia Fields was second with 46—43—89, and Mrs. Lillian M. Zech of Tam o' Shanter third with 46—46—92. Mrs. Lee W. Mida, Lincolnshire, had 50—43—93.

Mrs. Jones had birdies on the ninth and tenth, the latter a deuce. Her card:

Marston and Dunlap Play for Title Today

one over on all of them. Little sliced his drive to the first into a trap and was short coming out. He was far over the pin with his tee shot to the 176 yard second and after overputting the hole found himself stymied perfectly by Dunlap's second putt. He could not negotiate it with his niblick.

Straight With Their Drives.

Both were straight with their drives to the 562 yard third, although Little was twenty yards ahead of Dunlap off the tee. Little's second wound up on the grassy summit of a trap at the left, and he sent his third into another trap at the right of the green. He had a good out, but needed two puts to get down. They halved the fourth in par fours. Dunlap sinking a ten footer for his, while Little ran one down from six feet. Each scored a three on the short fifth.

Little then went to work and won the next three holes to square the match. A seven foot putt accounted for a four birdie on the sixth. Dunlap's second shot to the seventh plunked into the trap at the left of the green, and after making a great explosion shot, he took two putts from five feet. Little was in the rough at the eighth and his second fell on the bank of the green just above a trap, but he got down in two from there, sinking an eight foot putt. Although Dunlap was in the rough twice going to the ninth, he escaped with a half in fives. Little, who was on in three, took two putts from 12 feet.

Little Leads With Birdie.

Little sliced his drive to the tenth, overshot the green with his second, but pitched back to within three feet for a half in fours. He went one up at the 11th with a birdie three, scored with an eight foot putt. Dunlap evened it with a par three at the 12th. Little's drive being trapped at the right of the green. The Californian regained his lead at the 13th, where Dunlap sliced his drive into a bad lie, and was short getting out. The match was square again at the 14th, where Little's second was five yards over the green, and after coming back to within five feet, he just missed the putt.

They halved the next three, both sinking nine footers on the 16th and Dunlap running down an 18 footer at the 17th. Both were on the 18th in two, with Dunlap winning the hole and going one up at the intermission with another 18 footer, this time for a birdie.

Dunlap Wins 3 in Row.

Little hooked his drive to the 19th, and his second was over the green, Dunlap winning the hole with a par four. Both took fours on the short 20th, Dunlap falling short of the green and Little overshooting it, as usual. They halved the 21st, and then Dunlap won three holes in succession. He made a great second shot to the 22d from a bad fairway lie, the ball falling four feet from the pin. Little was on the corner of the green and stymied himself with his run-up shot, finally knocking Dunlap's ball in for a birdie.

Dunlap then brought down two birdies of his own, driving four feet from the 23d pin and laying his third shot to the 24th six feet away. Little won the 25th, where Dunlap hooked his drive to a trap and was a trifle timid getting out. They divided the 26th, Little nearly holing a 25 footer for a birdie. Little three-putted the 27th, however, going to the 28th two down.

Little Rallies with Birdies.

Little then put on a rally, scoring birdies on the 28th and 29th to win them. A 30 footer accounted for the one on the 28th, and he pushed one in from five feet on the 29th. Dunlap narrowly missed putts on both for halves. Little nearly scored a deuce on the 166 yard 30th, the ball missing the cup by an inch to give Dunlap a half. Dunlap was in the rough with his tee shot to the 31st, but earned a half with a good spoon shot through the trees. Little conceded the 32d, taking a six after trapping his second, sending his third over the green into the mud and taking two to get on from there. They divided the 33d to end the match, Dunlap missing a four foot putt for a birdie.

The cards for Munger and Marston follow:

Marston—In	433	4
Munger—In	543	5

Marston wins, 6 and 5.

Marston, Munger Halve First.

Marston and Munger halved the first hole of their morning round. Munger went one up at the second, which his opponent three putted. Marston regained the hole on the third, where Munger was all over, burying his drive, trapping his second, sending his third into the rough, and finding another trap on his fourth. Marston was nine feet from the pin in three. He trapped his second to the fourth green, however, while Munger was holing an eight footer for his par and the hole.

Munger had to work for his half on the fifth, his drive going over into the rough back of a tree. He played out to within eight feet and sank the putt for his three. Marston won the sixth with a birdie, dropping his third shot five feet from the pin. Munger was in a trap with his drive at the seventh, but got out and chipped to three feet for another half. They halved the eighth and ninth, both taking fives on the latter. Munger drove the rough and was trapped with his second shot, but his second putt caromed off Marston's ball and rolled into the cup.

Munger 1 up at Tenth.

Munger went one up again at the tenth, where Marston found a poor lie with his tee shot, and had a poor out. His pitch shot struck the cup, but went nine feet beyond the pin and he missed the putt. He sank a ten footer for a birdie at the 11th, Munger just missing one from five feet. Marston went one up at the 12th, despite the fact he missed the green with his drive.

Munger explored the forestry en route to the 13th, and lost the hole to Marston's par four, going two down. They divided the 14th and 15th, Marston dropping an 18 footer for his half at the latter. Munger retrieved a hole at the 16th, where Marston, in the rough with his drive, missed from six feet, while the Texan chipped dead from off the green. They shared the 17th in par fives, Marston chipping dead from the sloping corner off the green. Marston went two up on the 18th. Munger's second shot was over the green and he dubbed his recovery.

Marston Goes Three Up.

Marston went three up at the 19th, where Munger hooked his drive and missed his second shot. Marston's own second was trapped, but a niblick left him eight feet shy of the pin and he holed out for his par. They halved the 20th and 21st. Marston took the 22d, where he laid Munger a dead stymie after the latter was trapped with his drive and struck the bank with his explosion shot. They divided the 23d and 24th. On the latter Munger, putting for a birdie, struck Marston's ball.

Munger won the 25th with a birdie three, laying his iron shot four feet from the pin. The Texan sank a 15 footer for a half at the 26th. Marston made a fine third shot from the rough back of the trees at the 27th to share the hole.

Marston won the 28th by laying Munger another dead stymie, remarking audibly enough to those on the fringe of the green, "That's perfect!" He took the 29th with a birdie, dropping his pitch shot stiff. They halved the 30th, and Marston won the match on the 31st with a par four, Munger's brassie shot dropping short in a poor lie.

LOCK THE GATES, HERE COMES NAGURSKI!

Bronk Nagurski, once the terror of the conference when at Minnesota, is just as much a problem for the opposition in the Pro league. He'll be a Bear back against the Notre Dame all-stars today.

OPEN FOOTBALL SEASON.

Giants Jolt Cubs' Hopes, 5-1 and 4-0

Tinning's sufferings, before he could be taken out in the second, were acute, but in some strange way the Giants neglected to score. Jackson led off with a pass, and instead of awaiting developments tried to steal. Hartnett's throw nipped him. Mancuso followed with a single to left. Ryan singled to the same spot and that was the signal for Tinning's departure. Malone applied the brakes on Schumacher's double play roll to Hack.

Cubs Pass Up Opportunities.

The Cubs also enjoyed scoring possibilities in the first and second, but they proved of no account. Hack led off in the first with a safe bunt and Billy Herman forced him. Cuyler was plunked by a pitched ball. Stephenson then poked into a double play. In the second inning Camilli singled with one out, but Hartnett filed to left and Camilli was out attempting to steal.

Malone's term of service was marked by only five hits, but three of them came together in the fourth and the Giants picked up their second run. Ott fanned for a starter. Davis dropped a single over first and Jackson's low fly fell in short center for a hit. Mancuso lined into Jurges' hands. Ryan then singled to left to score Davis. Schumacher fanned for the third out.

The Cubs could show only two hits for their first five innings of waving at Schumacher, but luck gave them a break in the sixth, when they harvested their lone run. Jurges started it with a single. He was doubled on Malone's roller, but in exchange for this Jurges employed some of his rough house tactics on Critz. The Giants' second baseman had to be carried to the bench for repairs to his left foot, but returned. Then Hack singled to center and scored on Billy Herman's looping double, which Ott might have grabbed if he had not loafed.

That Funny Ninth.

The mirth provoking activity in the ninth started with Herrmann giving a pass to Jackson. Mancuso bunted to Camilli, who threw wild to Jurges at second. Ryan also bunted, and Herrmann, with ample time for a play at third, gave the ball a majestic throw high over Hack's head. Jackson scored, Mancuso went to third, and Ryan to second. Herrmann then inserted a wild pitch into the proceedings, Mancuso scoring and Ryan taking third. Ryan scored on Schumacher's fly. When Herrmann hit Moore in the ribs Henshaw was summoned to close the incident.

SECOND GAME

The Giants treated Warneke to a close shave in the third inning. Billy Herman made a whale of a stop to set down Parmelee, but Moore singled to left. Critz doubled to left center, and Moore looked upon this as a ticket good for admission to the plate. The door was slammed in his face, however, on Jurges' perfect relay throw to Hartnett.

The Cubs also kicked up a fuss in their half of the third, but it resulted in nothing more than the removal of Parmelee. The youngster walked Jurges, who was doubled on Warneke's liner to Critz. Hack then suffered the blow on the arm that removed him from action. Koenig ran for him. W. Herman and Cuyler also walked, filling the bases. Parmelee was excused and Bell stepped in to set down Stephenson on a pop foul to Terry.

Ott Hits Homer.

The next incident was Ott's homer, which sailed past the right field flag pole at the start of the fourth. Three hits induced Warneke to come across with another run in the fifth. Ryan started it with a single to center and Bell sacrificed. Moore rolled to Camilli, and it developed into a single because of Warneke's tardiness in covering first base. Critz singled to left, and Ryan scored. Demaree sprinted back to the bleacher fence in left center for Terry's fly and both runners advanced on the catch. They expired on second and third, however, when Billy Herman took Ott's popup.

Ryan opened the ninth with his third single. Bell struck out, but Moore doubled to right, putting Ryan on third. Ryan scored and Moore moved to third on a wild pitch. Critz popped out, but Terry singled to center to send Moore home.

Levinsky Bout Is Postponed Until Monday

Sammy Wolff, promoter of the Sharkey-Levinsky fight at Comiskey park, took a look at the overcast sky yesterday morning, called the weather bureau to learn that showers were a possibility during the evening, and immediately postponed the battle of heavyweights until Monday night. The decision to delay the match met with the approval of the Illinois Athletic commission and the managers of the fighters.

Wolff also announced yesterday that if the weather is unfavorable Monday the bout will go over until Tuesday.

Sharkey is scheduled to meet Tommy Loughran in Philadelphia Sept. 27. His guarantee for that fight is the same as for the Levinsky match, $25,000. It was reported yesterday that the Philadelphia boxing commission requires opponents in the principal bout to be on the scene eight days prior to the fight.

Whether Philadelphia makes an exception for Sharkey, or requires the Philadelphia promoters to set back the date of the fight, it will have no effect on the Sharkey-Levinsky bout, Wolff said.

"We might have been able to put on the fight last night, but the weather was not favorable, either to the fighters or the spectators. It is likely the fight would have been a financial failure under the circumstances," Wolff added. "You can't expect people to buy tickets with the possibility of taking a ducking."

The advance sale is more than $20,000 with $7,000 in reservations. With favorable weather Monday, Wolff hopes the gross receipts will be at least $50,000.

Rain Washes Sox Into Four Double Headers

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 15.—Four doubleheaders in four successive days is the jolly calendar confronting the White Sox after today's scheduled game with the Red Sox was called off on account of cold weather. The Saturday and Sunday double bills are to be played with the Red Sox and Monday's and Tuesday's with the New York Yankees.

The weather man does not promise that the four doubleheaders can be played. In fact he advised that tomorrow's game probably will be rained out. For that reason today's scheduled encounter was not called off until 12:30 o'clock. The mercury had failed to rise into the sixties at that time.

As a result of today's postponement Milt Gaston, who was to have started this afternoon, will have a chance to rest a while longer. Ted Lyons is slated to pitch the first game tomorrow and Joe Heving the second.

Lyons must not lose his contest if he is to avoid his biggest loss total of all time. If Ted should happen to drop tomorrow's enterprise it would be his 21st setback of the season. In 1929 Ted lost 20 while winning 14 but the next year, working with a seventh place outfit, he won 22 games, a mark said to be unparalleled by any pitcher with a seventh place team. That year all the other pitchers combined won only 40 games, and several of those 40 were saved by Lyons.

Paul Gregory, right hand pitcher sent to Milwaukee in midseason, rejoined the team, however, as did outfielder Charley Stoneham of Tulsa, and pitcher Leslie Tietje of Dallas.

POSTPONE OPEN POLO TOURNEY FOR SECOND TIME

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—The national open polo tournament was postponed for the second time today when rain and wet grounds made it impossible for inaugural matches to be played tomorrow at Meadow Brook. F. S. O'Reilly, secretary of the Polo association, said first round matches probably would be played Monday, although it is possible weather improvement might permit a start Sunday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 15.—Strength in foreign bonds, in keeping with the gains in the leading foreign exchange rates against the dollar, featured trading in bonds on the stock exchange today. Domestic corporation bonds, notably utilities and rails, were irregularly lower on the day. United States government bonds turned weak, losing 1-32 to 8-32 point for the active issues, with the exception of the fourth liberty 4¼s, which advanced 2-32 point.

Dealings in United States government long term issues were unusually heavy, aggregating $3,128,500. The total turnover for the listed bond market was $12,405,500, compared with $12,650,000 on the preceding day.

French Group Rises.

The principal gains in the foreign group ranged from 1 to 4½ points. French government issues rose 2¼ to 3 points to the highest levels at which they have sold since issuance, as did city of Marseilles 6s on a gain of 4½ points.

Other strong spots included the obligations of Dutch East Indies, Kingdom of Norway, Swiss government 5½s, and United Kindom issues. Most of the German issues were moderately higher. Latin American loans were inclined to be reactionary.

Lose Point or So.

The recessions in domestic corporation bonds were not very severe, generally amounting to a point or two in extreme cases. On the average, the utility bonds suffered most. Some of the selling of the bonds of this group, at least, was prompted by the reports that Muscle Shoals power would be sold at levels considerably under any rates now in effect in this country.

Late selling sent domestic bonds on the curb exchange generally lower. The losses ranged from 1 to 4 points, with utility bonds, which make up the bulk of the curb list, losing the most ground. Foreign loans showed minor net changes for the day.

Philadelphia Co.

Investors' Guide: Please let me know something about the condition and the rating of Philadelphia company 5 per cent series A bonds.—Mrs. F. S. N.

Answer: Philadelphia company, a subsidiary of Standard Gas and Electric company, is a holding company. Its principal subsidiaries are Duquesne Light company, which supplies electricity to an area of about 1,000 square miles, including Pittsburgh, in west Pennsylvania, and Pittsburgh Railways company, which operates about 588 miles of track in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

In 1932 about 50 per cent of consolidated gross revenues came from sale of electricity, about 30 per cent from transportation, and about 20 per cent from gas sales.

Earnings of the traction subsidiary, in line with the experience of traction companies generally, have followed a downward trend since 1928, resulting in losses for the last two years. Operations of the gas unit also resulted in losses in 1932 and 1931.

Earnings of Duquesne Light company were down about 15 per cent in 1932 from 1931.

For the 12 months to July 31, 1933, consolidated gross was $43,995,644, and charges and subsidiary preferred dividends were earned 1.57 times. Gross was $59,825,755 in the preceding 12 months and charges were earned 1.94 times.

Charges were earned 1.75 times in 1932, 2.26 times in 1931, 2.31 times in 1930, and 2.20 times in 1929.

The company finished the year in a favorable current position. Current assets, including $7,580,000 cash, totaled $15,026,000, and current liabilities, including $300,000 notes payable, were $9,937,000.

The $60,000,000 secured 5s, due 1967, are the direct obligation of the holding company and are secured by all the common stock of Duquesne Light company. They are considered sound.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Commerce

DOLLAR BRINGS LOWEST PRICE IN FIFTY YEARS

Sells at 67.49 Cents in Terms of Gold.

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—The United States dollar depreciated to a gold value of 67.49 cents, the lowest price in more than a half century, at the close of dealings in the local foreign exchange market today as the growing wave of sentiment for inflation reached new heights of enthusiasm.

All of the leading European currencies, with the exception of British pound sterling and other moneys linked to that standard, established new peak levels as a wholesale buying movement in initial deals here sent rates soaring above the former high points reached shortly after the middle of July.

French francs ran up 8½ points to 5.80½ cents; Italian lire, 11½ points to 7.80 cents; Belgian belgas, 30 points to 20.68 cents; Swiss francs, 38 points to 28.70 cents; Holland guilders, 92 points to 50.77 cents, and Spanish pesetas, 17 points to 12.39 cents.

The British pound sterling in the early transactions climbed 4⅞ cents to $4.68¼ and carried the Scandinavian currencies and the Canadian dollar higher with it. The pound closed at $4.66¾.

Canadian Dollar Up.

Canadian currency strengthened further against the American dollar. At the close the Canadian dollar was worth 96.12½ cents in New York funds, and the American dollar in Montreal was worth 104.68 cents, Canadian money.

Reflecting the wide depreciation of the dollar the official treasury gold price here jumped to $30.41 a fine ounce, against $29.77 yesterday, and a new high since the practice of fixing the valuation for newly mined metal was inaugurated a week ago today.

The fall of the dollar was linked to the persistent inflationary gossip emanating from Washington.

Pound Sterling Gains.

The weakness of the dollar in New York transactions followed a day of further dollar declines in London and continental markets. In London selling pressure against the dollar was in evidence most of the day and at one time it sent the pound up to $4.69 compared with Thursday's closing rate of $4.61¼. Opening at $4.64 in London today the pound advanced to a closing rate of $4.67¾.

The franc again showed weakness against the pound, although weakness was overshadowed by the dollar's declines. Sterling sales during the early trading in London ran the franc up to a rate of 80.50 to the pound, but later offerings of francs, attributed to official control, stopped the drift.

In Buenos Aires the American dollar dropped to 2.71 currency pesos, the lowest rate since 1929. This compares with a quotation of 4.90 last February.

DOLLAR DIPS IN PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 15.—In an atmosphere charged with inflation talk and renewed fears that France will not be able to stay on the gold much longer, the dollar fell to the lowest level since 1926 on the Paris market today. American currency closed at 17.20 francs to the dollar, 20 centimes lower than the previous bottom reached in July.

Of greatest significance in the eyes of Paris observers is the fact that the dollar did not fall alone, but carried the pound with it, leaving the franc higher and dryer than ever, compared with what the French have come to call collectively the Anglo-Saxon moneys.

While some commentators assert that this new drop of the Anglo-Saxon moneys has not been able to shake the franc, the influential Intransigeant bitterly comments that President Roosevelt is not only bound to send America along the road of inflation, but it is certain that the European currencies still on the gold will have to fall off in turn. "Not a day passes that some foreign financier does not predict the cracking of the franc," Intransigeant adds.

Bank to Close Branch.

Senator Harrison's inflation declaration was given here as the immediate cause of the new decline of the dollar, coupled with the fact that an American branch bank in Paris is forced to close—the Bankers Trust—which will officially announce the event Monday.

The authoritative financial journal Information, says that the increasing decline of American currency is going to cause other American branch banks here to follow suit.

Besides the decrease in dollar business owing to inflation in America and the resultant drop in the number of Americans able to live abroad, Information says the increasingly high French taxes are partly responsible. The Bankers' Trust taxes were quintupled because it moved its quarters from the Hotel Bristol to Place Vendome, Information reports, adding that "once more the fact is verified that taxes eat themselves up once they pass a certain level."

Further Progress on Code for Copper Group Reported

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Further progress was made this week toward smoothing out difficulties to assure 100 per cent acceptance of the copper code, it was learned in Wall street today. As a result of a meeting of copper producers here it was reported 85 per cent of the industry has agreed to the terms of the code which would improve employment conditions and harmonize production and consumption. Only one custom smelter and two small producers have not given their full approval, it was reported.

Belief Grows Inflation Is Already Here

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While the markets continue to seethe with rumors of impending inflation and predictions are being freely made in Washington and elsewhere that it is soon to come, the realization is growing in financial circles that inflation is already here.

No two experts agree as to just what inflation is, but all of them do agree that the inevitable results of inflation are a rise in price levels in terms of paper money and a rise in the price of gold.

Those things have already occurred. Gold yesterday rose to $30.41 an ounce, the highest price in more than half a century. This was the official price set for the day by the United States treasury department.

Hogs yesterday sold above $5 per hundred pounds for the first time in two months. Silver prices have been advancing. Grains held their own yesterday after several days of advancing prices. Stocks were a little weak because of unsettlement in the utilities due to talk of rate reductions, but the general tone has been bullish for some time.

* * *

The argument is frequently heard that the decline of the dollar in terms of gold has been due to the activities of speculators in the foreign exchange markets. This is true to some extent, but inasmuch as prices of commodities and securties have advanced in terms of cheapened dollars but have showed little or no gain in terms of gold it makes it impossible to believe that the old dollar-gold parity could be restored without destroying the price increases that have occured during the last few months.

The success of the NRA and the various agricultural relief plans depend largely upon a general rise in the price level. It, therefore, has become politically expedient to cheapen the dollar still further rather than push it back toward parity.

That is exactly what is happening. Gradually the dollar is cheapened and as it depreciates the paper dollar value of goods and securities increases.

* *

This process of raising prices by cheapening the dollar has been labeled "reflation" and "credit expansion," but inasmuch as more than nine-tenths of all business these days is done on a credit rather than a cash basis and the results are the same it is hard to perceive any difference between "credit expansion" and currency inflation.

What the ardent inflationists want is not something different but more of the same thing—larger doses.

With the United States off the gold standard, the dollar steadily declining, the reserve bank vaults loaded with 2 billions of "asset" money, government bonds being bought in increasing quantities by the reserve banks, the RFC pouring additional credit and cash into business, the government spending billions on public works, the administration avoiding stabilization of the currency and the price of gold mounting, all the signs of the early stages of actual inflation—or whatever you choose to call it—are unmistakably present.

The big problem will be not how to start inflation but how to stop it.

* *

In view of the administration promise to help the farmers by raising prices for their products it seems likely that the dollar will depreciate further in the near future. The various crop reduction plans, it is generally conceded, cannot boost prices soon enough to get the farmer higher prices on this year's crops.

The crops are either harvested or about to be harvested. Most farmers being short of cash and long on debts, won't hold on to their produce long. A price rise after the farmer has sold his crops would probably be worse politically than if there were no price rise at all.

ROW OVER OIL INDUSTRY PRICE FIXING FLARES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 15.—Controversy over the proposal to fix prices of petroleum products has flared up again, showing that a sharp line of cleavage on that issue still exists in the industry notwithstanding the fact that it is now being operated under the NRA code.

Following reiteration by Judge C. B. Ames, chairman of the Texas company, of opposition to the principle of price fixing, Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the Consolidated Oil corporation and well known advocate of price regulation, fired another broadside against the opponents of that policy.

"In view of the modification of the oil code approved by the President, it is to be hoped that the effort to prevent thoroughgoing price regulation will cease," said Mr. Sinclair.

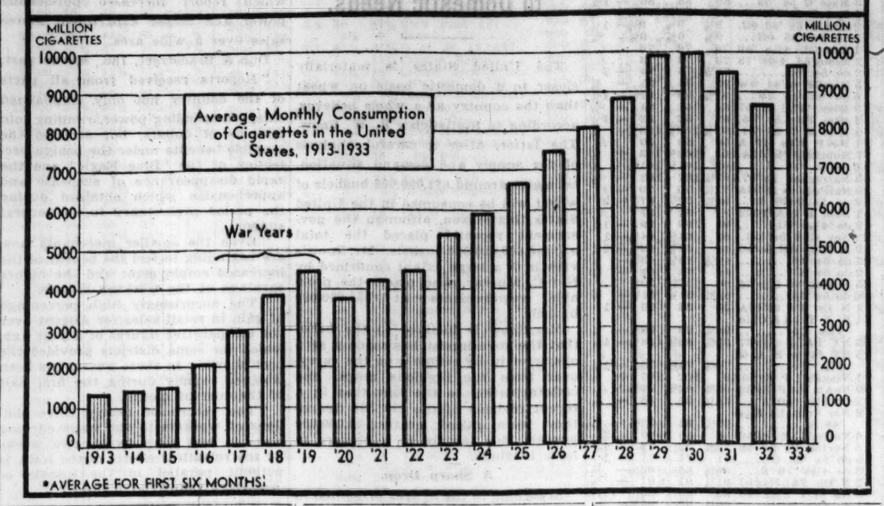
A. & P. Five Week Sales Off 4.18% from Year Ago

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the five years ended Sept. 2 were $76,004,958. This compares with $79,323,824 for the same period in 1932, a decrease of $2,318,866, or 4.18 per cent. August sales expressed in tons were estimated as 458,606 this year, compared with 490,530 in August, 1932. This is a decrease of 31,924 tons, or 6.50 per cent.

Consumption of Cigarettes Which Advanced Rapidly During War Years Has Doubled Since



750,000 More Back to Jobs in One Month

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Approximately 750,000 men and women went back to work last month, bringing to almost 2,200,000 the number of persons reemployed since last March, Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, announced today.

Factory employment in August rose 6.4 per cent and pay rolls 11.6 per cent, meaning an increase of 380,000 in the number of workers and $12,000,000 in weekly wages over the corresponding period in July, Miss Perkins said.

Gains reported continuously throughout the five months' interval now represent a return to factory employment of nearly 1,500,000 factory workers and an increase in weekly wages of $40,000,000 over the total weekly pay rolls disbursed in March.

Pay Rolls Pass Employment.

"Factory pay rolls rose faster than employment, indicating that purchasing power of factory workers was being to some extent revived," Miss Perkins said. "The continued increases on pay rolls have pushed the August index up to the highest point reached since December, 1931.

"Sixteen nonmanufacturing groups surveyed reflected the general upswing in business activity. The only exception was the telephone and telegraph group, in which slight declines in both employment and pay rolls were reported. The retail trade group reported a gain of 4.7 per cent in employment and 7.9 per cent in pay rolls.

"The adoption of the codes in the various manufacturing industries accounts largely for the increases reported in employment and pay rolls, the effect of the code in certain textile industries especially accounting for marked gains in pay rolls.

Textiles Up Most.

"The industry as a whole showed an increase of 20 per cent in pay rolls over the month interval. The shirt and collar industry showed an increase of 22.4 per cent in pay rolls between July and August."

The number of industries reporting increased employment in August exceeded that of previous months, 81 of 89 industries showing increased employment over the month. Increased pay rolls in August, as compared with July, were shown in 83 of these industries.

Changes in employment and pay rolls were reported by 18,008 establishments in 89 of the principal manufacturing industries of the United States.

Eight Report Decreases.

These establishments report 3,187,674 employés on their pay rolls during the pay period ending nearest Aug. 25 whose combined weekly earnings were $60,351,490.

The eight industries in which decreases in employment were reported were aircraft, flour, beverages, shirts and collars, knit goods, plumbers' supplies, electric railroad repair shops, and engines. These decreases ranged from 3.8 per cent in the aircraft industry to 0.5 per cent in engines. Highest employment gain in the manufacturing group was in the beet sugar industry, the rise there amounting to 55.2 per cent.

W. K. Greenebaum, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago Roosevelt Steamship line, announced yesterday that up to last night lake passenger steamships carried 798,719 passengers out of the port of Chicago during the present season.

All ships except the S. S. Roosevelt have gone into winter quarters. The S. S. Roosevelt's passenger figures for the year so far are close to 200,000.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE SEAT SELLS AT $10,000

Easterners Buy Here, Due to Transfer Tax.

A membership on the Chicago Stock exchange sold yesterday for $10,000, an advance of $100 over the previous sale. The sale was the eighth completed this week, which has seen the most active trading in memberships in a year or more. Most of the seats have been acquired by eastern interests.

The interest in seats here has been caused by the levying of additional tax on stock transfers in New York. The tax is expected to drive a substantial amount of business to other exchanges.

Means Gain for Chicago.

The Chicago market stands to gain the bulk of this business, as many of the stocks traded on the New York markets are listed here.

At the close yesterday $11,000 was the lowest price at which seats were offered. Earlier this week the best bid price was $4,400.

Trading on the exchange was quiet yesterday. Prices gave way moderately on a turnover of 42,000 shares. Losses were confined within a narrow range. Commonwealth Edison lost 1⅛ on light trading.

Levy Effective Oct. 2.

Directors of the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday approved the transfer of memberships to Frank E. Pilley, Borden Produce company, New York; Harold L. Bache, J. S. Bache & Co., New York; Henry G. Moore, Toronto, Ont., and Benjamin Glink, Chicago.

R. F. C. ASKS NEW SETUP IN FRISCO REORGANIZATION

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 15.—(AP)—The Post-Dispatch says an investigation is under way to determine if a $418,623 fund set aside by the St. Louis-San Francisco railway to further a reorganization plan included money borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Reorganization, as proposed by the former management which set aside the fund, is opposed by the R. F. C., now a creditor of more than $5,000,000 to the railroad, which is operating under the new bankruptcy law.

A plea of the Reconstruction corporation for appointment of "impartial" trustees to prepare a new and different plan for reorganization of the "Frisco" is scheduled to be heard here Monday before Federal Judge Charles B. Faris.

The application by the R. F. C. asserted the railroad's plan of reorganization would leave its capital structure little changed. No adequate proof can be offered, it was asserted, that the earnings will permanently support the structure.

A plan more nearly meeting the wishes of the R. F. C. and other stockholders might include a proposal for the consolidation of the Frisco and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, according to the Post-Dispatch.

GREAT LAKES TO GET 3 COAST GUARD CUTTERS

Three steel single screw coast guard cutters for the great lakes area will be constructed at a cost of approximately $550,000 under the shipbuilding program of the federal public works administration, according to Capt. H. R. Searles, commander of the Chicago division of the coast guard.

Bids on the new vessels will be opened in Washington Oct. 9. Actual construction is expected to begin ten days later.

Firms wishing to bid on the jobs may obtain detailed plans and specifications at the coast guard office in the new postoffice building, Capt. Searles said.

Hear Associated Apparel Bankruptcy Plea Sept. 20

A hearing on the petition in bankruptcy against Associated Apparel Industries, Inc., was set yesterday for Sept. 20 by Federal Referee Edmund D. Alcock. The case will come before the federal judge sitting in the Bankruptcy court on that day. The petition was filed Thursday in behalf of three noteholders of the Nature's Rival company, whose obligations were assumed by Associated Apparel. The petition alleged that $300,000 of Nature's Rival company's notes are due and unpaid, and $932,500 of the parent company's notes also are due.

Taps Sounded for Unusual Country Club

BY AL CHASE.

Taps were sounded yesterday for the Birchwood Country club at 1217 Chase avenue, the last organization of its kind in Chicago. The property was conveyed to the Guardian Life Insurance Company of America by the club to satisfy a mortgage which couldn't be met, due to its dwindling membership roll. From a peak roster of 275 in prosperous days the club had gradually lost members until now it has but forty.

WM. H. BRYANT. [Moffett Photo.]

According to William H. Bryant, of Joseph T. Ryerson & Co., president of the club, no plans are now being considered for reopening or reestablishing the club.

Some Would Reopen It.

He stated, however, that if business conditions improve and circumstances warrant doing so, the club might be reopened. He said that a small group of the older members are in favor of doing this.

The Birchwood Country club was established twenty-six years ago, in 1907, close to the lake shore as a social club. It has no golf course, no tennis courts, and has depended for more than two and a half decades on its dances, cards, and billiards, and bowling as its attractions. Although close to the lake, having an easement connecting it with a beach, the club closes in summer.

Once Offered $1,000 a Foot.

The clubhouse occupies a site 142x142. According to President Bryant, the organization was at one time offered $1,000 a front foot for its property. Nelson, Hunt & Co., the local correspondents of the Guardian Life, state that the property recently was appraised at $110,000. The mortgage, made in 1930, was for $35,000 and has since been paid down to $33,000. The last interest payment, due May 15, 1933, was defaulted.

At about the same time the club closed its doors for the summer season. During its twenty-six years it has numbered on its membership rolls many of the best known names in Rogers Park social circles.

Treasury Issue, Offered in Exchange, Is Subscribed

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Secretary Woodin today announced that an issue of nine month, ¼ of 1 per cent treasury certificates offered in exchange for similar securities maturing today had been completely subscribed. The issue totaled $174,905,500.

'FORCED LOAN' NOW SUGGESTED TO SAVE CREDIT OF NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—The flotation of a "forced loan" among large financial, commercial and industrial organizations operating in the metropolitan area was recommended today by Dr. Max Winkler, associate professor of economics and member of a stock exchange firm, as a means of saving New York City from threatening bankruptcy. A similar plan, he said, has been tried recently in Australia with success.

"If these enterprises, which stand to suffer most, should the city be obliged to default, could be requested to take new bonds, bearing interest at not exceeding 2½ per cent, to the extent of only 1 per cent of their resources, the municipality would obtain upward of 500 million dollars," Dr. Winkler explained. "Subscriptions should be confined to enterprises whose resources aggregate 5 million dollars or more.

"Individuals doing business in New York, assessed at 1 million dollars or more, should be requested to purchase bonds to the extent of one-half of 1 per cent of the assessment.

"The sacrifice on the part of those who would be obliged to take up bonds would be more than offset by the improvement in the credit of New York City, and the resultant effect on the price of the city's outstanding securities."

GRAIN PRICES ERRATIC; WHEAT LOSES ADVANCE

Early Upturn Due to Rise in Sterling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Conflicting influences resulted in erratic fluctuations in the grain markets yesterday within a fairly wide range. Wheat opened as much as 1⅝ cents higher as the result of a sharp upturn in sterling exchange and further inflation talk, but the buying was not sufficient to send the market into new ground for the season. December sold at 93¼ cents early, only to break to 90½ cents later with stocks and then rally to close unchanged for the day. Corn was ⅝ to ½ cent higher.

September wheat was decidedly strong early, and helped the distant futures, closing at 88⅛ cents, while December was 91⅞ to 92 cents and May 96⅛ to 96¼ cents. A strong undertone at Winnipeg was a factor in bringing about the rally from the inside level of the day. September corn was 48⅝ cents; December 52⅞ to 53 cents and May 59¼ cents at the last.

Oats market was unsettled with September ⅛ cent higher at 37⅝ cents while the distant futures were ¼ to ⅜ cents lower, December closing at 40⅜ to 40⅞ cents. Rye was ¾ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower with September at 70 cents and December 74⅛ cents. Barley was unchanged to ½ cent lower, December being 57 cents at the close.

Profit Taking in Wheat.

A number of local operators were credited with having taken profits on holdings of wheat on the early bulge, and later the break in stocks tended to increase pressure. Winnipeg, however, reversed its action of Thursday and held firm throughout the day, closing ¼ cent higher with the largest export business in some time reported. A total of 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 bushels was reported as having been sold to the United Kingdom and the continent for October shipment. Exporters were credited with having absorbed practically all of the hedging sales at Winnipeg during the day.

North Pacific coast wheat is selling relatively close to the Canadian article at Vancouver, according to a comparison of the prices prevailing there. Seattle, Wash., September delivery closed yesterday at 69 cents per bushel, with the December at 74½ cents. While these prices are 17½ to 19 cents under the same futures in Chicago they are only 4½ to 8 cents below Winnipeg when the latter prices are reduced to the basis of United States funds.

A formal hearing was held at Portland, Ore., yesterday to consider the exportation of 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 bushels of American wheat through the assistance of a government subsidy, as provided for under the terms of the agricultural adjustment act.

Liverpool wheat showed relatively independent strength and closed equal to ¾ to ⅞ cents higher, the sharp advance in sterling being a factor.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

As has been the case throughout the last week the country took advantage of the minor upturns in corn futures to sell old grain freely and local handlers were estimated to have bought 305,000 bushels to arrive during the day, making around 1,500,000 bushels that have been bought in the last five days. The hedges against this grain were absorbed without affecting the market to any great extent.

A forecast for rain over a large part of the corn belt was regarded as unfavorable for maturing the late grain. In parts of Ohio the corn was reported as starting to mould.

SEARS, ROEBUCK SPENDS MORE IN ILLINOIS IN 1932

Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s expenditures in Illinois last year were 8 per cent above 1931, according to M. C. Penticoff, Chicago district manager. The largest part of the increase was spent for larger purchases of merchandise from Illinois industries, he said. Mr. Penticoff pointed out that the increase in expenditures took place while economic conditions were growing worse.

A statistical report prepared by the company shows that its expenditures in Illinois were $115,810,735 in the three depression years of 1931-'32-'33. Of this total $92,455,046 was spent for merchandise from 1,273 manufacturers in 91 cities of the state; $14,711,032 went for salaries and wages of resident employés; $2,989,355 for newspaper advertising, and $3,339,863 for rents and taxes.

LIFE INSURANCE IN FIRST GAIN FOR SIX MONTHS

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—New life insurance production in August was 3.1 per cent greater than in the same month a year ago and reversed the trend of the preceding six months.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents reported today that the total August production was $688,620,000, against $667,918,000 in the same month a year ago.

Total new business for the first eight months of 1933 was 18.7 under a year ago, the comparable figures being $5,180,073,000, against $6,368,527,000.

Says Straus Unit Deals in Bonds of Old Company

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—William R. Gillespie testified in bankruptcy hearing today that the Straus Securities corporation, created last March, has been dealing since then in the bonds issued by the defunct S. W. Straus & Co. Gillespie is treasurer of both concerns. Some of the bonds issued by Straus & Co. at $100 have been purchased by Straus Securities and sold for $10 of $15, he told Special Master John E. Joyce.

Senator Asks President to Aid Inflation

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Declaring there had been no real expansion of credit and currency through steps already taken by the administration, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, chairman of the banking and currency committee, today urged the President to resort to the issue of treasury notes provided in the Thomas inflation amendment. He also favored greater buying of government obligations.

DUNCAN FLETCHER [Fotograms.]

"The reserve banks should be directed to buy not less than one hundred millions of government bonds weekly," Senator Fletcher said, "and the treasury should issue a like amount of new treasury notes with which to buy the bonds issued for the public works program.

"The effect on the public will be to accomplish the great result discussed by the President in his inaugural address, which I paraphrase: 'The greatest thing we have to fear is fear itself.' The people must be made to know that money in terms of both currency and bank credit shall not be beyond their ability to obtain, the fear and vacillating attitude of some bankers notwithstanding.

Drive Credit Into Trade.

"It is within the power of the administration through these two operations to drive credit and currency from the cloistered shelter and security of investment in government obligations into the channels of legitimate commerce and trade.

"The limit of purchases should not, in my estimation, be restricted to the emergency relief construction bonds, but should include all government obligations, particularly those bearing high rates of interest. The use of new treasury notes in payment for bonds purchased in the open market will reduce the holdings of these securities by the reserve banks and member banks, and in equal amounts will either increase the reserves of member banks with the federal reserve banks or reduce their indebtedness. To the extent that these bonds are purchased from individuals, it will result in the creation of either demand or savings deposits in commercial banks.

Causes Rise in Values.

"During the last two weeks when the reserve banks bought an increased amount of government bonds—thereby expanding member bank reserves in a like amount—another revival of the rise of property value resulted. This rise must be continuous. Since this administration came in there has been an increase in the value of corporate securities alone of approximately sixteen and one-half billions of dollars. For every legitimate rise of one dollar per share in the securities of approximately five hundred thousand corporations in the United States it means about one and one-half billions of dollars' increase in the value of the property of shareholders. This alone is an immediate contribution to the purchasing power of twenty million shareholders."

Senator Fletcher declared that "the American people have a right to know from the leaders of the administration what the national policy is."

Credit Men's Association to Have Outing Next Week

The Chicago Association of Credit Men will hold a two day outing at Crystal Lake Country club Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 23 and 24.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—The German statistical office announced today an improvement of Germany's foreign trade which raised her surplus of exports over imports from 25,100,000 marks in July to 65,700,000 marks in August. Statistically, and save for the exceptional month of May, this is the best showing made so far this year.

August trade figures were awaited with especial interest because they were to provide a test for the effectiveness of the anti-German boycott started in many parts of the world in retaliation against the anti-Jewish boycott of the Nazis.

The analysis reveals, first of all, that the figures don't quite mean what they say. But even taking them at face value, a comparison with the corresponding figures of other countries reveals that while all have lost in the world depression Germany has lost by far the most.

Germany's loss, however, is far greater because a substantial part of her exports is artificial export from which she receives either a reduced return or no return at all, for approximately 20 million marks' worth of her exports is financed each month with block marks or with her depreciated dollar bonds purchased abroad. This process of using her debts to push her exports entails a nominal loss but has enabled her to dump her goods in world markets in competition with the depreciated currencies of other countries and also helped her to reduce her foreign debt by some 6,500,000,000 marks since the middle of 1931.

Far more serious is the loss she suffered from the flight of capital owned by emigres whom the Nazis have forced out of the country. Since these emigres, mostly Jews and "liberals and Marxists," are permitted to take out of the country only a very limited amount many of them export German goods and sell them abroad without returning any of the money to Germany.

NEW YORK PLAN FOR ECONOMIES STRIKES SNAGS

Government Cost Is Far Over Budget.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 15.—Gov. Lehman's economy program for New York state is running into difficulties. Instead of the state government costing $212,000,000 for the current fiscal year, supposedly a marked reduction from the $276,000,000 in the preceding year, the taxpayers actually will have to produce $326,000,000.

This disquieting information was disclosed yesterday by the officials of a number of organizations which are trying to reduce the cost of government.

Further, it was disclosed that the apparent saving of $64,000,000 as compared with the preceding year is more apparent than real, due to devious bookkeeping methods, debt postponements, and other financial makeshifts.

Critics of the financial policy of the Lehman government assert that so far accomplishments in the way of economy have been largely "paper savings"—good mainly for Democratic "thunder" for use in the next campaign.

One "Saving" Must Be Paid.

Analyzing the supposed $64,000,000 savings, these critics assert that $25,000,000 of it will have to be paid out of next year's taxes. The $25,000,000 reduction was listed in the governor's message to the legislature under the head of "State Aid for Education."

On the surface it was made to appear that the state treasury would pay $25,000,000 less this year to localities than it did last year. However, it was found that since some of the localities would not need their allowances until after Jan. 1, the state could postpone its appropriations for them until after the new state fiscal year, when they would have to be produced.

Of the other $35,000,000 of "savings," the principal item was $18,000,000. This was explained as having been attained by stopping all construction of new highways and buildings, except those paid for by bond issues, and by eliminating or cutting down state aid to county and town highways, save for the absolute needs for maintenance. Administration critics are asking what effect this will have on popular sentiment, with the general demand for good road construction as a measure of relief for the idle.

Legislature Makes One Cut.

The critics assert that of the actual saving in the state budget, some $4,000,000 was pruned off the governor's rock bottom budget by the legislature, where control is divided between the two major parties. The governor's recommendation called for an expenditure of $216,212,455 to run the state government, and the legislature decided $212,000,000 would be sufficient.

Theoretically, the $212,000,000 is the budget. However, enough taxes must be raised to meet bills and salary requirements aggregating $326,000,000. The difference between the budget and the sum the taxpayers will have to provide is the deficit of some $114,000,000 which Franklin D. Roosevelt left when he went to the White House. Incidentally, it is pointed out that when Al Smith turned over the state government to Mr. Roosevelt he left him a surplus of $50,000,000.

Critics of Gov. Lehman state that he missed a great chance to secure real economy when he failed to insist that the state's $100,000,000 annual educational bill be reduced, even though the appropriations come under the head of "fixed" charges, being based on prorated assessments by the affected communities. The teachers' association, with its 75,000 members, is one of the most powerful and active political units in the state. Since 95 per cent of the appropriations in this division go for teachers' salaries, it is recognized that paring the appropriations would start trouble.

Expect No Economy Here.

It is pointed out that late in the summer Gov. Lehman went through the motions of endeavoring to find a way to reduce the educational expenditures by appointing a commission to study the subject and submit recommendations. Since a number of the members of the commission are known to favor "liberal expenditures for public education," friends of economy have little hope for worthwhile results here.

Analysis of the governor's boasted savings through cuts in salaries of state employés discloses that only about one-fourth of the workers have had their pay reduced. The governor did lop $5,000 off his salary, but he is wealthy and it is said the reduction meant little to him.

It is notorious that some departments of the state government are heavily overstaffed, but the governor has done nothing about this to date.

Need $80,000,000 in New Tax.

Critics of the régime assert that to meet the governor's so-called economies the taxpayers will have to dig up at least $80,000,000 in new taxes imposed by the legislature at the governor's suggestion, after it got through trimming the budget. These new levies will appear chiefly under the heads of a 2 per cent sales tax and increased income taxes. Another bill which the taxpayers likely will have to face will be a $60,000,000 bond issue for the relief of the idle which the last legislature put up to the voters for decision at the next election.

Finally, the fact that New York's state government bill has grown from $95,000,000 in 1919, the year after the world war, to $326,000,000 in this period, when private business and individuals are having to effect the strictest economies, is giving the taxpayers food for thought.

PRICES OF HOGS RISE SHARPLY; THEN EASE LOWER

The hog market fluctuated rather wildly on a higher price level early yesterday, but quieted down abruptly in midsession and finished with practically all of the early gains rubbed out. Prices started out unevenly 10 to 25 cents higher, all classes sharing in the full early strength. Top sales reached $5.00, equaling the highest price paid at Chicago since June 3. The general average for the whole session at $4.25 was up 10 cents.

Most of the smaller houses balked at the opening and some remained entirely out of the market when prices advanced. It was soon found that there was less in the back of the upturn than traders had at first supposed and buyers located a good many weak spots in the trade for what remained after early buyers had taken their pickings of the best selections at the higher quotations.

25 Cents Under Close.

Many of the closing sales were as much as 25 cents under the high point of the forenoon. Medium and weighty butchers showed most unevenness during the day, rising to the full strength early and falling hardest at the finish. Offerings of commercial hogs were about average, the run at the eleven leading markets at 64,000, exclusive of pigs intended for the government, comparing with 61,000 a year ago and with 60,000 two years ago.

Fewer pigs arrived for the government yesterday, the Chicago slaughter being several thousand short of the daily quota for this point, while the 20 leading markets received 104,000, against 139,000 Friday of last week. Several packing houses were scouring the yards late yesterday for pigs that were eligible to the bonus, and some said they were in position to handle more pigs than they have been getting the last few days.

Take No Responsibility.

While arrangement had been made to clear some of the nonpermit pigs from the drought sections, the Chicago office of the A. A. A. wishes to make it clear that the government will not be responsible for any of the nonpermit pigs which fail to bring the $5.00 to $9.50 bonus prices. About 7,000 pigs here against orders were in the pens at the finish yesterday.

The 20 leading markets thus far have slaughtered 2,796,000 pigs for the account of the government, with the total for the entire country estimated at 3,300,000. Chicago to date has killed 440,000 light pigs, 84,000 heavy pigs, and 24,000 piggy sows.

Cattle Prices Steady.

The quality of yesterday's cattle run was plain and prices maintained a mostly steady basis, but were mostly above the low point of the week and unevenly steady to 25 cents higher than a week ago. Nothing very good was in the receipts. A few head of steers averaging 1,446 pounds reached $6.50, while the top for full carload lots was halted at $6.25.

Butcher stock showed no change yesterday, but cows still are 10 to 15 cents lower than a week ago. Heifers scored a sharp rally the last two days and are selling 35 to 50 cents over the week's low spot and 25 cents higher than a week ago.

Light receipts drove best grades of lambs up 25 cents yesterday, while the bulk of others sold steady. Natives comprised the bulk and sold at $7.25 to $7.50 to packers. Shorn westerns sold at $6.65.

LARD STRONG

Lard stocks in Chicago are 119,431,334 pounds, a decrease in the last two weeks of 8,016,407 pounds. A year ago they were only 44,917,423 pounds. Stocks of dry salted clear bellies are 29,246,936 pounds, against 23,901,550 pounds two weeks ago. A year ago there were only 14,073,264 pounds.

Lard futures were stronger despite the weakness in stocks, and closed with net gains of 5 cents on all futures except January, which gained 7½ cents. Trading was fair. Hog market was unsettled, with liberal supplies all around. Cash lard was 5 cents higher for regular at $5.82½, with loose up 7½ cents to $5.12½, and leaf gained 12½ cents, with trading at $5. Bellies for future delivery were unchanged, and cash lots were advanced 12½ cents to a basis of $5.87½. Prices follow:

STOCKS DOWN 1 TO 3 POINTS ON NRA VIEWS

Inflation Reports Also Are Factors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 15.—Dripping skies and raw southeast winds made Wall street a gloomy place today and the introspective trader found plenty of time to mull over his doubts and uncertainties. The net results of his doubts showed up in the final stock market returns, where recessions of 1 to 3 points were the rule.

The brokerage house liaison sharks thought the turnabout from yesterday's display of inflationary enthusiasm might be hooked up in some measure with a growing conviction that the NRA program is not going to pan out with anything like the results anticipated. Some commentators profess to see evidence of similar misgivings in high official headquarters, in the stentorian demands for currency inflation now being sounded by close friends of the administration.

See Dollar Devaluation.

These profess to think that the conflagration of industry has already gone far enough to show that something else is needed to give commodity prices the boost anticipated in the recovery scheme and that administration outriders are setting about to prepare public opinion for the next experiment of dollar devaluation.

Coupled with comment along this line the market was called upon to shoulder some fresh predictions that France is preparing to go off the gold standard, thus further disrupting the world's monetary systems. Rumors to this effect have been coming across the Atlantic at irregular intervals for months now, but they rarely fail to have an adverse effect on the market no matter how familiar they sound. Evidently they found just as many believers as ever today.

Hit by Utility Position.

Still another drag on speculative sentiment was the government's overnight announcement on the sale of Muscle Shoals power to municipalities at "cut" rates. This pulled the utilities group down sharply and had its effect on other groups of the list. The inference drawn from the publicity given to the government's offer was, of course, that the cost of service rendered by privately operated companies elsewhere is excessive.

Such shares as Standard Gas and Electric, Peoples Gas, Public Service, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, and Detroit Edison slid off 2 to 3 points on the day's dealings.

Repeal stocks had one of their rare "off" days and National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, Crown Cork and Seal, and Commercial Solvents surrendered anywhere from 2 to 4 points of their lately won profits. Selling in the group was put down to the account of realizing.

Make Best Showing.

About the best group showings of the day were made by the gold mining and tobacco issues. Dollar weakness on the London exchange on beliefs of early inflation sent Homestake Mining to a new alltime high of 331½ and boosted Alaska Juneau and others of the sector along with it. Early losses were shaved somewhat in the later trading, however. The tobaccos were pepped up by revived rumors of a coming boost in cigaret prices.

Motor stocks, which splurged a bit yesterday, were under difficulties today. It was thought that the heavy liquidation in the utilities group was affecting them adversely.

Estimates of a greater than seasonal decline in carloadings combined with the poor tone of the market to bring fairly heavy selling into the rails and losses in New York Central, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, and other trading favorites ran to nearly 5 points.

TREASURY MEN PLANNED TO SAVE BANKS, JURY TOLD

Couzens' Denouncement "Not Understood."

Tribune Press Service.]

D... h., Sept. 15.—Ernest C. Kanzler, former chairman of the Guardian bank group board, told the bank grand jury today that the plan to aid the group by organizing the Wolverine Mortgage company to purchase mortgage assets with money borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance corporation originated with the treasury department in Washington. He said that Senator James Couzens had denounced this plan as "iniquitous."

Kanzler named Arthur A. Ballantyne, former undersecretary, and Alfred P. Leyburn, former chief federal reserve examiner for the Seventh district, as the men who suggested the plan.

Kanzler was attacking the recent testimony of Senator Couzens, who, from the witness stand, had denounced the mortgage company plan of refinancing the group. The witness said Leyburn's reason for suggesting this method be adopted was that the Guardian group units throughout the state formed a "spinal column" which could, if kept intact, save the banking system of the whole state.

Couzens' Criticism Not Understood.

Kanzler said the criticism of Senator Couzens was not understood because he [Couzens] at one time during the negotiations of the Guardian group had sanctioned a loan of $3,700,000 to the group on the exact plan by which the controller of the currency is now reopening 53 banks throughout Michigan.

Answering a question asked by Judge Harry B. Keidan, Kanzler said there was no truth in the testimony given by Senator Couzens that the officers of the trust company knew in January, 1932, that the institution was hopelessly insolvent and had been so for a long time. Kanzler added that the examining committee's reports show that the company is still solvent.

It was brought out in today's testimony that by the time he registered at a Detroit hotel and the time he left his home in Louisville, Ky., Paul C. Keys, first conservator to reach Detroit, left his home before it had been definitely decided that a Michigan bank holiday would be declared, so far as Michigan men knew.

Investigate with Great Care.

It was learned today that the department of justice in Washington is proceeding with the greatest care in the investigation of the banking situation in this city. According to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, every charge is being carefully investigated to be sure that if charges are preferred they are founded on facts.

To the present there has been no statement indicating the discovery of any sort of criminality in connection with the banks.
